WILLIAM T. ANDERSON, Who Will Command Eleventh Police Precinct.

(Continued from First Page.) until 1 o'clock, when he attended the alumni dinner, at University Hall. Degrees Conferred. Exactly one dozen honorary degrees were awarded by Yale University today at the annual commencement exercises. The names of those thus honored and the degrees conferred on them are as follows: Degree of master of arts, Dr. Joseph A. Blake, professor of surgery at Columbia University, New York; John Marshall Holcombe, president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn.; Dr. John P. C. Foster, New Haven, Yale '68; Prof. Henry E. Krepplie, Musical Critic New York Tribune, New York; degree of doctor of science, Edward W. Morley, West Hartford, Conn.; professor of chemistry, at Western Reserve since 1886, and now emeritus, Dr. William Thompson, Sedgwick, professor of biology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston; Eliakim H. H. Moore, head of the department of mathematics at the University of Chicago; Degree of doctor of divinity: Rev. Edward Caldwell Moore, professor of theology at Harvard; Bishop William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts.

The following promotions and changes in the Police Department, which will become effective tomorrow, were announced today: Lieut. William T. Anderson, of the Fifth precinct, detailed at the Anacostia station, promoted to a captaincy. Acting Lieut. William H. Harrison, of the Sixth precinct, formerly detailed at the White House, to be a full lieutenant. Sergt. C. L. Pemmons, detailed as an inspector, to be an acting lieutenant. Michael J. Reidy, acting sergeant at the Anacostia station, to be a full sergeant. Bicycle Policeman James G. McQuade, of the Second precinct, to be an acting sergeant. Private Avory E. Smott, mounted on a bicycle. The promotions were made in accordance with the appropriation bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1909, which provides for a captain at Anacostia, which will be a full precinct, and for the Eleventh police precinct. Heretofore Sub-District. The Anacostia station has always been a sub-district of the Fifth precinct, under the supervision of the captain of that precinct, but the steady growth in population in that section of the District during the last few years has been so rapid and the territory covers so much ground that the superintendent of police recommended a year ago that it be made a separate precinct. Lieutenant Anderson has been in command of the Anacostia station almost continuously since 1885, and as the officer whose appointment to take charge of the new precinct seemed most logical, he has the record, and is thoroughly familiar with the conditions in this section. His promotion was unanimously urged by the people of Anacostia and Good Hope. Ever since the last appropriation bill providing for the new precinct was passed by Congress, expectations have been written on the face of almost every officer of the department, who hoped that he might be standing under the plum tree when it was shaken by the end of the department. It is doubtful that had ever been waged before in the history of the Police Department. Fought For Places. So much energy was displayed by some of the bluecoats in seeking promotions that Major Sylvester gave out a statement several weeks ago, in which he said that certain members of the force were engaged in "perpetual activity," and that such candidates would not have much show. Hartman was at the wheel, while just beside him, touching his shoulder, stood Freeman. The latter turned his head to the right to look at a black cloud, when there was a terrible crash, and Freeman saw his companion lifted into the air and hurled in front of him on feet away into the river. Hartman's coat seemed cut to shreds, and his body struck the water, sinking immediately without making a sound. Freeman was not touched by this bolt. The bolt cut a large rope in the steering gear, and smashed a hole as big as a man's head, in the canoe on the launch. The men on the big steamer, 500 yards away, sent a hurried alarm. Freeman, they brought his launch over to the big steamer, and later took him to Mt. Holly, where he wired to his folks in Washington.

HARTMAN'S DEATH TOLD BY FREEMAN Survivor of Accident on Launch Tells How Lightning Struck Friend.

Roy A. Freeman, a clerk in the Department of Commerce and Labor, residing at 46 V street northwest, returned this morning from a trip down the river, a survivor of a remarkable accident. He carries with him the memory of the death of his friend, Alfred Hartman, struck by lightning and instantly killed. Freeman and Hartman started on a vacation trip Friday, June 18, in a launch owned by themselves and another young man. Their course lay across the bay to Crisfield, 120 miles away. On Monday they came to the Potomac, making their way slowly home. One storm came up and they put into Nomini creek until it passed over. They had started for Colonial Beach, when another squall came on them suddenly. Lightning flashes appeared to be a considerable distance away.

DAMAGE IS $500 IN EARLY BLAZE Fire shortly before 1 o'clock this morning did $500 damage to the cooper shop of Benjamin Gaskins, 1035 Thirtieth street northwest. The blaze started in the rear of the building. Fire was discovered early this morning in the building occupied by the Armour Packing Company, at 223 B street northwest. Stock valued at about $900 was destroyed.

GATCHELL'S WILL FILED FOR PROBATE By his will, dated May 12, 1909, and filed for probate today, Everett T. Gatchell, whose body was found last week in a bathing crib near the Virginia and Old Point bridge, provides that 25 per cent of the estate is to go to John P. Gatchell, who is named as executor.

TO CROSS CHANNEL. CALAIS, June 28—Herbert Latham, Count de Lambert and Henri Parnam are on the coast near Calais awaiting favorable weather conditions to attempt an aeroplane flight across the English channel for a prize of $5,000 offered by a London paper.

TRIALS IN CANADA. OTTAWA, Ontario, June 29.—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, Washington, and F. W. Baldwin have gone to Petawawa military camp, near Ottawa to conduct the first airship maneuvers under military auspices in Canada. Trial flights will take place early in July.

PLAGUE KILLS 177. AMOY, June 29.—Official reports say 177 persons died from bubonic plague in Amoy in the last fortnight. Native reports show "improved" health conditions in the larger interior towns, but some small villages have had their populations decimated in the month.

KAISER ABANDONS TRIP. BERLIN, June 29.—Emperor William has definitely given up his customary summer yachting trip to the North sea, according to the Tagliche Rundschau, and will remain in Germany until the present political crisis reaches a settlement.

ed a private of the police force July 23, 1873. After doing duty in the old Fifth and Eighth precincts, he was promoted, in 1885, to be a mounted sergeant and placed in charge of the Anacostia substation. On July 1, 1906, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant of the Fifth precinct. Lieutenant Harrison was formerly detailed at the White House, but recently has been in charge of the Sixth precinct at night. He has an excellent record as an officer. Home Office Determined. It has been the practice to prosecute suffragettes arrested during such demonstrations as that of last night, as minor offenders, but the home office has determined that they be charged with rioting and attacking police officers in the discharge of their duty. While the authorities are increasing their severity, in the prosecution of the suffragettes, it was apparent during last night's demonstration that the latter are rapidly gaining public favor. A crowd of 100,000 persons who watched the attempt of the deputation headed by the aged Mrs. Fankhurst, who has already served a prison term for the cause, to gain access to the parliament buildings and see Premier Asquith, were with the militant women in their endeavors to break through the cordon of police surrounding the parliament buildings. Crowds Cheer Deputation. The deputation was greeted with wild cheers, and when Mrs. Fankhurst and her deputation attacked the policemen who delivered a note telling the women that Asquith was unable to see them, a large part of the crowd closed in to help the women escape. While this tumultuous mob battled with the police, a second deputation of women accompanied by several hundred suffragettes and led by a buxom beauty mounted on a horse, tried to force their way through the underground passage to Westminster bridge. A force of police barred the way, and for two hours, re-enforced by the crowd of spectators, the women struggled to pass the cordon. In the course of this struggle, about 100 persons were trampled under foot, stabbed with hat pins, and bruised by stones which were thrown at the police. This mob was dispersed after the police had dragged the equestrian leader of the suffragettes from her saddle, and arrested about a score of her followers.

HARVARD STUDENTS RECEIVE DEGREES Occasion Made Notable by Many State and College Officials.

BOSTON, June 30.—With the presence of President Lowell, President Emeritus Eliot, Governor Draper of Massachusetts, and a host of both State and college officials, to make the occasion especially notable, Harvard University today sent out another class into the world. The first event was the meeting of the board of overseers in University Hall. Then began the formation of the procession to Sanders' Theater, where the degrees were conferred. The speakers represented the college and University. From the college four speakers were chosen by competition. They were Fletcher Nelson Robinson, of Southern Pines, N. C.; Hans von Kattenburg, of Madison, Wis.; Godfrey Dewey, of Florida, N. Y., and Sidney Flske Kimball, of Dorchester. Following the conferring of degrees there were many class reunions in the various dormitories in the yard. This afternoon the principal event in the meeting of the Alumni Association. Through his private secretary, Charles Eliot, president of Harvard University, today denies officially the story printed this morning, that the alumni of the university had given him a fund of $200,000 for his private use during life. The secretary said that part of a fund was given to Dr. Eliot weeks ago, but that the amount has been exaggerated. Dr. Eliot will make no statement as to the extent of the fund.

CHILD'S FUN DISASTROUS. HORNELL, N. Y., June 29.—"Archie" King, eight years old, found a can of powder which had been thrown away, and invited a number of children to come and "hear the big noise." When the children had gathered, King is said to have dropped a lighted match in the can, with the result that an explosion followed, injuring four children. King and a two-year-old child, Ella Eister, were so badly injured that they are said to be dying. The other injured will recover.

NO WHEAT DUTY. VANCOUVER, B. C., June 29.—Owing to severe drought conditions in Mexico that government has abolished the duty on wheat until September 15, 1910, according to advices received here. This means that the export of Alberta grain to Mexico this season will be large.

Mounted Patrolman. Michael J. Reidy, who becomes a full sergeant, is one of the most popular men on the force. He has been in charge of the Anacostia station at night during the time he has served as acting sergeant, and has a good record. For years Reidy patrolled on horseback the long beat extending along the Good Hope road. He has figured in many important cases, and Major Sylvester paid him a marked compliment when he said Reidy had not tried to use any "pull" to get promoted. "Jim" McQuade, as he is familiarly known, is also one of the popular men on the force. The officers at the Second precinct say he is a good policeman, which is about the highest compliment that a captain or lieutenant can pay a private. It means that he has been attentive to duty, a good record, keeps his head when there is excitement, and is capable of using discretion when the occasion demands. McQuade and Reidy have both done a good many things that have been brought to the attention of the head of the department, and on more than one occasion Major Sylvester has told them that they were the kind of men he wanted to keep on the force. No appointment has been made to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Acting Sergeant Flenmons. Major Sylvester has recommended that four lieutenants be appointed to act as inspectors, but as there is no appropriation available, he will probably appoint four acting lieutenants to do the work.

The cashier and secretary of the bank arrived here today looking for the missing president. The bank continues to do business.

INSISTS ON PRISON TERMS FOR WOMEN British Home Office Orders Prosecutors to Take Vigorous Action.

LONDON, June 29.—Pointing out in no uncertain terms that the suppression of suffragette demonstrations has cost the authorities about $50,000 during the past year, the home office today, in a communication to the police court prosecutor, ordered that the 108 women and 41 men arrested during the disorders about the parliament buildings last evening, be summarily dealt with. The home office communication instructs the prosecutors to demand that the prisoners be given long terms at hard labor. Home Office Determined. It has been the practice to prosecute suffragettes arrested during such demonstrations as that of last night, as minor offenders, but the home office has determined that they be charged with rioting and attacking police officers in the discharge of their duty. While the authorities are increasing their severity, in the prosecution of the suffragettes, it was apparent during last night's demonstration that the latter are rapidly gaining public favor. THE HONORABLE JEFF CARES NOT FOR CUSTOM Story of How Statesman From Arkansas Threw Decorum to the Winds and Passed Up a White House Invitation.

This is the saddest story ever told about the Hon. Jeff Davis, Senator from the famous rough and ready State of Arkansas. It is the unvarnished narrative of the unmitigated snafroid with which he knocked the spots off the social code as it is understood in Washington. It is the plain tale of how, without the slightest savoir-faire, he took his stand upon the fragments and the flinders of decorum and told the polite world to chase itself up and down the block. It might have made a great hit in Arkansas, but it didn't go worth a cent in this lovely city, the Nation's Pride. The Honorable Davis, and there exists no more muscular orator in the Senate, received an invitation to the alfresco roof garden dinner that President Taft gave last Monday evening to a company of thirty-five members of the House and Senate. There was no doubt about that. The invitation reached him, and he realized that he was elected. He was to sit at the President's table, hear the breezes whisper through the trees, and enjoy all the comforts of a good dinner in a cool place. The Honorable Davis, after a struggle with that modesty which so well becomes him, accepted the invitation. What else was he to do? Of course, he accepted. He sent to the White House his formal notice that he would break bread with the head of that party which, according to the Honorable Davis, belonged to the "trusts" heart and soul. The hour for the dinner arrived. All the invited guests arrived, all but the POOR MONTH FOR CUPID. Cupid and his assistant, Marriage License Clerk Russell P. Belew, are puzzled today. June, the month of brides, roses, rice, old shoes, has recorded but 400 happy couples in 1909, nearly 100 less than those who walked hand in hand to the Hymeneal altar during the same month last year. Cupid's arrows bristling from their hearts, and the license issued by Belew in their hand. KAISER SEES FIRE. KIEL, June 29.—Striking street cleaners of Kiel poured petroleum over street cleaning property in a municipal warehouse and set it on fire. A watchman was burned to death. Emperor William saw the fire from the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern and ordered that a special report be made.
