

THOUSANDS HELPED BY "PRISONERS' AID"

Work of Association for Past Ten Years Reviewed at Meeting.

In the ten years in which it has been operating in Washington, the Prisoners' Aid Society has assisted 23,000 men and women who appeared to be in the "down and out" class. In this work about $50,000 has been expended, and so much has the work been appreciated by the beneficiaries that they have returned $46,000 to the association.

The ten years' work was reviewed last night at a meeting at the home of Bishop Harding, which was attended by a large number of charity workers. Judge Charles S. Bundy declared that the association had been of inestimable value in assisting the fallen to their feet. Hundreds of the men and women who had been aided when drunk and crime had the better of them, had seen their way to a better life through the efforts of the association, he said.

A part of the program last night consisted in the reading of letters from the former beneficiaries of the association. They were unanimous in expressing gratitude for the help that had been given them by Agent C. A. Massie, "the prisoners' friend," in the name of the association.

1,700 umbrella "seconds" at half & less

Remember the many stormy days ahead. We closed out every Umbrella "second" that the maker had. It represented the accumulation of months. These are from a maker who is known for his scrupulous honesty, and if an umbrella cover contains an enlarged or dull thread, out of the perfect class it comes. Nine out of ten people would never detect these imperfections, and unhesitatingly say that they are as good for general usage, and will wear as long, as though perfect. Note how low sale prices are:

These are in all the popular colors of the season, most greens, gendarme blue, garnet, burgundy red, dead rose, gray, black smoke, and many other wanted shades.

THE OTHER BROADCLOTH LINE is made up in a perfectly plain tailored style, 42 to 45 inch coat, has mannish pockets and sleeves. The skirt is in a very stylish cluster-pleated effect. This suit also is of the chiffon finished broadcloth, and both styles are lined with a fully guaranteed satin. All the wanted colors.
