Soldiers Charge Protesting Crowd and Fallieres' Life Is Threatened.

HUNDREDS INJURED BY MOUNTED POLICE

Situation Considered Serious and Additional Troops Rushed to Scene.

PARIS, July 1.—The Paris populace is in a state of rage over the guillotining of Labeuf, the Apache, in the prison Sante on the Boulevard Arago at day-break for the murder of a policeman.

Scenes of riot occurred all along the length of the boulevard when the knife fell this morning. Scores of shots being fired by the revolutionists gathered to protest against the execution. Police with drawn swords, and soldiers, with fixed bayonets, repeatedly charged the crowds.

At least 100 injured men are being cared for in the hospitals, and it is feared that many of them will die.

The streets in the vicinity of the prison are still crowded with cheering, hooting revolutionists and open threats against the life of President Fallieres are being made. On all hands it is admitted that the situation is grave, and the government is rushing additional troops into the city.

This afternoon there was a fresh demonstration by thousands of revolutionists and socialists and a parade was started in the Champs Elysee, the objective point being the home of President Fallieres.

The President is fully protected, and it is not believed the protestants will engage in more than a verbal attack.

Among those wounded at the time of the execution were two policemen, one of whom died.

Executioner Diebler was found late yesterday at the watering place, where he was spending his vacation, and rushed to the city to perform his gruesome task.

Last Words a Protest.

Labeuf went to the guillotine with the pose of a martyr, and his attitude has helped inflame the revolutionists. Just before his head was placed on the block he struck a dramatic attitude and shouted to the gathered crowd:

"I protest against my execution."
Then the knife fell.

During the night it was expected there would be rioting in the streets on the part of his friends, and extraordinary preparations were made. The disorder became so great that mounted troops charged the crowds.

As day dawned the mob which had gathered through the night shouted death for President Fallieres for signing the death warrant. Labeuf and his friends maintained that Labeuf in his murder of the policeman was simply avenging himself upon organized society for a wrong done him by two other policemen. These arrested him last July for a crime that he did not commit and he served a term in prison. The jury did not consider this plea and after a long trial, ending May 4, they brought in a verdict of guilty without the usual recommendation to mercy.

Socialist Party Takes Up Cause.

The socialist party through the socialist deputies took up the case and appeals were heard on his behalf on the floor of the chamber of deputies. Appeals were made to President Fallieres to commute the sentence. Lepine, prefect of police, threatened to resign if such action were taken. Jaures, Anatole France, and others interested themselves in the case and meetings of protest were held throughout Paris.

All these appeals failed, and the mob without any real idea that it would be able to save the Apache gathered in the streets to make its protest. There were women among them. They cried out: "Death to the slayers of personal liberty." Another held a baby aloft in the air and cried: "He's dedicated to individual liberty."

The women disappeared, however, as the police charged upon the mob. A policeman would ride through the press, driving it back and from somewhere in the crowd a storm of missiles would strike man and horse. The policeman charged in the direction from which the projectiles had come only to be met with another shower. "We'll serve you as our brother did," a man in the crowd shouted. "He didn't kill enough of you to avenge his wrong."

Scaffold Cleared by Troops.

Finally daybreak came, and the crowds were driven back from the scaffold by the troops who had been on guard in the neighborhood for hours.

The appearance of Labeuf was the signal for wild demonstration. In part of his friends, even though they had been driven to a distance. "Brothers in humanity," shouted the Apache before a soldier could put a hand over his mouth. "I protest against the shedding of the blood of freedom."

The last words came through the fingers of the soldier's hands. As Labeuf was seen on the scaffold, there came a mighty surge forward by the crowd. The authorities, plainly anxious, hurried affairs. Labeuf, after a last glare around, knelt on the block while the glittering knife fell.

It was done so quickly that the crowd, which had burst all barriers, had no time to make itself felt before Labeuf was dead. They fired revolvers into the police as the knife fell, and a police captain dropped. The police returned the fire, and rioters fell.

After the execution, amid the confusion of the disorder, the streets were patrolled for several hours. More than 200 were arrested.

KING'S CIVIL LIST BONE OF CONTENTION

Lively Debate Expected In Commons Within Few Days.

GEORGE MAY ASK AN INCREASED SUM

Fight to Make With View to Enforcing Economy In Future.

LONDON, July 1.—One of the liveliest tilts that parliament has seen in a long time is expected within a few days, when the "civil list" committee of the house of commons will report on how much it thinks King George and the members of his family need to live on comfortably.

It is believed that George will ask for more money for the various members of the royal family than was paid to the late King Edward. Inasmuch as it was generally believed that Edward received more than was needed, the increased demand will stir up a warm debate. The fight against the increase will be made more to enforce future economies than to deny the King what he asks for at this time.

Edward received during the nine years of his reign $2,500,000 annually. The Prince and Princess of Wales, the royal princesses, the Duke of Cornwall, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the Duchess of Albany, the Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, and others received $26,900. There was also a revenue of $2,600,000 from the crown's estates, which are included in the estimate of the drain the royal establishment is upon the country.

Altogether the total under Edward was $5,290,000 annually for royalty's personal benefit. In the course of the next few years there will be about ten royal princesses and princess and young Tecks and Battenbergs to provide for out of the public treasury when they marry. Edward was so old when he came to the throne that most of his relatives had already been provided for in this way.

George, however, has a host of young relatives, for whom the country will be asked to provide about $50,000 annually.

CUMMINS' HEART ALL RIGHT.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 1.—United States Senator Cummins today denied emphatically the rumor that his heart is affected and that he would be forced to take a long rest on that account. The Senator said his heart is sound, and that the need for the rest he expects to take for several weeks has been caused only by the strenuous session of Congress just closed.

BETSY, BOSTON TERRIER, CAPTURES DOG TAG NO. 1

Owners Must Secure New Licenses At Once or the District Poundmaster Will Get Their Pet Bowwows.

To Betsy, a Boston bull terrier, owned by Charles C. Rogers, will fall the honor of wearing dog tag No. 1.

Mr. Rogers says there is "some class" to Betsy. He claims to have in his possession a number of real and blue ribbons, to say nothing of a handful of medals won by Betsy at various dog show bench shows throughout the country.

When he left his office last night he determined to be on hand early this morning in order to obtain for Betsy the first dog tag issued for the fiscal year, which begins today.

Mr. Rogers is Collector of Taxes of the District of Columbia. The dog licenses and tags are issued in the office of the Collector. It may be alleged, therefore, that Mr. Rogers, in obtaining for Betsy the first dog tag of the season, took advantage of his official position.

Such, however, it can be stated on excellent authority, is not the case. Mr. Rogers was at his office promptly at 9 o'clock and one minute after that hour was in front of the window from which the tags are issued. He was not too soon, as a second later another citizen, who craved also the coveted honor, entered with a $2 bill. But Mr. Rogers, as he remarked, "beat 'em to it" even former Commissioner Henry L. West, who for the last seven years has purchased the first tag. By 10 o'clock the office was besieged by dog owners, the line extending into the corridor.

Following his usual custom, Poundmaster Samuel Elstein will continue to impound all untaxed canines, but dogs wearing last year's tags will not be molested for several days, as it is realized that it is impossible for every owner to obtain a tag immediately.

As soon, however, as it appears from the absence of the rush in the office of the Collector of Taxes that the public generally has been accommodated in this respect, the poundmaster will get busy and all dogs not wearing the latest style of tag will be impounded.
