

Miss Shelby Lee Robinson to Become the Bride of William Nowlen Hallock at Her Home Today

Ceremony to Be Performed at the Woodley Apartment.

A pretty home wedding will take place at the Woodley this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Shelby Lee Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hancock Robinson, becomes the bride of William Nowlen Hallock, of Bath, N. Y. Only relatives will be present at the ceremony, at which the Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, will officiate.

Quantities of palms, ferns, Southern smilax and yellow and white chrysanthemums form the house decorations, and a string orchestra will play the wedding music during the ceremony and the reception.

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, will wear a handsome bridal gown of white satin and duchesse lace with the bodice effectively draped in chiffon. Her bridal veil of Venetian point lace will be held in place with orange blossoms, and the bride bouquet will be a shower of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Robert E. Kizer, of Bath, N. Y., the matron of honor, will wear a robe of Venetian point lace over satin, with a yellow sash and a large bird of paradise, and will carry yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves tied with yellow ribbon.

Huntley H. Gilbert, of Chicago, Ill., will act as best man for Mr. Hallock, and William Kemp Lyon, of Bath, N. Y., will be groomsmen.

A small reception at 4:30 o'clock has been arranged to follow the ceremony. Mrs. Robinson will be the hostess, who will assist in receiving the guests, who will wear a handsome gown of white chiffon brocade with corsage bouquet of violets and orchids.

Mrs. Hallock
To Wear White Satin.

Mrs. William H. Hallock, of Bath, N. Y., mother of the bridegroom, will wear white messaline satin with a large black hat trimmed with a white willow plume. Mrs. L. S. Scruggs, of Mississippi, grandmother of the bride, will wear a gown of black embroidered chiffon cloth over satin.

Mrs. George Jarman, cousin of the bride, of New York, will be becomingly gowned in old rose crepe meteor, and Miss Sarah Cox, of Roanoke, Va., will wear black velvet with a black silk bow-tie trimmed with a black willow plume. Mrs. Scruggs, Mrs. Jarman, Miss Cox, and Miss Anna Davis, of Mississippi, a cousin of the bride, are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson for the wedding.

Other out-of-town guests at the wedding will be Mrs. George Nowlen, Mrs. Reuben Lyon, and Miss Harriet Lyon, and Robert E. Kizer, all of Bath, N. Y. Mr. Hallock and Mrs. Hallock will travel in a handsome tailored suit of dark gray zibeline with a gray toque trimmed with an old rose border and a pair of black kid shoes. Mrs. Hallock will reside in Bath, N. Y., where they will be at home after November 1.

BROTHER'S ACCUSER FEARS HIM AS BEAR

William White Tells Police Judge He Did Not Threaten George Over Phone.

"I'd rather meet a bear in the Far West than come across my brother on some dark night with no one else near," was the statement of George V. White, who made charges against his brother, William G. White, for threats of personal violence in the Police Court this morning.

"That's a pretty strong statement," remarked Judge Mullowny. "What is the grievance?"

"I don't know," replied White, "but he threatened to break every bone in my body the first time he met me. He is a good deal bigger than I am, and I am scared of him."

"Well, what did you do when he said this?" inquired the judge.

"I hung up the receiver," Judge Mullowny looked thoughtfully at the defendant for a moment, then glanced at the prosecuting witness, as if comparing their sizes and relative power when it came to a rough and tumbled scrap. He then called William White to the stand.

"Are you going to break every bone in his body?"

"No, sir."

"A few words of advice and remark concerning brotherly love, and the esteem which one should feel for the other, Judge Mullowny dismissed the case.

Maryland Club Whiskey

BRIEF FACTS ABOUT WHISKEY.

The catch-phrases "pure whiskey" and "all whiskey" are very misleading. Whiskey, like potatoes, peaches and all other commodities, may be pure—and at the same time poor.

To illustrate: You can get peaches that are all peach and entirely pure peach, but they are small, green, hard and injurious to health—still they come within the legal qualification of "pure" and "all." So it is with whiskey. There are hundreds of whiskeys on the market that have as just a title to "pure whiskey" and "all whiskey" as MARYLAND CLUB, but they are not wholesome like MARYLAND CLUB. They may be made of cheap, inferior grain instead of costly selected grain; they may be made of all the grain instead of having the "heads" and "tails" eliminated at distillation; they may be aged under unfavorable conditions (poor barreling, variable temperature, etc.); they may, in fact, be what the "pure" and "all" peaches are—very undesirable and unwholesome.

To produce such a whiskey as MARYLAND CLUB entails great care, great expense and great conscientiousness. But the results justify these painstaking efforts. MARYLAND CLUB WHISKEY is absolutely wholesome. Naturally MARYLAND CLUB costs the dealer more than ordinary whiskeys—because it costs the consumer at the bar no more—15c a drink per individual, or two for a quarter.

MORE FACTS ABOUT WHISKEY

The difference between drinking good whiskey and drinking ordinary whiskey is not only one of taste, but, vitally, one of health. Whiskey is exactly like food (in fact, it is food). Good whiskey is good for you. Poor whiskey is bad for you. A ripe, luscious, juicy apple is wholesome—has excellent food and medicinal value; a sour, green, dry apple is unwholesome—ties up the digestive functions and endangers health. A poor whiskey does the same—tears at the lining of the stomach and merely excites the blood; while, on the other hand, a whiskey of the very highest quality like MARYLAND CLUB is wholesome, gently stirs the digestive organs, enriches the blood, has tonic properties of great value and promotes good health.

It actually costs at least four times as much to produce MARYLAND CLUB WHISKEY as it does to produce a poor grade of whiskey. Yet the consumer at the bar pays the same for either one of them—15c a drink per individual, or two for a quarter.

Again we ask: Which, sir, will you order?

This is a wholesome whiskey

a tonic stimulant
an exhilarant delight

- smooth
- mellow
- fragrant
- old

Good for your system.
