

INCOME LEVY, THEN REVISION, SAYS BROWN

Nebraska Senator Predicts Congress Will Adopt Amendment.

TO REVOLUTIONIZE TARIFF SYSTEM

Between Seventy and Hundred Thousand Dollars Would Be Raised for Government.

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER.

Senator Norris Brown of Nebraska, father of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution, believes that before any tariff legislation shall have passed Congress, the income tax amendment will have been adopted.

"If this proves the case," said Senator Brown today, "the whole tariff situation will be completely revolutionized. The argument that duties cannot be reduced or wiped out because we need the revenue, will no longer be valid."

"Just the minute that I can get opportunity to do so, following the conclusive ratification of the amendment, I shall introduce an income tax bill I have completely drafted. It has been submitted to the best authorities, and it is designed to raise by taxation of incomes somewhere from seventy million to one hundred million dollars a year.

Treasury's Estimate Lowest.

"The lowest estimate placed on this revenue is $70,000,000, which is the figure of the Treasury Department. Other estimates run up to $100,000,000 and $100,000,000.

"The Treasury Department estimate of revenue that would be produced by the corporation tax measure has been proved by experience altogether too low. From this and other indices my own estimate is that my bill will produce just about $100,000,000 a year.

"It is impossible to say just how much chance there is for this amendment to be ratified this session. Thirty States have ratified it already; thirty-five will make it part of the Constitution. States which have ratified it are Maine, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, California, Oregon, Washington, Tennessee, Arkansas and Georgia—total, thirty.

"Only four States have definitely voted down the amendment. They are West Virginia, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Louisiana.

Hopes for Ratification. "I have kept in very close touch with legislatures this winter, and all along have had strong hopes that the amendment will be ratified without waiting for legislatures that do not meet until next winter."

Several State Legislatures are still in session and it is recognized that the situation is now very critical. Expectation is that in New York, Florida, Minnesota, and Massachusetts will pass very soon. It had been expected that the New Jersey Legislature which adjourned early this morning, would ratify it. Senator Brown was much disappointed to learn that it did not.

However, the progressives throughout the country have something up their sleeves in this connection. If thirty-four ratifications are secured, and only one more is needed, they purpose nothing less than to appeal to the governor of some one of the States which has not yet acted upon the matter, to call a special session of his legislature for this particular purpose.

To Call Out Reserves. The honor of this calling out the reserves will probably go to either Governor Carey of Wyoming, or Governor Wilson of New Jersey. Both are progressives.

Carey is a Republican, who was elected largely by Democratic support; Wilson, of course, is a Democrat. Supporters of Wilson for President think that if he should force this measure through the Jersey Legislature and make it the determinative ratification, it would greatly strengthen him as a Presidential possibility. On the other hand, Governor Carey of Wyoming is pointed to as a very promising possibility for Vice President on the Republican ticket if he should chance to be the lucky man to turn such a trick.

Cause of Republican Zeal. The effect on the tariff legislation, of suddenly injecting an income tax measure. (Continued on Fourth Page.)

TAFT RESENTS REQUEST THAT HE DENY FAITH

Tells All Souls' Congregation It Is Argument for Church Spread.

DIVIDES MEMBERS IN THREE CLASSES

Defense of Belief Illustrates Appeal for Funds for New Edifice.

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER.

Telling his fellow-members of the All Souls' Unitarian Church that during the campaign preceding his election he was called upon to deny the report that he was a believer in the Unitarian faith, President Taft this morning said that he considered that demand an indication of the need of spreading the doctrine of the church.

President Taft made this personal reference while speaking from the platform of All Souls' Church at the regular Sunday morning services. He was emphasizing the need of a new edifice, when he called attention to the misconception of the Unitarian faith.

To Brand as Libel.

The President said he was requested to brand as an iniquitous libel the rumor that he was a Unitarian. He said that such misconceptions of the Unitarian faith as were shown by the telegram indicated that there is need for the spreading of the doctrine that the Unitarian church stands for the broadest principles of Christianity, the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God.

"In addressing an audience like this," said the President, "one naturally divides them into three parts—the first are the permanent residents of Washington who are Unitarian and look forward to worshipping in a Unitarian place of worship during their lives. The second class is that of the temporary residents of Washington, like Senator Fletcher and myself, and the third is that class not much represented here, but who ought to be here, who answer the description of Senator Hall, who as a worshiper in this church said: 'What is your church that you don't go to?'"

"Now, to the first class, those who are permanent residents, it seems to me hardly necessary to urge the importance of their making every effort that the church in which they are to worship for their lives should be adequate to the purposes for which a church is built and consecrated.

What Taft Said.

"To the temporary residents it seems necessary to bring the thought that Washington is the Capital of the Nation, growing to be more and more the center of thought in this country, typical of the whole country, in which is gathered all the representatives of all parts of the country, a city beautiful to which the delegations from all parts of the country are becoming more frequent, and that here may well be established a center for liberal religious thought and education, a church typifying broad liberal tolerant Christianity."

Senator Fletcher, who had preceded the President, spoke of the necessity for having a church which should show forth what Unitarianism is in the country. To some people that may not seem a necessary task. Any who have run for office and have received telegrams from various parts of the country saying: 'It is reported here that you are Unitarian. Telegraph at once to silence this outrageous report,' will understand the necessity for showing what Unitarianism is, and that it is progressive Christianity illustrating and carrying forward the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

"Now, I believe this is the time for us to open our pockets, and if we have lots of money in them, to assume some obligations ahead, with a view to making this monument a suitable one in the Capital of our nation.

Worthy of Bishopric.

"Other churches by reason of their organizations have cathedrals. We have no Bishop, but we have a clergyman whom if we did have a Bishop would be worthy of the place, and it is entirely fitting therefore that we should have here, in the Capital city of the nation, a principal church to correspond to the cathedral in other churches. "Now that means sacrifice on the part of many of us to make the contributions that we would like to make, but I, as a temporary resident among you, one who will only have the privilege of worshipping in this church for a short time, nevertheless urge upon every one of you, residents or non-residents, the duty of assuming a burden and sacrificing yourself for this monument to God, liberal and tolerant, shall be worthy of the cause."

Findlay College Gets Check From Carnegie

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 23.—President Brown, of Findlay College, today received from Andrew Carnegie a check for $12,500, which the Scotchman promised the institution several years ago if it would raise $27,500 for its endowment fund. The fund now reaches $180,000, which will be invested at once, in order that the most returns may be obtained.

PEACE COMMISSION FOR MEXICO IS TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

Official Circles Expect Conferences Will Be Held Within a Week.

MEXICO CITY, April 23.—Official circles here expect that within a week a formal peace commission to settle the Mexican rebellion will be sitting in Washington, with full power to reconcile the differences between the Maderistas and the federal government.

So confident is the feeling here that the Madero rebellion will be satisfactorily settled by the establishment of reforms under President Diaz that speculation has now jumped to the question of getting an end of the fighting by several isolated bands of rebels in various sections, who do not acknowledge the supremacy of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and even this problem is considered optimistically.

Certain general plans for the peace commission are accepted here as the government plan, in spite of the fact that the cabinet has not yet authorized any statement of the method of proceeding.

Two Man Commission.

It is the expectation that the peace commission will consist of two men, one representing the federal government, though perhaps not officially appointed by the government, so as to avoid formal recognition of the insurgency, and the other will be appointed by General Madero personally. This commission, it is the further understanding, will begin its negotiations in Washington, and then after the preliminaries have been agreed upon, the finals can be concluded in Mexico City. This idea is favored by Mexican officials, and they do not believe that Madero will have any objection to the selection of Washington for the preliminary agreement.

Minister Dehesa, as the man in the government who has the confidence of the liberal element among Mexicans, is expected to select the individual to represent the federal government on the commission.

Minister de la Barra makes no secret of his formal receipt of the peace proposal reply from Madero, via Dr. Gomez in Washington, but he has issued no statement today of the government plans. At the same time, it is understood that he is exchanging more messages with Dr. Gomez, and some sort of a statement from him on the negotiations is expected to be made within a day or two.

As an evidence of satisfaction over the prospects, and as an indication that peace with Madero will bring peace throughout Mexico, there is today a sudden cessation of the various indications of restlessness here in the capital.

Students Withdraw Demand.

Today the university students formally withdrew their open letter calling upon President Diaz to resign. The 500 students in the agricultural schools quietly returned to discipline this morning, after their strike of protest against the government. The medical school students are on strike today because the police have prevented their Sunday bull fight, lest there be a demonstration, but the students are expected to come around in a day or two, although they announced an eight-day strike.

It will probably be a week before the news of the present armistice reaches all the parties of insurgents in the mountains, and not until then can it be told.

LABOR LEADERS BRAND DYNAMITE ARREST AS PLOT

McNamara, National Secretary of Ironworkers, Being Rushed to Los Angeles By Secret Route.

DETECTIVE BURNS FAILS IN RAIDS FOR EVIDENCE

Detectives operating under orders from William J. Burns, are today secretly spiriting to Los Angeles, John J. McNamara, of the International Structural Iron Workers, to try him for dynamiting and murder.

President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, in Washington, President James M. Lynch, of the Typographical Union, in Indianapolis, and many other great leaders of labor, today declare that this is an attack on organized labor of the country, not merely on McNamara.

In Indianapolis, Detective Burns failed in one hunt for evidence to prove McNamara is the leader of dynamiters. Early this morning Burns had the safe at the union headquarters blown open, but did not find anything to incriminate McNamara.

From Los Angeles it is reported that another labor leader, noted on the Pacific coast, will be under arrest before night, on the charge of being the Pacific manager of what the Burns men term the "dynamiting conspiracy."

This afternoon the attorney for the Structural Iron Workers in Indianapolis made the charge that the private papers of the international association were seized by Detective Burns and turned over bodily to the Erectors' Association, the manufacturers' organization, which is financing Detective Burns in this fight. The papers have been ordered returned.

In Chicago it is understood that James McNamara and Ortie E. McNamara, arrested as the agents of Secretary McNamara, are still being concealed there by officers who fear to start them on the journey for Los Angeles.

Labor Leaders Brand Arrest of McNamara As "Infamous Outrage"

Applying the brand of "infamous outrage" to the arrest in Indianapolis last night of John J. McNamara, international secretary of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers of America, officials of the American Federation of Labor today declared that the charge made against McNamara of complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times office is nothing more than another attempt of capitalists to discredit organized labor in the eyes of the world.

That dynamite was "planted" in the barn near Indianapolis and hidden in the storerooms of the Iron Workers' Union building by opponents of unions, anxious to make evidence against them, is the belief of such officers as President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor. The same belief is held by William J. Spence, secretary of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor and a personal friend of the accused official.

"Legalized Kidnaping."

Forceful words were used by the American Federation officials in their endeavor to express their contempt for the injustice they believe has been done Secretary McNamara in spiriting him away from Indianapolis without granting him legal representation, or even communication with his friends.

"How long are the American people going to stand for legalized kidnaping?"

With this query Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today declares his belief in the innocence of union steel workers, arrested at Indianapolis for alleged complicity in dynamiting outrages.

Angrily and indignantly, President Gompers charges the arrest to enemies of organized labor, a plot to destroy labor unions by huge money interests. He characterizes the summary removal of McNamara from Indianapolis to California as "high-handed legal kidnaping."

"McNamara's extradition is a grossly outrageous piece of legalized kidnaping," said President Gompers this morning at his home, 2122 First street northwest.

In Class With Haywood Case.

"Nothing except the Haywood, Moyer, and Pettibone case equals it in the besmirched history of attacks upon organized labor," said President Gompers.

"McNamara was spirited away without giving him the slightest chance to give prima facie evidence of his innocence—taken from his own home and State without aid of friends or attorneys," President Gompers continued with passion.

Declaring the arrest of the union men "smacks of theatricals," President Gompers said:

"The stage was all set, the properties arranged carefully and then up goes the curtain, with a blast of trumpets, upon the first act of a tragedy contemplating the assassination of organized labor."

"Every since the Los Angeles Times tragedy the interests have been trying to fasten guilt upon organized labor. It is always trying to crush the organized labor movement and they use the

Detectives Hurrying McNamara to Coast City By Secret Route

INDIANAPOLIS, April 23.—Completely baffled by Detective W. J. Burns, in their efforts to stop the spiriting away to Los Angeles of John J. McNamara to be tried there for the Times dynamiting, a score of international labor leaders here today are wildly indignant and are preparing appeals to the country.

Burns answers by saying this noon: "There is more dynamite in Indianapolis, and I am going to find it." Meanwhile Burns has McNamara well on his way to Los Angeles, though no one has yet found just how far. The only vestige of information obtained so far by McNamara's friends has been that the journey to Chicago is by automobile, completed yet or not, is by automobile, evidently so that the route cannot be foreseen and legal obstacles made.

On the police the labor leaders are jubilant. All last night and up to the early hours of this morning the officers of the International Structural Iron Workers fought the efforts of Detective Burns to open the safe of the organization, which was used by McNamara as secretary-treasurer. But in spite of their opposition Burns finally had the safe blown open early this morning, only to find not the slightest bit of evidence against the secretary-treasurer, himself admitted the failure, this morning.

Pacific Coast Leader Sought.

From Los Angeles has come the well-accredited report that a warrant has been issued for still another noted labor leader, this one a Pacific coast leader, charging him with being the Pacific coast manager of what the Burns men call the dynamite conspiracy. This man is expected to be under arrest before night.

It is known to the labor leaders here that the other two men who are under arrest in connection with the affair—James W. McNamara, of Cincinnati, brother of Secretary McNamara, alias "B. B. Burns," and Ortie E. McNamara, of Chicago—already are on their long trip to Los Angeles, in the custody of Los Angeles police.

In spite of the failure of Burns to find any evidence in the safe at headquarters, and in spite of the failure of two of his men, Shinn and Dugan, to find anything incriminating in a search of McNamara's room, so far as can be learned, the whole Burns force is just today over the two discoveries of dynamite, one in the basement storeroom of the iron workers' building, and the other in the barn in the outskirts of the city, owned by T. H. Jones.

They point out that the evidence of Jones is the strongest of all yet brought out. He is an iron worker himself, and told his story reluctantly. It is to the effect that he rented his barn in January to McNamara for $25 a month and had frequently seen McNamara and others going and coming to the barn with heavy suit cases.

Fight to Get At Safe.

The blowing of the safe of the International Structural Iron Workers early this morning was accomplished only after many difficulties. When the detectives went to the union headquarters in the American Central Life Building last night, President Ryan, of the International Union, was ready for them, and was prepared to fight.

The detectives presented a search warrant, and demanded access to the safe of the union. President Ryan refused, and the detectives then prepared to go ahead. A lawyer for the union then interposed, and his opposition was so vigorous and apparently sound that the Burns men finally went back to Judge Collins and obtained another search warrant, specifically giving them the right to search the safe.

Olivier W. Irensee, an expert locksmith, first tried to work the combination, but some time after midnight it was decided that this would not

BRUISED BODY OF MRS. DORA WHITE IS FOUND IN CREEK

Negro Boy Discovers One of Missing Annapolis Sisters.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 23.—The finding in Spa Creek this morning of the body of Mrs. Dora White, who with her sister, Miss Alice Shores, disappeared April 5, has solved some of the mystery connected with the affair, but the condition of the body, the upper part of which is covered with bruises, has raised serious questions as to the manner in which the women met their death.

The body was found by William Butler, a colored youth, about 150 yards from the point where the women were last seen. That the authorities regard the affair is a serious one, is indicated by the fact that the coroner's jury, of which Mayor James F. Sirange, is foreman, would not return a verdict today, but adjourned until Tuesday, in the meantime ordering County Physician Walter H. Hopkins, to examine the body and to report how the bruises were received.

One large bruise covers nearly the whole of Mrs. White's forehead, another is under her right eye, and more on her neck and breast.

Taken to Hospital.

The body was removed to the Annapolis Emergency Hospital, where the examination is being made. The special question to be determined is whether there is any basis for the rumors of foul play which have been persistently heard around Annapolis since the disappearance.

Look for Companion.

Soon after the discovery of the body of Mrs. White, the creek at that point was filled with small boats, the occupants of which hoped to find the body of Miss Shores.

The finding of the body of Mrs. White has afforded the community relief, as it makes certain that they were drowned, as first supposed. There still is much doubt as to the incidents leading up to their death. There is much feeling and a general demand that the authorities should sift the case.

GUSTAVE LANSBURGH, PIONEER DRY GOODS MAN, PASSES AWAY

End Comes at Home in Vermont Avenue After Year's Illness.

Gustave Lansburgh, senior member of the firm of Lansburgh & Bro., died this morning at 8 o'clock in his home, 1018 Vermont avenue.

For the past year Mr. Lansburgh had not been in good health, but with great strength of mind he kept up interest in his affairs, and up to a week ago did not fail to visit his office daily.

Last October he celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of his business, and even then did not retire from the active management. His business career was probably the longest of any merchant in Washington.

Mr. Lansburgh was born in Hamburg, Germany, on January 25, 1838. He was seventy-two years old. When a boy he came to America, starting business in Baltimore, and then in Washington in 1860, with his brother James, where the firm prospered from the start.

Besides his brothers, James and Julius Lansburgh, he leaves four sons and five daughters—Solomon Henry, Lester (of Indianapolis), and Stanley, Lansburgh, and Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, Mrs. Meyer Singer (of New York), Mrs. David Conn (of Seattle), Mrs. A. Cohn (of Pittsburgh), and Mrs. R. B. Lyons.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been made, but a service will be held on Tuesday. The store of Lansburgh & Bro. will be closed tomorrow and Tuesday.

Helpless, Invalid Mother Sees Daughter Suicide

BRANFORD, Conn., April 23.—A pair of red shoes, known to have been the property of Miss Mollie Crowley, of Branford, found floating in the water of the Branford river this morning, and a well-worn coat also owned by Miss Crowley, which was picked up on the river bank, bore mute testimony to the suicide of a girl who was seen earlier in the morning to rush across the fields and throw herself into the river. The river was dragged in a vain attempt to recover the body.

For several months Miss Crowley has been despondent following the commitment of a brother to the State reform school. Her despair was heightened a few weeks ago, when her mother became seriously ill. Miss Crowley's mother saw her jump into the river and screamed for help, but being bed-ridden herself, could not summon any one in time.
