

SHORT MEASURE SLEUTH ON TRAIL OF DEALERS HERE

Noted Enemy of Cheating Storekeepers on Still Hunt for Offenders Here.

Isidor Wulfsfon, famed detector of short weights and fraudulent measures, is on a still hunt in Washington today for crooked dealers. Mr. Wulfsfon looked around Washington yesterday without finding any flagrant offenders and though satisfied that the District housewife is getting a square deal as a rule, he would like to hunt a little longer and if successful tell his old friend Col. W. C. K. Haskell all about it.

Accordingly vendors of hay who use loaded scales, grocerymen whose peck and bushel measures and strawberry boxes have too ambitious bottoms, butchers who like to rest one hand weightily in their scales, had all better watch out.

Mr. Wulfsfon has made his fame in Indianapolis and New York. He is inspector of weights and measures in the former city, and has made all dealers here to the line their organization of the Housewives' Protective Association, and by frequent arrests of offenders. In New York he conducted an elaborate investigation and found almost innumerable offenses against honest measure. His report has since been embodied into law and it is declared the chances effected through his suggestions have saved the New York housekeeper and her husband a total of $10,000,000 a year.

Mr. Wulfsfon has almost as many disguises as a stage detective, and he is an artist in "making up." His imitation whiskers are declared to be as convincing as Senator Kern's real ones. Mr. Wulfsfon is also neat and nobby in other respects and his evening clothes fit him as if he had been melted into them. A frock coat which he wears when he lectures to the women of the Housewives' Protective Association is alleged to be another model of sartorial sublimity.

Politicians and dealers caught in fantastic delicto have often tried to sink an ax into Mr. Wulfsfon's official neck, but an appeal to the people of Indianapolis has always averted the blow.

Armed Man Tries To Halt Motor Car

A mysterious person dressed in white, his features concealed with a white mask and armed with a rifle, is today being sought by the Tenth precinct police, following an exciting experience last night by Harry Goode, of Stoneleigh Court, while motoring on Sixteenth street extended.

Mr. Goode, who was accompanied by two ladies and a chauffeur, told the police that as he neared the Piney Branch road, about 3 o'clock this morning, the man stepped into the street and called to him to stop. Seeing the rifle, Goode told the chauffeur to speed the car forward, and the would-be robber was left behind.

The police have but a meagre description of the man, as Mr. Goode could not tell whether he was white or colored on account of the mask. According to Mr. Goode's description he was dressed all in white, even to white shoes and a white cap. When last seen the man was running into the woods near the Piney Branch road. The mounted police have obtained no trace of him.

Death by Suicide In the Ready Case

A certificate of death by suicide was today returned by Deputy Coroner White in the case of Patrick Ready, a grocer, of 141 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, who cut his throat a few minutes after 12 o'clock this morning in a fit of despondency over continued ill health. No inquest will be held, Dr. White deeming the investigation made today sufficient to show that there were no suspicious circumstances in the case.

Ready locked himself in the bathroom at his home about 11:30 o'clock last night. Shortly after midnight his wife became alarmed, and forcing the door, found her husband lying in a pool of blood on the floor. He was removed to Casualty Hospital, where he died.

Within the past few weeks Ready had become despondent concerning the state of his health, suffering greatly from rheumatism. He is survived by his wife and two children, a boy two years old and a girl of seven years. No arrangements for the funeral have been made.

Three Prostrated by Heat; Sent to Hospital

Overcome by heat while standing in front of 104 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, G. D. Easley, of 414 G street southwest, was yesterday afternoon removed to Emergency Hospital in an automobile belonging to J. L. Weaver, of Chevy Chase. After treatment by the hospital physicians he was able to go to his home.

William Brooks, a negro, living on Delaware avenue southwest, was prostrated while working at 206 Fourteenth street southwest, yesterday afternoon. He was removed to Emergency Hospital, and after treatment returned to his home. Eliza Johnson, a negro, of Willow Tree Alley southwest, was also given treatment at Emergency Hospital for heat prostration when brought from 216 F street southwest. She returned to her home.

Owen Explains His Bill For Health Department

Senator Owen of Oklahoma in a speech before the Senate defended his bill for the establishment of a Government department of health. He attacked the League for Medical Freedom as an organization that had been "misled by the agents of the patent medicine interests."

Senator Owen said his bill was so drawn as to give no school of medicine an advantage over other schools. He said the rights of private citizens were carefully guarded in the measure, and its chief purpose was to establish general precautions against disease and infection, educate the public in sanitation, and in meeting the dangers of contagion.

He Is a Friend of Housewives.

ISIDOR WULFSFON,
Noted Detector of Short Weights and Measures, in Two of His Disguises.

HOST OF BAPTISTS ARE COMING HERE TO CALL ON TAFT

Five Thousand, Now Attending World Alliance Meeting, Expected.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Jubilant over the success which has attended the sessions of the second convention of the Baptist World Alliance, which officially adjourns its deliberations tomorrow evening, the delegates today concluded the business of the congress and laid plans for the next gathering. This is scheduled to meet at Berlin in 1912.

After appointing several committees today's session opened with a discussion of the Sunday school work. The Rev. H. T. Musselman, heading the Pennsylvania delegation, speaking of the work in his State, urged more spirituality and a greater zeal on the part of pastors.

The Rev. E. M. Poter, of South Carolina, painted a glowing picture of the almost marvelous progress the churches of the Southern States have made in the face of difficulties. Russell H. Conwell, of this city, and the Rev. Dr. F. L. Meyer, of London, were appointed to investigate the conditions in Russia which have caused great suffering to Baptist missionaries. Arrangements have been made for the transportation of the entire body of 5,000 delegates to Washington on Monday, where they will remain overnight to be presented to President Taft at the White House.

See's Book Shows His Absolute Life

CHICAGO, June 24.—If Evelyn Arthur See is sentenced to prison for contributing to the juvenile delinquency of Mildred Bridges, seventeen, the plain looking "high priestess" of the temple of Absolute Life, it is declared today, he will have been cured by the Civil Service Commission in an examination to be held July 22. These jobs will pay $2,500 a year each.

In addition, Dr. Wiley has an appointment waiting for the man who passes the highest examination on July 22 as a foot technologist. This position will pay the same salary as the other two.

Children Get Prizes For Essays on Flag

Prizes for the best essay on the "Evolution of the Flag," offered by the Marcella Burns Chapter, of the Daughters of the American Revolution, are proudly possessed today by Harold Donald Criswell, age eleven years, and Frederick Bryan, age nine years. Grace Averill received honorable mention in the contest, open to children under sixteen years of age.

Two Colored Girls Are Bitten by Stray Dogs

Jessie Harrison, a fifteen-year-old negro girl living at 1018 Fourth street northwest, was last night bitten by a dog belonging to Rose Dodson, of 402 I street northwest. She was treated at a nearby drug store and returned to her home.

Young Man Hurt When Thrown From Motor Car

Suffering from injuries incurred when thrown from an automobile delivery wagon at Mt. Pleasant and Irving streets northwest in a collision with a street car, Joseph Cohen, 507 Ninth street southwest, is today in a serious condition at Garfield Hospital.

Robbed in Postoffice.

Report was today made to the police by Frank Schus, of 35 Elm street, Albany, N. Y., that while mailing a letter in the central postoffice his pocketbook had been stolen from a table a few feet away. The wallet contained $10 in money and several valuable papers.

MOTHERS AND DOTS TO LEAVE SOON ON SUMMER OUTING

Money Still Needed to Provide for Visitors at Camp Good Will.

From the din and heat of the city streets and alleys to the cool, green shade of the country, 100 mothers and children will on July 1 to Camp Good Will, on the outskirts of Rock Creek Park, for a two weeks' outing as guests of the Summer Outings Committee of the Associated Charities.

Until September 1 the same number of mothers and children will be entertained at the camp every two weeks, swelling the total to nearly 500. There is no work of the Associated Charities that appeals more to the community at large than the annual outings at Camp Good Will, but if the resort is to be kept open all summer $7,000 will have to be raised. Up to the present time $2,653.34 has been subscribed, and unless the amount necessary for footing the committee will have to reduce the number of guests.

John Joy Edson, chairman of the committee, says that the mothers and sickly children an opportunity to recuperate under conditions that enable them to better stand the heat in the city for the remainder of the summer. It gives them the only outing and recreation they have for the entire year.

Camp Good Will is a little city of tents. There is a big amusement tent, which was put up last year, and also a large mess tent. Good milk, whole cream and ice cream, and fresh fruit or watermelon are some of the things which make the place a haven for the little barefoot girls and boys who know the joys of the summer. The number of the year than the hot city playgrounds.

The camp was established ten years ago, and each year's improvement have been made until now there are accommodations for about 100. John Joy Edson, chairman of the committee, while Mrs. Keene Bushae is the superintendent of the camp. Mothers with children up to twelve years of age are invited to come. The committee hopes within the next few years to have accommodations to take care of some of the older children. Voluntary assistants who receive no pay for their services, take turns looking after the children and amusing them during the summer.

Ideal Location.
On the banks of Rock Creek, in the highest portion of the park by the same name, the location of Camp Good Will is ideal. For the children all of the usual amusements and attractions of the public playgrounds have been installed, and in addition there is a donkey and two horses to ride, and a big "swimming pool" for the children.

The health of the little community is looked after by a committee of physicians of which Dr. J. C. Rambo, chief of the city health department, is chairman, who give their services free. It is to carry on this work that the committee is making a special appeal for funds to pay for the services of the mothers and children who have no other means of getting away from the city for a few days.

There is also a camp for the colored mothers and children, which will be opened at Lincoln, D. C., on July 1. This is known as Camp Pleasant. About 50 mothers and children will be taken care of here during the summer.

A few dollars more and her mother and her baby at either camp for a fortnight, and $3 will send a child for a week. The hundreds of persons to whom these amounts would mean nothing, and who would never miss the money, but to the mothers and children it means a few days of rest and pleasure, and the marvels these things accomplish.

Mosely, in Will, Gives Legacies to Old Friends

Requests of $1,500 to lifelong friends are made in the will of Edward E. Mosely, former secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission. A copy of the will, filed at his old home at Newburyport, Mass., has been filed with the Register of Wills.

William C. Cusack, of Newburyport, a friend, is given $1,000, and two Washington friends, Harry S. Milstead and Bloom Chapman, are given legacies of $250 each.

Mr. Mosely directs that the residue of his estate be divided equally between his wife, Mrs. Kate Mosely, a daughter, and a daughter, Katherine. The will, executed January 14, names the testator's brothers, Charles and Frederick Mosely, as executors.

Captain Potts Escort For Togo in America

Admiral Togo, of Japan, will have Capt. Templin M. Potts, of the United States Navy, as his special escort while he is seeing the United States in August. Captain Potts will accompany him during the seventeen days he is on this continent meeting him in New York and staying with him until he sails for Vancouver.

Priest Will Celebrate First Mass Tomorrow

The 11 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's Church tomorrow morning will be sung by the Rev. Samuel Peck, and will be the first mass at which he has officiated as celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. Eugene Connolly, of the Immaculate Conception Church, as deacon, and the Rev. James J. O'Connor, of St. Augustine's, as subdeacon. The Right Rev. William T. Russell, D. D., will preach the sermon.

Publicity Subcommittee Of Chamber to Meet

D. J. Callahan, chairman of the subcommittee of the publicity committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which has been appointed by Isaac Gans to devise methods for advertising Washington as the best residential city, will call a meeting of his committee within a few days.

'Possum Found in Riggs House Cellar

BOARD OF TRADE TO HOLD LAST OF SEASON'S SESSIONS

Meeting Called for Next Friday to Hear Reports of Committees.

The last meeting of the Board of Trade until its fall meeting will be held at the New Willard Hotel next Friday night. President George H. Harris today wired Assistant Secretary Shuster to send out notices for the meeting.

Three regular annual reports of committees still remain to be considered. The report of the transportation committee which has not yet been considered by the Board of Trade is that in which the committee reaches the conclusion that the Board of Trade should go on record in opposition to the proposed public service commission bill for the creation of which is now before Congress.

The proposed amendments to the by-laws directed to more effective delineation between the work and personnel of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce are also scheduled to come up.

Many on McKinley School Honor Roll

The honor roll of the McKinley Manual Training School, just compiled, bears the names of seventy-one technical students whose ranking entitles them to place. The list is headed by Miss Anne Mitchell, and of the first ten in the list eight are boys and two are girls. The full honor list follows:

- Anne Mitchell, A2, 97.42; Gerald Keener, D4, 96.84; Robert W. Jones, D4, 96.84; William Pidgeon, F1, 96.07; Ralph Keeler, D4, 95.98; Hugh Phillips, E2, 95.98; Dorothy Gould, E2, 95.98; Evan McElfresh, E2, 95.98; George Haines, G2, 95.3; Laurence Will, D4, 95.07; Paul Woodward, D4, 95.07; Margaret Birdsell, E2, 95.07; Thomas Clark, E1, 94.85; Eheriff, A4, 94.85; Benjamin Dann, B5, 94.87; Waverly Taylor, F22, 94.85; Hugh Teller, F2, 94.85; Herbert Porter, B5, 94.2; Edward Lewis, C4, 94.2; Robert Stowers, F1, 93.5; John Petrie, B4, 93.4; Solomon Shapiro, B3, 93.3; Ralph Goldsmith, D4, 93.2; George Cohen, A7, 92.95; Leonard Sargeant, D4, 92.87; Simon Wasserman, E2, 92.50; Harry Rock, B5, 92.5; Ethel Hubbard, A2, 90.47; Edward Sando, F2, 92.17; Joshua Bennett, D4, 92; Edward Allen, G2, 92; Eibert Nash, C1, 91.98; Lester Kirchner, B5, 91.87; Nina Wallace, A4, 91.86; Herbert Porter, C5, 91.8; Lillian Glenn, A4, 91.75; Harold Offutt, D4, 91.6; Frederick Windridge, G1, 91.4; Arthur King, B5, 91.4; Leslie Teller, D4, 91.4; Albert Gersdorf, A7, 91.27; Rezin Pidgeon, E2, 91.25; Julia Levy, A5, 91.2; Walter Griggby, C5, 91.2; Robert W. Jones, D4, 91.2; Stover, C8, 91.1; Roy Heald, D4, 91.08; Walter Saunders, B5, 91; Evelyn Seel, D4, 90.92; Carl Miller, D4, 90.92; Clarence Hammill, E2, 90.82; Walker Nettleton, D4, 90.73; Ermin Patrick, E2, 90.7; Grace Wright, A7, 90.7; Ethel Hubbard, A2, 90.47; Edward Thrall, C8, 90.6; Francis Nesbit, B4, 90.53; Spencer Michael, C5, 90.46; Marjorie Nettleton, E2, 90.42; David McNeil, C1, 90.25; John Fisher, F1, 90.2; George Thrall, F2, 90.17; Henry Hildreth, B2, 90.08; Carl Miller, D4, 89.92; Eugenia Lansburgh, A4, 90.08; William Tpton, C8, 90; Ernest Blau, D4, 90; Allen Harrison, E2, 90; Jack Omohundrow, F1, 90.

Department Wars on "Egyptian Wheat" Sellers

A fight on swindlers who are selling wheat grains to farmers with the statements that they were obtained from the tombs of Egyptian mummies, and of superior quality, has been started in the Department of Agriculture, it was declared today. A grain of wheat is dead after ten years, say Department officials, and of no use as seed after that time.

Bright's Death Feared.

William H. Bright, who is in a critical condition as a result of a severe stroke of paralysis on July 19, has not rallied. It is expected by his physicians and his nurse that death will occur soon.

Mine Blast Kills One And Four Are Injured

WHEELING, W. Va., June 24.—One man is dead and four are seriously injured as a result of an explosion which occurred in Mine No. 3, of the New River Colliery Coal Company, at Eccles, W. Va.

Fat Men in Tug of War Against Revenue Boat

BOSTON, June 24.—After the crew had shifted the cargo of human avoirdupois to avoid a list, the Nahant steamer got under way today with some 2,000 members of the New England Fat Men's Club, which is holding its meeting here. The important event of the day at the shore is a tug-of-war between the club and the revenue cutter Gresham. The club men have agreed to pull the cutter up on the lawn in front of their hotel or pay for dinners all around.

Robbed in Postoffice.

Report was today made to the police by Frank Schus, of 35 Elm street, Albany, N. Y., that while mailing a letter in the central postoffice his pocketbook had been stolen from a table a few feet away. The wallet contained $10 in money and several valuable papers.

O. POSSUM, RESCUED FROM DEATH, TO BE FATTENED FOR FEAST

Riggs House Discovery Will Meet Fate Designed for Him Long Ago.

Mr. O. Possum, emaciated and almost unconscious from lack of food for weeks when accidentally imprisoned and forgotten in the cellar of the old Riggs House, was rescued from a death by starvation yesterday afternoon by workmen razing the historic hostelry.

Today, Mr. Possum is recovering from the effects of his long enforced fast. Mr. Possum has lived for at least three weeks without food. Attention of rescuers was attracted by him yesterday afternoon, when negro workmen were alarmed at his cries for help, accompanied by loud scratching upon his prison.

A Johnson, foreman of the Monumental Metal Company, in charge of razing the hotel building, headed a rescue party and released Mr. Possum. He was given food and water and at once revived. "Patriarch of the Riggs House" is the name given to O. Possum by his rescuers, who plan to fatten him and enjoy a 'possum feast soon, for Mr. O. Possum is a weak, scrawny, blind and cadaverous beast today.

Mr. Johnson brought "Eber Possum" to the office of The Washington Times today to be photographed in celebration of his rescue and before he is fattened for a feast. Col. O. J. Staples, former proprietor of the hotel, says the 'possum is probably one of three or four animals brought about nine years ago for a banquet. The 'possums escaped, and have since been living like rats in the hotel. Workmen at the hotel are now on the lookout for more live 'possum meat.

Full Meaning of The Word Patriotism

What is patriotism? Is it a narrow affection for the spot where a man was born? Are the very clouds where we tread entitled to this ardent preference because they are greater? No, sir; this is not the character of the virtue and it soars higher for its object. It is an extended self-love, mingling with all the good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting itself with the minutest filaments of the heart. It is thus we obey the laws of society, because they are the laws of virtue. In their authority we see, not the array of force and terror, but the venerable image of our country's honor. Every good citizen makes that resting