The March term, commencing Monday, March 18, and will be in session several weeks, a large number of civil and criminal cases being docketed for trial.

Mrs. Lillian F. Bardorf, of Glen Echo, has been granted an absolute divorce by Judge Peter. In the circuit court here, from Joseph F. Bardorf, of Washington, the decree also awarding her the custody of two children, Myrtle and Minnie Bardorf, eleven and nine years old, respectively. Mrs. Bardorf was represented by John A. Garrett, and W. O. Spates, appeared for Mr. Bardorf. The divorce was granted on the ground of desertion.

There is believed to be an excellent prospect that Rockville will soon have a telephone office again. The Rockville town council has become interested and has appointed a committee, consisting of Mayor Lee Offutt and Councilmen John Brewer, to visit Baltimore and talk on the matter with the public utilities commission, of which Philip D. Laird, of this town, is chairman. The town had the telephone office for many years, but service was abolished several years ago, much to the surprise and inconvenience of the people of the community. The lines of the Western Union Company run through the heart of the town.

St. Aloysius Choir Sings for the Poor

The St. Aloysius Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Glenn W. Ashley, gave a musical entertainment to the inmates of the Little Sisters of the Poor Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The program consisted of a few selections of old Irish songs and solos by Miss Byrnes and Charles Raegan. After the entertainment the choir sang vespers in the chapel, concluding with several compositions of the choir-master.

HEADS OF DISTRICT OPPOSE AYRES BILL TO PROTECT HORSES

In Sympathy With Objects, But Hold It Interference With Property Rights.

On the ground that it would be an interference with property rights the Commissioners sent to Congress today an adverse report on the bill introduced by Congressman Ayres of New York, to prohibit the stabling of horses above the first floor. The Commissioners say that while they are in full sympathy with the humane object of safeguarding the lives of dumb beasts, they do not believe it reasonable to enact legislation which would prohibit the free use of a building built in accordance with the regulations in force at the time of its erection. Attention is directed to a recent amendment to the building regulations, adopted on recommendation of the Washington Humane Society, which provides that no building for stabling animals above the first or ground floor shall hereafter be erected, reconstructed, or repaired, when such repair requires an expenditure equal to one-third of the value of the building, unless the building be made fireproof throughout. The intent of this is to prevent the future erection of non-fireproof buildings for stabling horses above the first floor. The amendment was decided on by the Commissioners following several fires in the District in which a number of horses were burned.

YOUNG BOY KILLED BY COUSIN WHO IS NOW CRITICALLY ILL

Charles F. Gardner, Four Years Old, Victim of Accident at Home.

A pall of sorrow hangs over the Gardner home, at 1916 H street northwest today as the result of the tragedy enacted there yesterday afternoon, when four-year-old Charles Friedrich Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner, was accidentally killed by a revolver in the hand of his nine-year-old cousin, Gardner Grenfell.

While the body of the little victim was in the parlor of the house, the child in whose hand was held the weapon which caused the tragedy, lies critically ill in a second-story room. He has not yet been told that his little cousin is dead because physicians attending him declare that it might prove serious. He knows that "Charlie" was "hurt" when the revolver was discharged accidentally as he lifted it out of his father's desk and repeatedly inquired if he is getting better.

The victim of the accident was an only child. His father is foreman of the Potomac Electric Power Company. Young Grenfell is the son of Dr. F. W. Grenfell, a veterinarian. It was shortly after 3:30 o'clock when the two boys went to the basement of their home to play. They had been "tagging" each other, when suddenly the eye of the Grenfell child caught sight of a revolver in an open drawer of a desk. His little cousin's curiosity caused the Grenfell boy to run to the side of the desk, and as he drew out the shining weapon the younger child grabbed for it. The older boy drew back his arm.

The trigger was accidentally pressed and little Charles fell to the floor. The Grenfell boy picked up the little victim and ran screaming to the kitchen. Dr. L. L. Friedrich, of 225 East Capitol street, was summoned. He declared that death had been instantaneous, as the bullet had entered the chest and severed one of the large arteries leading from the heart. Funeral arrangements for the Gardner child have not been completed.

Alleged Slayers of Gentry Face Trial

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 27.—The present week has been set aside in the district court for beginning the trial in the Gentry murder case. The three defendants are Mrs. Gentry, her brother, Maurice Welchman, and her alleged paramour, Jesse K. McKee. The crime with which the three are charged is the murder of the woman's husband, Thomas J. Gentry, who was shot and killed in his home on the night of January 7. According to the alleged confession of Mackey, the love affair between Gentry and him furnished the principal motive for a conspiracy to kill the husband. A desire to collect a $2,000 life insurance policy carried by Gentry also is believed to have influenced the three accused persons.

Successful Musicales Given at New Willard

Under the direction of Henry C. Freeman, organist of St. John's Church, a musicale was held last evening in the New Willard ballroom, which was largely attended. The artists were Mrs. Virginia Denny Birgfeld, who contributed solos from Wagner, Strauss, and other classical composers; M. Jose Erard, tenor, and grand opera singer, who has come to this country from Paris, where he was a member of the French Grand Opera Company; Signor Alessandrini, baritone, and a member of the Milan Grand Opera Company, also contributed songs. In a pleasing manner Mrs. Birgfeld gave one of her own instrumental compositions, entitled "Come Down Laughing Streamlet." Erard created enthusiasm by his "Ich Liebe Dich," by Grieg, and later, when he accompanied himself on the piano to his "Rigoletto" number, Alessandrini, who possesses a voice that bears a startling resemblance to Caruso's, gave a solo from "Pagliacci," receiving an ovation at its close.

Try Trooper for Murder.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Feb. 27.—The term of the Federal court which convened here today will be made notable by the trial for murder of Matthew Carlyle, a private in the Tenth United States Cavalry Regiment. While stationed at Fort Ethan Allen last fall Carlyle ran amuck and shot and killed Andrew C. Fox, a fellow trooper, and seriously wounded two colored girls.

Paardeberg Day Observed

OTTAWA, Ontario, Feb. 27.—The Canadian Defense League held a well attended meeting in the capital today in celebration of Paardeberg day, the anniversary of the surrender of the Boer forces under General Cronje at Paardeberg, February 27, 1900.

Fresh Air and Food Alone Cannot Cure Consumption

Something Must Be Done to Check the Germ Growth if Permanent Results Are Expected.

Fresh air and exercise, together with plenty of nourishing food, are a necessity to the cure of lung diseases, but they are not sufficient to effect permanent results unless something is done to prevent the Tubercle Bacilli, from continuing their destructive work. Nothing is more effective in doing this than the famous Swiss remedy Strolin, a preparation which has lately been imported into this country in large quantities after a long list of successful cases have been placed to its credit abroad. Strolin agrees with the weakest stomach and greatly aids digestion. It is endorsed and recommended by the leading Specialists in Europe, and contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Additional information about Strolin can be secured in this country from the Strolin Company, 223 West Broadway, New York City. All leading druggists are recommended to distribute Strolin with considerable success.

Eat Oleomargarine

Should you, if you choose to eat Oleomargarine instead of butter on your bread, be compelled to pay at least 10c per pound additional for the yellow color if it is more tempting?

When the present Oleomargarine law was passed it was claimed by the supporters of the legislation that the tax would prevent the sale of Oleomargarine as butter.

As a matter of fact, the 10c per pound tax has been an incentive to unscrupulous persons to buy uncolored Oleomargarine, color it at little cost, and sell it for butter. Thus the law has fallen short of accomplishing what was claimed for it, and has worked a hardship to Oleomargarine Manufacturers by throwing unjust suspicion of fraud on them, and to consumers by compelling them to pay an exorbitant price as compared to the cost of production. Oleomargarine is entitled to a fair existence, it should have the right to be manufactured for what it is, should be sold for what it is, and every American citizen should have the right to purchase it for what it is and not be compelled to pay a higher price for butter than that in no wise better for his purpose than Oleomargarine.

Swift & Company have never sold or sanctioned the sale of Oleomargarine as butter, but have sold Swift's Premium Oleomargarine, put up in plainly printed one and two pound cartons, on its own merits for just what it is.

Ask your dealer for Swift's Premium Oleomargarine. He will supply you if you insist.
