N. M. A. DESIRES FORTY TO DENY MULHALL TALE

Asks Senators to Summon Cannon, Aldrich, and Others to Stand.

WOOL LOBBY PROBE IS ON

Whitman, Believed Dictator of Textile Tariff For Years, Bares Trade Secrets.

Counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers today asked Chairman Overman, of the Senate lobby probe committee, to subpoena forty well-known Congressional leaders including former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, and former Senator Nelson A. Aldrich.

These men are to be called, it was stated, to refute the testimony which it is expected Col. M. M. Mulhall, of Baltimore, former lobbyist for the association, will give when he takes the stand tomorrow.

Senator Overman declined to issue the subpoenas at this time.

Must Wait On Story.

"If it should develop from Mulhall's story," said Senator Overman, "that these men are needed to testify here, why we will call them. But until we hear Mulhall's story under oath there is no need of placing these men under subpoena. As a matter of fact, none of them will run away."

Others who were suggested by the National Association of Manufacturers, in addition to those previously mentioned, were Senators Crane, Lodge, and Penrose, and Congressmen McDermott.

LOSSES AT ISHTIP TO REACH 35,000

Hand-to-Hand Fights Mow Down Ranks of Servians and Bulgarian Soldiers.

BELGRADE, July 9.—Losses to the Bulgarian and Servian armies engaged about Kocichana and Ishtip will reach 35,000.

This was the word reaching here today from the front, and with the report of the termination of the battles, the Servian government rejoices in the great victory. More than 200,000 men were engaged in the fighting, and Servian troops now occupy Kocichana and Ishtip, according to the war office.

Despite the news of the victory, there is some concern expressed by the authorities as to the condition of the army in the field. It is feared that cholera is appearing. The disease has broken out in two military hospitals here where men wounded during the most recent fighting are being cared for.

Reports of alleged cruelties practiced by the Bulgarians are now reaching here from Salonika. Father Michel, of the French Catholic mission, is said to have declared that 70 men were imprisoned in a mosque and their wives and daughters had been summoned, the mosque was fired and the men burned.

At Kilkisa, Planitia and Raynovo women were also burned, Father Michel declared.

President Plays Golf; Daughters Paint the Hills

WINDSOR, Vt., July 9.—President Wilson settled down today to spend the rest of the week playing golf and motoring.

He planned to motor twenty-five miles to Harrover again today for a game on the links there.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Eleanor spend hours daily strolling over the Harrover estate, with palette and brush, painting the great hills that rise about them. The President takes a twenty or thirty mile automobile ride with Mrs. Wilson each afternoon, returning to Harrover about 7 o'clock.

After the game of golf in the morning the President spends the early part of the afternoon attending to correspondence submitted by Secretary Tamm. The President told Dr. Grayson, his physician, today that he had been wonderfully refreshed by his vacation.

Ask Police to Search For Hospital Patient

The police today were asked to send out an alarm for Alice Cutts, thirty-two years old, who escaped yesterday from the Government Hospital for the Insane. The woman was given the freedom of the grounds and succeeded in getting past the guard at one of the gates without attracting attention. Miss Cutts formerly lived at 812 First street northwest, and had been in the asylum since December, 1912.

Strike of Trainmen Would Affect 50,000 Miles of Eastern Road

If the conductors and firemen strike the following figures are an estimate of the number of employes, etc., affected:

Conductors and trainmen	100,000
Eastern railroads	45
Miles of railroad	50,000
Employes in the Eastern territory	680,000
Traveling public on Eastern roads	50,000,000
Annual wages paid all employes on the Eastern roads	$500,000,000

RAILWAY STRIKE IN EAST IS NEAR

Peace Overtures Between 45 Big Roads and 100,000 Employes Near.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Peace overtures have ended between forty-five Eastern railroads and 100,000 members of the Order of Railroad Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, after the employes' representatives in conference with the railroad managers announced that 94 per cent of the men had voted to strike for increased wages.

Final action on the proposed tie-up remains with the general committee of 1,000 of the conductors' and trainmen's organizations, and a meeting has been called for Saturday. It is the unanimous opinion of operating circles that the strike vote will be lifted, unless the companies in meanwhile offer to pay higher wages or agree to submit the dispute to arbitration.

The conference committee of managers will meet Monday to consider the decision of the employes' general committee. The railroads are then expected to make their ultimatum.

A strike of 100,000 conductors and trainmen would be very disastrous, and would probably result in the almost total tie-up of all roads east of Chicago and north of the Mississippi valley.

Congressional action on an amendment to the Erdman arbitration law may be the means of averting the threatened strike of conductors and trainmen of Eastern railroads. The Senate already has passed an amendment providing for six members of railway arbitration boards instead of the present three, and the House Judiciary committee on Monday is likely to take favorable action thereon. This early action is asked in a request from Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation. The larger board is sought by both the union men and the railroads.

Local officials of the railway unions, however, feel today that the strike will not be necessary, because the nearly unanimous vote of 100,000 conductors and trainmen will force the railroad companies to come to terms, they believe.

W. P. Bondard, of the railway union, said today that he had tested the sentiment to some extent and found the local men extremely hopeful about results.

Navy Yard Commandants Confer on Wage Raise

Commandants of the various navy yards on the Atlantic coast met in conference with Secretary Daniels today regarding the question of raising wages in all the yards on the basis adopted at the Washington yard, and considering the question also of having labor representatives on the navy yard wage boards.

Under the terms of the revised order regarding the Washington yard, the employees will receive a flat raise of 7.5 per cent.

BANKING BOARD TO OPEN DOORS

House Currency Committee to Permit Publicity of Work Done on Wilson Bill.

DEMOCRATS ARE AT ODDS

Fears That Measure May Be Blocked By Disagreements Entertained at Capitol.

Open sessions of the full committee, but secret conferences of the Democratic members, who really shape the bill, is the effect of a resolution adopted today by the membership of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, now considering the Administration currency measure.

By a vote of 11 to 5, the committee decided to have "open" meetings, in accordance with the Lindbergh resolution reported from the Bulkley committee.

Close Doors.

Soon after the vote of the meeting of the full committee adjourned, the minority members left, and the Democrats closed the doors for a short conference similar to that at which so much wrangling occurred yesterday.

Democratic members, however, are feelings over the fiery session yesterday, when a personal difficulty between two members seemed imminent. The majority of the committee is about as badly split as it is possible for fourteen men to be, and there are fears today in Democratic circles that the success of the Administration currency reform bill will be jeopardized unless the atmosphere clears.

Leaving a line of demarcation between the Democrats and the Republicans at the secret session of the committee, differences over the fundamentals of currency reform, feuds between new and old members of the committee, and secrecy and anti-secrecy feelings are some of the disturbing factors.

The Democrats are understood to have held out today against open meetings even of the full committee. These five are Senator Glass and Congressmen Brown, Weaver, Wilson, and Korbly. Mr. Glass has opposed the open sessions from the outset.

No Closed Sessions.

Under the resolution, offered by Mr. Lindbergh, Progressive, the full committee will have no closed sessions except by a four-fifths vote of those present. Mr. Lindbergh, of course, was unable to reach the Democratic conferees, which will continue in secret to-night.

Congressman Tower of Iowa in a statement today criticises sharply the Democratic plan for disposing of the currency bill in the House by the secret method, through the secret meetings of the majority members of the Banking Committee and the secret caucus.

There will be general agreement that legislation regarding banking and the currency ought not to be partisan. There is a line of demarcation between the Republicans and Democrats on the subject. Among the followers of each party is to be found every shade of opinion and belief, from extreme conservatism to extreme radicalism.

"In the formation of such a bill in committee, a desire for best results should be paramount. Debate is an absolute essential in the formulation of legislation, and it is as necessary in committee as in the House. If to shut off debate in the House would be considered unfair, to prevent it in the committee is just as harmful and unjust."

"When it was known that the Banking and Currency Committee was formed, the Democrats on the committee were expected to be the majority. The Democratic members of the committee, when questioned, had but one explanation to offer—that the bill had been formed that way and they had no good a right to do so as the Ways and Means committee."

"Representative Woods, of Iowa, who was the ranking Republican on the committee in the House, said today that together they passed strong resolutions condemning their exclusion, and demanding their rights to a part in the formulation of the bill."

"Whatever may have been the practice of either party in the past, an exclusion of the minority from the consideration of a bill that is to be reported by a committee is wrong, and its practice ought to be stopped. Legislation that is considered only in a secret caucus and is formulated behind closed doors is not what the people desire or expect."

"The bill is an absolute essential in a free Government, and it is never more valuable and necessary than in the committee room during the formation of legislation which is to affect the vital interests of all the people."

Goddess Freedom on Top of Capitol Gets Annual Face Massage

The Goddess Freedom, who looks eastward from the top of the dome of the Capitol, is having her annual face massage today. Freedom is nineteen feet six inches in height.

Her sunburn is removed each year by a corps of skilled workmen assigned to the task by Superintendent of the Capitol Woods.

GODDESS OF FREEDOM GETS $16,000 BATH

Clean-Up of Statue and Its Base Started Today By Big Corps of Painters.

The Goddess of Freedom, the statuette which surmounts the big Capitol dome, is receiving her triennial bath today. Tourists gaze in wonder at twenty odd men, carrying buckets of soap-suds, who are scouring the goddess and who will take several days at the job.

Aside from the shower baths occasionally administered by the elements, the goddess doesn't get a real scouring as often as other folk exposed to the dust and heat of the out-of-doors. She was last bathed in 1910.

The bathing job has been entrusted to Charles MacNichol, of a local painting firm, who has thrice before given the goddess a scouring. Mr. MacNichol and his trusty lieutenants gathered a bunch of soap and mops together today, scaled the dome and went to work on the historic figure. From massive head to elongated feet the Goddess of Freedom is to be bathed in soapy water and then she is going to be painted over again.

Costs $16,000.

Congress has appropriated $16,000 for the bathing and painting of the Goddess, and Superintendent Elliott Woods, of the Capitol, estimated that about 240,000 gallons will be needed to properly paint the Goddess and the dome upon which she stands.

The washing of the Goddess of Freedom is but preliminary to the painting which will require several weeks. Mr. MacNichol probably will have two-score men at work before the statue is finished.

There are no elevators leading to the dome, and the painters, as well as the tourists, have to trudge up the long steel stairways.

An immense scaffold is now being placed about the Goddess, and every detail of the statue is being examined. The Goddess is to be painted in a color which will not be so ravaged as to eat of the time-imprinted coat of green which now covers the bronze statue. All bronze statues exposed to the weather are presumed to have a natural coat of green sooner or later.

The painting of the network of iron and steel beneath the goddess and the lady herself is done according to a set of plans which were evidently dropped by possession of Capitol officers since 1903.

The drawings were made by August Schoenborn and reveal every intricate piece of the network of the dome.

The painters today found a number of articles in a tin gutter surrounding the dome, which were evidently dropped by sightseers. They included pennies, a straw hat and a frayed flag.

General Riva Dies Of Duel Shot Wound

HAVANA, July 9.—Gen. Armando Riva, chief of the national police, who was shot during a revolver duel with Governor Ashbert and Congressman Arias, died early today.

The killing of Riva may yet lead to serious complications. Politicians are now endeavoring to shift the responsibility for the shooting to the Governor, who is a member of the cabinet.

On his deathbed, Riva charged that Ashbert fired the fatal shot. The shooting was a direct result of Riva's crusade against gambling in political clubs.

Albert's Will Made Two Days Before Death

That Allen D. Albert, who was stricken at the Gettysburg celebration, perhaps had some premonition of death is indicated by the fact that he made his will only two days before leaving his entire estate to his wife. The will, which is dated June 29, was filed in Probate Court today. Frederick W. Albert, a son, is named as executor.

HOPE FOR POTTS IS IN CONGRESS

Dusted Captain Must Look to Lawmakers or President For Restoration.

CHANCE CONSIDERED SLIGHT

Daniels and Padgett Hold a Conference, But Secretary Denies Case Was Up.

Following the arrival in Washington of Capt. Templin M. Potts, U. S. N., whose compulsory retirement by the naval "plucking board" has aroused a storm of criticism, and on the heels of a report that Captain Potts will carry his grievance to Congress, a conference was held today between Secretary Daniels and Congressman Padgett, chairman of the House Naval Committee.

The report about the Navy Department was to the effect that Mr. Daniels had sent for Mr. Padgett for the purpose of laying before him, in advance of any investigation, the Navy Department's side in the controversy.

Denies They Talked Of Potts

This the Secretary denied later, declaring that he had not discussed the Potts case with Mr. Padgett, and had confined his talk to a discussion of other matters relating to the department.

"Mr. Padgett expects to leave town this evening," said the Secretary, "and as I shall leave for the West on Saturday." (Continued on Fifth Page.)

COMMISSION BACKS BATH HOUSE ORDER

Rudolph and Harding Find That Women at Bathing Beach Don't Want Men.

The order of Superintendent Hudson of the bathing beach, that male escorts would not be permitted in the pools during the hours set aside for women and girls, will not be rescinded, notwithstanding the vigorous protests that have been filed against the order by women who patronize the pools regularly.

The order was decided today by Commissioners Rudolph and Harding, who were at the beach early this morning and made an investigation of the situation. The Commissioners talked with a number of the women, the majority of whom said they favored Dr. Hudson's order and asked that it be not recalled.

The order was issued last week by Dr. Hudson in view of the crowded conditions in the pools during the hours they were set aside for women. Many of the patrons who are usually accompanied by male escorts protested against the order and a sound robin was gotten up asking that it be recalled. The Commissioner decided to take no action until after a personal investigation, and after talking with a number of the women at the beach this morning they decided that in view of the size of the pools, and the fact that they were set aside for women exclusively during certain hours.

Runaway Boy Found On Boat at Cumberland

John Talty, the fifteen-year-old boy who ran away from his home, 1134 Nineteenth street northwest, last week, and left a note to his parents telling them his body would be found in the river, was arrested today in Cumberland, Md., as a fugitive from his parents. The boy's father will probably go to Cumberland for his son tonight.

The police learned several days ago that the lad had boarded a canal boat in Georgetown, and had been seen on board the boat when it passed Harpers Ferry. The Cumberland authorities were notified, and when the boat arrived in Cumberland this morning, the boy was taken in custody.

Mr. Neale presented Mr. Mitchell, who spoke for over an hour against the confirmation of Mr. Newman. He expressed the whole objection to him as that he was not a resident of the District within the meaning of the law which requires three years' residence. Mr. Mitchell made a long legal argument on this point. He brought up the matter which has already been exploited of Mr. Newman at different times registering from New York and Chicago in the last three years.

TEETH MARKS CLUE TO GIRL'S MURDER

Authorities to Compare Imprints in Body With Those of Suspect's Mouth.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 9.—On the theory that marks on the arms and sides of the face of the body of eighteen-year-old Alice Crispell, found in Harvey's lake Monday, may be teeth marks, Dr. P. J. Higgins, who performed the autopsy, was preparing for a thorough investigation of this development today.

Dr. Higgins said that he would go to the jail where Herbert Johns is now held after afternoon or night and examine Johns' teeth.

It is likely that imprints of the suspect's marks compared with those discovered on his sweetheart's body.

It is believed here that, should the first steps in the investigation determine whether the marks on the girl's body were made by Johns' teeth, it would develop the clue, it may be necessary to call in a dentist to settle the point.

Should a cast of Johns' teeth fit into the marks left on Miss Crispell's body, the authorities believe a big step would be taken toward solving the mystery of the girl's death. Should it develop that they could not have been made by Johns it would be a big point toward his acquittal.

Johns was visited in prison today by his mother and sisters, to whom he vigorously denied killing his sweetheart. He will advance no theory for her death. To the newspaper men he added nothing to his first statement that he was ardently in love with the girl and was married to her.

Harrison Cann, under suspicion by the police as the rival suitor who might have killed the girl after Johns left her on the night of the tragedy, talks freely. Cann is as vigorous in his denial that Johns killed her as for himself. He said he saw the girl the last time alive on the night of July 4, about 10 o'clock, at the railroad station at the lake.

Runaway Boy Found On Boat at Cumberland

John Talty, the fifteen-year-old boy who ran away from his home, 1134 Nineteenth street northwest, last week, and left a note to his parents telling them his body would be found in the river, was arrested today in Cumberland, Md., as a fugitive from his parents. The boy's father will probably go to Cumberland for his son tonight.

The police learned several days ago that the lad had boarded a canal boat in Georgetown, and had been seen on board the boat when it passed Harpers Ferry. The Cumberland authorities were notified, and when the boat arrived in Cumberland this morning, the boy was taken in custody.

Mr. Neale presented Mr. Mitchell, who spoke for over an hour against the confirmation of Mr. Newman. He expressed the whole objection to him as that he was not a resident of the District within the meaning of the law which requires three years' residence. Mr. Mitchell made a long legal argument on this point. He brought up the matter which has already been exploited of Mr. Newman at different times registering from New York and Chicago in the last three years.

He declared that he absolutely nothing in Mr. Newman's own statement of his life that suggested it was his intention to make Washington his home. That there was no opposition to Mr. Newman on the score of reputation.
