FILIBUSTER OFF, KAHN BITTERLY ATTACKS WILSON

Californian Directs Hot Fire of Criticism at White House for McNab Controversy.

"LOST HONOR AND CREDIT"
Administration Played Politics
at Cost of Justice in Caminetti Case, He Declares.

In a speech bristling with criticism of the course of the Administration in the Caminetti-Diggs white slave case, Congressman Julius Kahn, a California Republican, opened the debate in the House today on the Kahn resolutions of inquiry.

The Democrats surrendered to the fortnight of Republican filibustering, ending the deadlock by taking off the "gag" upon discussion of the entire incident.

Wanted It Tabled.
Upon the convening of the House Chairman Clayton, of the Judiciary Committee, presented a report, recommending that the third resolution of Congressman Kahn, directing McReynolds to submit Caminetti's correspondence, be tabled. Clayton suggested that practically the entire day today be spent in discussing the cases, divided equally between the Democrats and the minority.

The committee submitted a copy of a telegram sent by McReynolds from his hotel, May 16, a month before Secretary of Labor Wilson requested postponement of young Caminetti's trial, to former District Attorney McNab. The telegram read:

"Please write me fully concerning charges against Caminetti and Diggs and take no further affirmative action in respect to same until you receive advice from me."

Beat Him To It.
The Department of Justice anticipated Kahn's resolution by "beating him to it." While the resolution was pending, the department sent a copy of the telegram to the Judiciary Committee.

Police Fearing Militant Attack

LONDON, July 29.—Fearing a renewal of the suffragette attack on Holloway jail, Scotland Yard today surrounded the prison with a cordon of extra policemen. Officers guarded every entrance and approach to the place. All comers were closely scrutinized and forced to submit to the most rigid identification.

The suffragettes who attacked the police yesterday at the London Pavilion, following the arrest of Miss Annie Kenney, later marched to Holloway jail, as though they would attack the place where Miss Kenney was confined. They made a demonstration before the prison, but detectives dispersed them.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst was said today to be somewhat weaker as the result of her exertions yesterday at the Pavilion. She is being watched by police surveillance, but no attempt was made to molest her.

Sanitary Regulations Are Rigidly Enforced

Determined that there shall be no laxity in the enforcement of the sanitary regulations, the Health Department is maintaining a rigid inspection of all markets, groceries, lunch rooms, and places where food is sold.

Conditions are generally good, according to the inspectors. In one week inspections were made of 37 groceries, 42 markets, 200 restaurants, 100 lunch rooms, 100 refreshment places, 100 places where food is sold, and 100 places where food is prepared.

Reports of Prosecution Of Beef Trust Denied

Reports circulated today that the Department of Justice is investigating the Beef Trust with a view to prosecution on account of activities in connection with the new tariff law, were denied at the department. It was alleged that the beef packers have been having trouble to get control of importations of beef when that goes on the free list under the new tariff bill.

Begins Stage Career

MRS. WALTER ALLEN GALT, Washington Young Woman, Who Will Appear in "Passing Show."

MRS. GALT ANXIOUS TO EARN OWN WAY

Washington Beauty Enters Chorus to Be Independent. Society No Lure.

Not a "stage craze," nor ambition to shine before the footlights, nor a desire for the white incandescents of Broadway, but a principle—a girl's desire to earn her own living, has prompted Mrs. Walter Allen Galt, wife of "Chappie" Galt, and better known as a Washington beauty as "Zouie" Maury, to take a position as a chorus girl in "The Passing Show of 1913."

"It is true I have position, an opportunity in social life in Washington through my family," declared Miss Maury, as she will continue to be known by her maiden name on the stage. "But I have no money of my own. I am anxious to do something. I must work, and cannot conceive of a way in which I would be happier than having something to occupy my mind and earn my own livelihood."

"Society life at its best is a bore, but without money—well—it's not worth while, anyhow. I'm just as happy as I can be that I have the opportunity of going on the stage. It is, I think, the best and most useful life I could lead when one considers my condition in life and my few attainments."

It is against the wishes of "Miss Maury's" family and those of her husband that she has taken to the stage. She is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth V. Harbington, of 1229 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Her sister is Mrs. William Reburn, wife of former Congressman Reburn, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Reburn's father was for a number of years mayor of Philadelphia. The new addition to the chorus girl ranks is of an old and distinguished naval family. She is a granddaughter of the late Commodore Maury and a direct descendant of a former Mayor of the City of Washington.

Miss Maury's life since she left the convent at Georgetown at Georgetown, where she was educated, about six years ago, has been an eventful one. She eloped to Baltimore with Sherburne Hopkins, jr., son of Sherburne G. Hopkins, a prominent lawyer, in November, 1909. The couple were subsequently annulled by the Maryland courts because of the youth of the contracting parties.

About a year later she went to Baltimore again, and this time became the wife of Walter Allen Galt, better known as "Chappie" Galt.

Fire Company's Dog Bites Boy During Run

George Martin, aged six, colored, living at 1115 Twenty-sixth street northwest, was bitten on the leg this morning by a dog owned by the members of No. 2 fire truck company.

The dog was following the truck, which was responding to an alarm from the box at Twenty-sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue, when it attacked the boy. The dog had the wound cauterized by a physician. The dog was muzzled when it started out from the truck house, but slipped the straps off in some manner.

The fire, which did $1 damage, was caused by explosion of a can of gasoline in the store at 258 Pennsylvania avenue.

NEWMAN AGREES TO PRESENT CUP

Head of Commissioners Will Be in Charge of Ceremonies at Baseball Park.

GRIFFITH PAYS TRIBUTE
Fans From Coast to Coast Send Praise for Johnson and Money for Fund.

Oliver P. Newman, president of the Board of District Commissioners, today accepted the invitation of The Washington Times to present the silver loving cup to Walter Johnson next Saturday afternoon—the sixth anniversary of Johnson's membership on the Washington team, when he will pitch against Detroit, the team which he faced when he made his bow as a Washington player.

To Fill Park.
It will be a baseball gathering calculated to eclipse anything ever before seen here. There is not the slightest doubt that as many of Johnson's admirers as can squeeze into the park will be on hand.

Meanwhile the fans are coming along well with their contributions for the Johnson Cup Fund. Manager Griffith jumped the sum up over the $1,000 mark yesterday, with a $50 check.

Griffith said when he first heard of the announcement that he would contribute as a fan and that his aid would be larger than any other single contributor.

Greatest In World.
"I think Walter is the greatest pitcher in the world, bar none," said "Griff," who was one of the best in his day. "He is modest, retiring, and shuns publicity and attention."

"He is certainly entitled to this great tribute that The Times is going to pay him and I am glad to be able to help out."

Fans from coast to coast and from the Great Lakes to Cuba have sent in their contributions. Today's mail brings a letter from Lieut. Thomas S. Elin, of the U. S. Army, who writes from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

"Please find inclosed herewith my check for $2 in behalf of the Walter Johnson cup fund. Your scheme is a most commendable one and I feel assured that every loyal fan will willingly contribute his share toward this token of appreciation for WALTER SMOKEBALL."

"I would certainly like to be at the time of the anniversary day and see 'Bill' Hoover and his rosters, but anyway, I will read the true account in The Times two days later."

"Sincerely,
"THOMAS S. KLINGER,
Lieut. U. S. E. C. S."

From Alexandria, Va., comes a letter from Frank Goodrich, which explains the situation. "Enclosed please find $1, which please place to my credit toward the Johnson Cup Fund, also my photo, from which you can no doubt see I am a fan. Being blind does not keep me from expressing my regards of a man such as Walter Johnson."

"I keep in touch with my friends as to the progress of the Washington team as well as Johnson. As I am a member of the Weather Bureau, and one of the best known scientists in the Government service, today was named as chief of the Weather Bureau, to succeed Prof. Willis L. Moore, who was dismissed from the service some weeks ago."

The appointment, it is said, was made upon merit, political influence and connections not having been taken into consideration. It puts to rest the numerous rumors which have been prevalent for weeks concerning Prof. Moore's probable successor. Dr. Marvin is well known in the Weather Bureau service, as well as among American and foreign scientists in general. He could not be reached today, and it is not known what his policies in the bureau will be when he assumes charge.

Dr. Marvin has occupied the position of chief of the divisions of instruments since 1888, having retained that position when that division and the Weather Bureau were consolidated with the Department of Agriculture in 1891. His legal residence is in Columbus, Ohio, although he has been a resident of Washington for years.

Newman Will Present Johnson Cup

Oliver P. Newman
COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
WASHINGTON

July 28, 1913.

Dear Mr Walker:
I am just in receipt of your note asking me to present the anniversary cup to Mr. Walter Johnson on August 2, and shall be very glad indeed to participate in such an event.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. P. A. Walker, J. P. Newman
The Washington Times.

OLIVER P. NEWMAN, President of the Board of District Commissioners, and His Letter Accepting Invitation to Present Anniversary Cup To Famous Pitcher.

MARVIN IS NAMED AS WEATHER CHIEF

Head of Instrument Division Chosen for Post Vacated by Willis L. Moore.

Prof. Charles F. Marvin, head of the instrument division of the United States Weather Bureau, and one of the best known scientists in the Government service, today was named as chief of the Weather Bureau, to succeed Prof. Willis L. Moore, who was dismissed from the service some weeks ago.

The appointment, it is said, was made upon merit, political influence and connections not having been taken into consideration. It puts to rest the numerous rumors which have been prevalent for weeks concerning Prof. Moore's probable successor. Dr. Marvin is well known in the Weather Bureau service, as well as among American and foreign scientists in general. He could not be reached today, and it is not known what his policies in the bureau will be when he assumes charge.

Dr. Marvin has occupied the position of chief of the divisions of instruments since 1888, having retained that position when that division and the Weather Bureau were consolidated with the Department of Agriculture in 1891. His legal residence is in Columbus, Ohio, although he has been a resident of Washington for years.

Born in Durham, Ohio, October 7, 1858, he received his education in the public schools at Columbus, and in 1882 graduated from the Ohio State University's school of mechanical engineering. For some years he was instructor in mechanical drawing and mechanical and physical laboratory at the Western Reserve University.

He was appointed on the civilian corps of the United States government in 1887, and has been in the Government service since.

Dr. Marvin's investigations of atmospheric conditions for measurements of wind velocity and pressure, have been valuable to the Government.

He represented his department at the Atlanta Exposition in 1895; the Louisiana Centennial Exposition in 1904; and during his connection with the public works department he has profited much from his practical experience and his skill as a scientist, and has designed and perfected much of the apparatus now in use at the Weather Bureau. His legal residence is 1801 Emerson street northwest. He is married and has a daughter, nine years of age.

BIG BUSINESS MAY END REVOLT

Huerta Likely to Be Forced to Resign by the Moneyed Interests.

PRESIDENT WILLING TO WAIT
Economic Conditions in Mexico Are Almost Intolerable for Both Sides.

"Big Business," often accused in the past of starting trouble in Mexico, may come to the front to stop the present revolution and relieve the American Government of the embarrassment of trying to settle the troubles of Mexico without going to the extent of recognizing Huerta or invading Mexico.

It may, in short, compel Huerta to resign by the pressure of an economic crisis, and bring about the selection of a successor strong enough to cement the breach now existing between the followers of Huerta and the Carranzistas, or Maderists.

May End Disorder.
"Big business," it is reported, has indirectly advised official Washington that, given favorable time, it will bring an end to the disorders in Mexico by shutting off from both sides the means of producing the instruments of disorder.

Ambassador Wilson again saw Secretary Bryan today, although the latter had been declined to discuss the purpose of the conference. Contrary to the statement which he made yesterday, following his conference with the President, the ambassador will not go out of town for the present, the reason being that he has been summoned by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations to appear before the committee tomorrow.

Before seeing Mr. Bryan, the ambassador spent some time in the Bureau of Consular Affairs.

May Change Building Regulations in City

Proposed changes in the building regulations, the object of which is to add to the attractiveness of the city, were the subject of an informal conference between Senator Works of California and the Commissioners today.

In planning to make this a model city, it was suggested that, without additional legislation, the Commissioners can order changes in existing regulations which will add to its beauty.

GOVERNMENT PURCHASE OF DISTRICT MARKETS ASKED IN HOUSE BILL

Chairman Johnson Introduces Measure For Condemnation of Enterprises and Repeal of Incorporation Act of 1870—Half and Half System Urged For Payment.

WASHINGTON COMPANY IS CHARGED WITH HALF MILLION DEBT TO CITY

A bill to repeal the act of 1870, incorporating the Washington Market Company, which corporation Mr. Johnson alleges owes the District government more than half a million dollars' rent, was introduced in the House today by Chairman Ben Johnson, of the District Committee.

The bill also provides for the creation of a commission of three to investigate and report upon the valuation of the market company at the present time. Upon the receipt of such report made to the President, the market company property is to be taken over by the Federal Government. When the property shall have reverted to the Government, it is planned in the Johnson bill that the Secretary of the Interior shall manage the same and shall rent the stalls and other portions of the premises for the best interests of the United States.

EXPENSE TO BE DIVIDED.

In condemning the Washington Market Company premises, the Federal Government is to pay one-half and the District government one-half of the purchase price decided upon by the commission named by the President. Mr. Johnson stipulates that no member of this commission shall be a member of Congress, a former member, or any officer or employe of the District or Federal Governments.

If enacted the Johnson bill would repeal all laws and regulations relating to the Washington Market Company. The commission is directed to report upon a fair and just valuation, whereupon the property is to be acquired by the Government.

The commission is also directed to ascertain whether the market company is behind in its rental account.

OLD LAW STILL BINDING.

Mr. Johnson has previously alleged that under the act of 1870 the market company was to pay an annual rental of $25,000 for the ground it occupies. The rent, he says, was later reduced by the general assembly of the District, but not by Congress itself, and Mr. Johnson alleges the act of 1870 is still binding. The rent was cut approximately two-thirds by the general assembly and the chairman of the District Committee says if the market company is forced to pay rent under the law at the higher figure it will have to turn over more than a half million dollars.

He now proposes to deduct this amount from the possible purchase price to be paid by the Government when it takes back the property on report of the special commission.

Market Company Is Owner Of Valuable City Property

The Washington Market Company was chartered in 1870. Besides owning the valuable market property and building bounded by Seventh and Ninth, Pennsylvania avenue and B street northwest, the corporation is owner of the Terminal ice making plant, in the southwest section, bounded E and F, Eleventh and Twelfth street, and numerous other valuable market sites and other properties in other parts of the city.

A great deal of the income of the corporation besides that which comes into its coffers through the rentals from the 600 or more stalls in the Center Market accrues from the rental to the District National Guard of the armory on the second and third floors of the market building. For more than fifteen years this large floor space on the upper part of the market building has been occupied by the local militia.

Made Many Improvements.
Once during that time the National Guard moved away and took up its headquarters in the Northern Liberty Market, but returned to the Center Market again in a short time, because of the inaccessibility of the Northern Liberty Market location. Improvements involving an expenditure of about $60,000 was made at the time of the mill's return to its building by the market corporation, and the military organization has been there ever since.

As soon as the corporation was chartered it began the erection of the present (Continued on Twelfth Page.)
