

REBELS' FINAL ASSAULT ON TAMPICO BEGUN 4 CORRESPONDENTS FREE; LIEUT. MAIGNE HELD

PASTOR AND HIS FLOCK INVADERS ROCKEFELLER CHURCH, THROWN OUT

Socialistic Sympathizers Arrested When Bouck White Starts Pandemonium in New York House of Worship—Oil King and Son Stay at Pocantico.

NEW YORK, May 10.—One of the most remarkable scenes ever witnessed in a house of worship in this city took place today at the morning service at the Calvary Baptist Church when Bouck White and a number of socialistic sympathizers were thrown bodily out of the doors by detectives when they demanded that the Rockefeller pastor, the Rev. Dr. Woelfkind, answer a few questions.

The church was crowded, but the Rockefellers, father and son, did not leave their Pocantico estate today, owing to their fear of the I. W. W. pickets, who are patrolling the outskirts of the big Tarrytown place.

Mr. White, widely known as an author, and pastor of the Church of the Social Revolution, had announced yesterday to Dr. Woelfkind that he would, with 150 of his parishioners, attend the Calvary church and challenge him to a debate.

In view of the message, the police were called upon to guard the church, and among the audience were many detectives.

THE PASTOR IS "SPOTTED."

Mr. White was "spotted" the moment he entered the church. It was not so easy to pick out the men and women members of his congregation.

The usual service was proceeded with and no interruption was made until the end of the sermon. Then Mr. White rose suddenly, and stepping into the main aisle announced in a firm voice:

"I am here, doctor."

The pastor made no reply, all eyes were at once turned on the speaker, but before he could utter another word, a half dozen detectives sprang from their seats and seized him. They made no effort to do anything more than to caution him to silence, and in spite of the tense atmosphere in the big structure it seemed for a moment as though the incident would be closed.

White Is Seated.

The organ started to play, and Mr. White seated himself, as soon as the final note had died away he started to run toward the altar. He was pursued by the detectives and roughly seized.

At the same moment some of his sympathizers began to yell out in loud tones: "Do you call this the house of God?"

"Why this is the house of God!" "God women were screaming and trying to get out, and the detectives followed them in to arrest more of Mr. White's followers."

Mr. White, realising his position was through out of the doors of the church, and landed on his head on Fifty-seventh street. A great mob had collected, and the reserves had to be summoned to keep the crowds back.

Uproar Increases.

Meanwhile, the uproar inside the building had increased, with the shouts of the White sympathizers that he be given a chance to be heard. The police made short work in dealing with those who were calling the loudest.

Alexander Golden, who was to have spoken at the Berkeley Lyceum this afternoon, was hurried out onto the sidewalk, and many arrests were made. White and Golden and others were marched off to the West Forty-second street station.

After the tumult had died down the pastor refused to make any comment on the occurrence. He admitted he had received Mr. White's letter and had asked for police protection, fearing some sort of a demonstration.

TWO STORES SUFFER LOSSES FROM FIRE

Walls and Roof Collapse and Bring Firemen Out Second Time.

Starting on the top floor near the partition between the two buildings, fire early today did much damage to King's Palace, 53-55 Seventh street northwest, and the United Five and Ten-cent Store, 515 Seventh street.

Burning away of heavy beams on the roof of the several structures which house the big stores caused the collapse of several walls and a part of the roof shortly before noon, and occasioned a second visit of firemen to the scene.

The entire pavement in front of the store from 53-55 Seventh street was roped off as a precautionary measure against injury to pedestrians in the case of a further crumbling of the walls. The walls which fell were those of the third floor, and created great damage to stocks and fixtures.

Fire Marshal Nicholson declared an investigating the damage that the loss by fire to stock will probably reach $2,000, while the damage to the building from fire will amount to $2,000. This estimate does not include the damage occasioned through the collapse of the walls and roof.

The entire top floor of King's Palace was gutted, while the roof of the 5 and 10-cent store, but the stock was badly damaged by smoke and water. The loss in this store will amount to several thousand dollars.

It had not been determined in which building the fire originated. No cause can be ascribed for the blaze.

The fire was discovered by a passerby at 1:30 o'clock. When the firemen arrived flames were leaping from the windows of the top floors of both buildings. The firemen succeeded in containing the blaze to the upper stories, but stock on the lower floors of the 5 and 10-cent store was flooded, while much damage was done by water and smoke in the northern end of the department store.

In spite of the fact that the blaze had gained considerable headway when the firemen arrived, it was only necessary to sound one alarm.

AMERICANS PAYING TRIBUTE TODAY TO MOTHERS OF RACE

Red Carnations Worn in Honor of the Living, and White Ones in Memory of Dead.

STARS AND STRIPES FLOAT FROM PUBLIC BUILDINGS

Churches of All Denominations Devote Portion of Services to Veneration of Woman.

Today is "Mothers' Day." Throughout the length and breadth of the United States the people are silently paying tribute to the women who gave them to the world.

Men, women and children have put aside for today at least, all worldly thoughts and deeds and the divine influence and remembrance of the mothers of the race envelopes all mankind in a great and sympathetic brotherhood.

The streets of Washington, the streets of every American city, town and village, are dotted with red and white carnations worn by honoring thousands. The white, in honor of the dead. The red, in honor of the living.

Flags Are Flying. Flags on all Federal buildings throughout the country are displayed today as the Government's first official recognition of "Mothers' Day."

This was in accordance with a Presidential proclamation issued yesterday officially setting apart the day in honor of "mother" as provided by a joint resolution of Congress.

Prominent clergymen and the laity were unanimous in praising the action of Congress and the President in thus officially recognizing what has become a national institution.

The proclamation recited the resolution and its purpose and continued: "Whereas by the said joint resolution it is made the duty of the President to request the observance of the second Sunday in May, as provided for in the said joint resolution:

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the power vested in me by the said joint resolution, do hereby direct the Government officials to display the United States flag on all Government buildings, and do invite the people of the United States to display the flag at their homes or other suitable places on the second Sunday in May as a public expression of love and reverence for the mothers of our country."

In witness whereof, I have set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed. "Done at the city of Washington this 10th day of May in the year of our Lord 1914 and of the independence of the United States 139th."

SERVICES IN CHURCHES. "Mothers' Day" services were held in the churches of Washington this morning, and probably every pastor in the city set aside a portion of the service for an expression to motherhood.

The Rev. Abram Simon, pastor of the Washington Hebrew congregation, in his sermon on the observance of "Mothers' Day," said:

"Mothers' Day finds a most hearty welcome in the household of Israel. With us, her due and our duty have become proverbial for purity, affection and devotion. I believe in Mothers' Day. I believe in mothers, and I believe in mothers' duty. Mothers' Day is a woman's creation, but it must become a man's institution."

At Metropolitan Memorial Church, there was a Sunday school Mothers' Day program, and sermon by the pastor. The Rev. James Shea Montgomery, in a statement, said:

"May God help the mothers to know that they were never so much needed as today. Little children want them, lost men and women need them. Christ will be blessed in many a home by their presence, and I urge the mothers of the country to keep close to the heart of the world, that they may know."

At Westminster Memorial Church the Rev. T. E. Davis held a "Mothers' Day" service, at which he presented to each mother in the congregation beautiful memorials.

The information was contained in a cablegram from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City, received in Washington today. The Brazilian legation attaches spent several hours in the interest of the Americans before they were released.

Writers, Arrested At Mexico City, Are Freed

Four American war correspondents and photographers, arrested in Mexico City on their arrival there yesterday, by orders of General Huerta, have been released. Two of them, Richard Harding Davis, who went to the Mexican capital to interview the dictator for a New York syndicate bureau, and Medill McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, and representing the London Times, left Mexico City last night. Andrew J. Sutton, photographer for the Washington Post, and Walter Whiffen, of the Associated Press, were released this morning, and directed to board the first refugee train from the city.

This information was contained in a cablegram from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City, received in Washington today. The Brazilian legation attaches spent several hours in the interest of the Americans before they were released. Sutton, who carried with him credentials from Rear Admiral Badger, was arrested as a spy, and the moment he produced his credentials was thrown into prison. Whiffen, who accompanied him from Vera Cruz to the Mexican capital, also was thrown into prison when he made strenuous efforts to have Sutton released.

Davis and McCormick were held until Huerta, they appeared in the city a few hours. Both had come to British consulate there, who also the Mexican capital to interview Gen- associated in their release.

SHELLS FALL IN TOWN AS REBELS OPEN FIRE ON FEDERAL GUNBOATS

Siege Artillery and Six Thousand Additional Men Brought Up By Constitutionals, Who Are Closing in on City.

VERA CRUZ, May 10.—Wireless reports from Tampico indicate, it is reported, that Gen. Pablo Gonzales, with 6,000 men and fourteen field pieces, has effected a junction with Gen. Luis Caballero, and, after placing the heavy guns, has begun the final attack on the city.

The federal gunboats and the newly arrived artillery are reported engaged today in a long distance artillery duel, but the rebels are reported steadily advancing, with their shells falling well into the outskirts of the town.

If they succeed in silencing the gunboats it is believed the present operations will be successful, as it was only the fire from the gunboats which has driven them back before.

Maigne Is Reported Jailed By Federals

A telegram, dated yesterday at Soledad, via Galveston, was received by The Times at 3:25 o'clock this morning from Charles M. Maigne, staff correspondent of The Times, stating that Maigne had reached Soledad after some delay, and that preparations then were being made to continue his trip into the interior.

This is the last direct word received by The Times from Maigne, who accompanied the American bluejackets and marines to Vera Cruz, landed with them, and witnessed the taking of the city.

Press dispatches from Vera Cruz today, however, tell of a report that has reached that city that Maigne has been arrested by the federals at Soledad, and has been thrown into prison. Efforts to get into communication with him failed today. The Times has been unable to get one word to Maigne, and has heard nothing since the telegram received at 3:25 o'clock this morning, stating that he was safe.

"The interior seems quiet, and the spirit of mediation seems to prevail everywhere," Maigne wired. "Surprising courtesy has been shown me. I am the only American in the city, and both officers and citizens have shown me the utmost consideration. Will proceed to Cordova tomorrow (Sunday) to see General Maas."

PLANNED TO SEE GENERAL MAAS.

Maigne is a retired army officer, and served in the Philippines, as well as during the Boxer uprising. It was his purpose to push on into the interior, interview General Maas, and then go directly to Mexico City, where he had planned to personally interview General Huerta. All of his arrangements had been made toward this end.

At the State, War and Navy departments today it was stated that all efforts to get confirmation of the reports reaching Vera Cruz regarding Maigne's imprisonment, had failed. The State Department has taken up the matter, and is using every effort to get details, and the moment the report is confirmed, will go about obtaining his release.

Andrew J. Sutton, a Washington newspaper photographer, together with Walter Whiffen, of the Associated Press, have been imprisoned in Mexico City at the orders of General Huerta. As told in The Times yesterday, Sutton was arrested as an American spy, in the Mexican capital. He produced credentials signed by Admiral Badger, and the Mexican authorities were more firmly convinced, following this, that he was a spy. Whiffen was kept captive because of efforts he made to secure Sutton's release.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Clarence B. Bowen, a wealthy stock broker of Chicago, who, according to detectives, deserted his family last August in Chicago and started on a tour of the country with Clara Poliffa, nineteen, was arrested at 309 Green street, where he and the girl have been living for several weeks. Bowen was given a hearing in central station and held under $500 bail for a further hearing next Tuesday, and the girl was put in charge of the court and society. The prisoner had $15,000 on his person at the time of his arrest.

PRESIDENT WITH FAMILY AT CHURCH

Crowds of Tourists Linger About White House to Catch Glimpse of Chief Executive.

Leaving down the cares of the Mexican crisis, the President, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Sayre and Prof. Axson, brother of Mrs. Wilson, attended services at the Central Presbyterian Church this morning.

Reports regarding Mrs. Wilson having suffered a relapse were received with some irritation at the White House today. It was stated that she has practically recovered from the ill results of the fall she received several weeks ago and that her health is now the best it has been for some time.

A large crowd of tourists, principally from New York city, crowded about the White House to get a glimpse at the President when he departed for church with his family. Several "rubber neck" wagons crammed with excursionists also halted in front of the Executive Mansion and waited until the Chief Executive left. There was the usual crowd of curious people about the church before and after service.

Before going to church the President held no conferences and received no messages touching on the Mexican situation. It was understood that unless there was some unusual development he would not be disturbed as he wished to spend the day in rest.
