

ASTOR GIVES TIPS FOR A HAPPY HOME

Make the Nest Comfortable, But Not Too Artistic, He Tells Indiana Women.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 6.—Brides who attended the First Baptist Church heard a fearless minister tell them in a few sentences the reason for happy and unhappy homes. The Rev. W. O. Small was continuing his series of sermons on "The Home." This one was on "The Wife." Here are a few of his assertions, scriptural and otherwise: "It is better to dwell in the wilderness than with a contentious and angry woman."

"The mother who allows her daughter to read the vilest sort of novelettes and demands, is doing the girl, her future husband, and society an irreparable injury."

"Girls, the nest is the thing. Misery will come if you can't keep house."

"How long have you worn that old bonnet? Your husband will see you only about the house."

"We denounce the man who betrays a woman, but what shall we say of the woman who betrays herself by refusing to keep her home?"

Mr. Stovall said that a wife should be three things: The homemaker, the companion, and the mother. "If I were to think I would try to take an interest in my house as a home, not as a place to exercise my vanity, I would be a better wife."

Kill the Fly Today and Check Disease

Eminent authorities on health and sanitation have pronounced the fly as the most harmful insect that prevails in the summer months. With equal emphasis they declare that the death of every insect would mean the elimination of a great deal of the summer illness to infants and to grown persons.

Wholesale slaughter of the pest is urged by every health officer of the District and Federal governments, and the Public Health Service, whose efforts are now being directed to stamp out the pest.

One fly is capable of increasing a million fold in two weeks. One fly can carry the germs of typhoid fever into your home. One fly can change a well used into a hopeless cesspool.

Wholesale slaughter of the pest is urged by every health officer of the District and Federal governments, and the Public Health Service, whose efforts are now being directed to stamp out the pest.

CHINESE TEA HOUSE FOR MRS. BELMONT

Artist After Long Study Produces Oriental Structure on Her Newport Estate.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 6.—A Chinese tea house, in which the architects have adhered carefully to Oriental models, will be opened soon with a "housewarming" by Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, on the grounds of Marble House, her summer home here.

The building, which is said to be the first of its kind erected in this country, stands on the cliffs and commands a fine view of the ocean. A gate of Oriental design forms the entrance to the house, and this gate is ornamented with dragons.

The interior of the structure has been decorated after the Ming period by William Andrew Mackay, a mural painter of New York. For this work Mr. Mackay was obliged to make exhaustive tests of color in order to obtain the same effects as those achieved by the early Oriental artists who he copied.

In the hearing last month, however, in which Miss Curran in person took her appeal to the board from the ruling of Principal William B. Aspell, of the normal school, it was threatened that the fight would be carried to Governor Walsh and even to the length of a writ to the State.

Miss Curran, by the vote of the board, is denied the right to her diploma, and the blind children are not to be taught in the Worcester schools.

The board's report on its action says: "It is clear to the board that under the conditions that exist in the apprentice school at Worcester it would be not fair to send children that they should be placed in such relations as to be taught in the State in training with a teacher who is blind. Under conditions as they now exist, the difficulties of proper supervision by the normal school are insuperable."

Dead Mouse Rings Bell, Calls Out the Police

NEW YORK, July 6.—One mouse, and a dead one at that, was responsible for the calling out of a squad of police reserves, leading many persons to express their belief in "spooks," and the issuing of a formal statement as to the ringing of the bell in the steeple of the North Presbyterian Church on 150th street, here.

The bell had not tolled off the hours marked by a clock in the steeple since last January, when it was disconnected. A bell-ringer started clanging. Investigation failed to reveal any cause for the bell ringing, and stories of phantoms in the bell tower began to circulate. It was then that the reserves were called in. They climbed into the steeple and found what remained of a mouse which had tangled itself up in the mechanism controlling the bell and caused it to become connected with the clock again.

An English policeman entered the house of a publican one morning and informed him that it would be necessary to hold an inquest there in the afternoon.

Now the landlord had a great objection to any kind of the kind, and said: "Oh, I can't be troubled with inquests in my house. Here, what'll you have to drink?"

Robert said he'd have a drop of Scotch, which he did. "Have a cigar, too," said the host. After the consumption of two Scotch and cigars the constable said he thought he could get the inquest held somewhere else, but as he was leaving the landlord remarked: "By the way, who are they going to hold the inquest on?"

"No one as I know of now," said the man in blue, "but it 'ud 'a' been on me, if I hadn't had the inquest and an' smoke."—London Tit-Bits.

LOCAL AND NEW YORK FINANCIAL NEWS

MARKET IS NARROW; ORDERS ARE SCARCE

Commercial National Bank Stock Busiest Today—Corby Company Issues Bonds.

With the market narrow and but few orders on the floor, trading at today's meeting of the Washington Stock Exchange was dominated by the activity of Commercial National Bank stock. There was a good demand for this stock at 188, a fraction above the recent bid price, and one broker secured 120 shares at that figure.

The Corby Baking Company, a Delaware corporation, has completed arrangements to issue $400,000 worth of 6 per cent bonds. This corporation took over the property and assets of Corby Baking Company, which was owned by William S. Corby and Charles I. Corby.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Commercial Fire Insurance Company will be held on Thursday afternoon, at which, in addition to selecting a new board of directors for the ensuing year, the shareholders will determine whether or not the capital stock of the company shall be reduced by one-half as has been proposed by the officers of the organization.

There is now prospect that a contest will arise in the management of the Arlington Fire Insurance Co. The fact that at present controls the management of the Commercial has previously asked for proxies for Justice Ashley M. Gould, of the District Supreme Court, to be elected as president of the United States Court of Claims.

The United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations will hold its second annual meeting at the Raleigh Hotel on July 22, 23, and 24. An attractive program of entertainment for the visitors is being arranged.

NEW YORK PRICES GO UP; MARKET SLOW

Firm Undertone Gives Situation a Bullish Appearance, and Demands Grow.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Though trading continued light on the local stock market today, such buying as was indulged in caused prices to rise above the figures recorded at the close on Saturday. There were no new developments to influence the market, or particular incentives to trading, but the firm undertone displayed gave the situation a bullish aspect and there appeared to be a demand for more stock than was offered.

While many traders are inclined to the belief that the Interstate Commerce Commission's rate decision, if favorable to the roads, unless it grant more than 2 1/2 per cent increase, has already been discounted, the majority assert that even a decision of this nature coupled with the excellent crop report that is expected Wednesday, will send prices up. Until the decision is received, however, no brokers wish to make large commitments.

The advances recorded before noon were general, and ranged from small fractions to full point. Northern Pacific was one of the strongest of the active issues, registering a gain of one point, while Union Pacific, under good buying, went up 1/2, and Chesapeake and Ohio, and Southern Pacific 1/4 a point each. Amalgamated Copper led the industrials with an advance of 1/4 a point.
