BALTIMORE AGREES TO SUPPORT GUDE IN MAY ELECTION

Washington Man Now Seems Certain to Win Election for President of A. C. B. A.

MARYLANDERS ORGANIZED

Fletcher's Committee Helps Monumental City Bowlers Perfect Formation.

By KIRK C. MILLER.

That William F. Gude will be named president of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association when it elects its permanent officers in Boston next May is today confidently expected following the presentation of Baltimore to give the Washington candidate its solid support.

While Buffalo and Boston are also expected to name candidates for the highest office of the association, it is expected that those cities will be divided at the polls and with Washington and Baltimore working together in this, and all other matters pertaining to the infant body, Gude's election now seems certain.

Headed by Fletcher, a committee of Washington bowlers went to Baltimore Monday night to assist the Marylanders in organization of the Baltimore Chapter of the A. C. B. A.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made there will be a ten-game match rolled between one of the Baltimore banks and a picked team from this league. Those behind the runs at Baltimore are a good many such as the Burns, Chapline and Pollock started for the winners, the former's 15 being high game and the latter's 31 high set of the evening.

Murdock and O'Connor are two of Manager Donnelly's latest "finds." Both appeared in the line-up against District National.

Nearly all of the team members have been seen at the Bowling Association.

Charles Bartlemus, who recently won the District championship at pocket billiards will play Wallace at the Imperial in a 125 cent competition.

One of the prime movers in showing Baltimore the need of affiliation with the A. C. B. A. is W. Loesch, who acted as temporary chairman before resigning to accept the position of secretary.

The Atlantic Coast Bowling Association has been thoroughly exploited in these two parts of the country.

Never in the history of bowling has an organization met with such a hearty response on the part of bowlers and alley men, though the latter realize that they cannot hold offices, as the association is distinctly a bowlers' affair.

Parks tied another knot in the rope which is binding that team to first place in the Mt. Pleasant League when Immanuel's were "caught" for three games.

Washington Loan and Trust Company crept out of the tie for first place with Bank of Washington, when the latter were defeated by 2 to 1 Moore came through with a nice string of 136, for the feature work.

Mt. Pleasant, the fall-end team of the Arcade League, threw a surprise into the leading Gaiters' camp by winning a middle contest. The margin of victory was one pin, the score being 536 to 525.

In the Northeastern League, Washington Abbotson won three straight from Chapman Sacks, when Wood rolled 352 for high individual game.

Bookkeepers won three from Mechanical, Morgan took two from Lutz and Timbony from the Southern Railway Clerks' League.

In the Department of Tenpin, Washington won all three from Bureau in the Department of Tenpin, when the latter were defeated by 2 to 1 Moore came through with a nice string of 136, for the feature work.

GARDNER GOES OVER BOUNDS ON ALLEYS

Wins More Than Railway Relief Permits, So His Award Is Cut Down.

A. D. Gardner, of the Lighting Department of the Washington Railway and Electric Company's Relief Association, has starred again in the monthly tournament which closed February 11.

This time he wins first prize of $5, but is only allowed to accept $3, because the rules of the tournament provide that no member shall receive more than $5 for prizes in a single season, and Gardner had won $15 in previous months.

R. C. Goodhary won second award in the series which just closed, his total prize amounts to $4. A. Logan brings up the rear of the charmed circle by virtue of a total of 1,310 pins spilled in his ten best games between January 13 and February 11.

Here is the entire list of winners and the prizes they received:

A. N. A. Quint May Be Dropped From League

Unless Case Is Strongly Presented, President Cox May Bar Team From Further Participation. Friends Believe Eastern Afraid to Meet Them on Floor.

By BRYAN MORSE. Officers of the Preparatory Basketball League will take the matter of the Army and Navy Academy for a feat last Saturday under advisement today and, from indications, the schoolboys will probably get their notice of being thrown out of the league, unless their case is strongly presented to President Charles R. Cox.

Earlier in the season the Fairmont team forfeited to A. N. A., and when the matter was rehearsed the representatives of the Fairmont said they were ready to play in the morning instead of the afternoon, as many of the players worked Saturday nights.

President Cox declared that another forfeit would mean a dismissal from the circuit and, as the A. N. A. team was unable to put a team on the floor Saturday, there is every indication that the A. N. A. youngsters will draw either their walking papers or a severe reprimand.

Fairmont players were on hand at Gonzaga the greater part of the day waiting for the Army and Navy Academy players to show up. It was said that no word was heard from the Fairmont players since they were supposed to have cooled their heels several hours. The case was reported to President Cox for action.

A. N. A. players declare they are without practice at present, owing to the fact that the school boys are requiring all their attention. Dixon, Rundell, and Kimberly, the mainstays of the team, are hard at it at present, and are not expected to play until next week.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Feb. 16.—In recent years the Jockey Club Juarez has proved the leading race track in distribution of money among horsemen. No track in all America has equaled the record of this great racing plant in this respect.

The first year the track was opened in 1908 there were only twenty-one days of racing by the end of December 31, though the winter season, 1908-9, ran seventy-one racing days. Since then every meeting here has run more than 100 racing days. The money distributed every year since the big track was opened is as follows:

JOHNNY GREEN NOW ENTERED AT HILLTOP

Former Star Guard at Lehigh Discovered to Have Martiaulated Here in December.

Johnny Green, star guard of the Lehigh eleven, is now a law student at Georgetown University. His entrance was unheralded and unannounced last December, and his presence was not discovered until yesterday.

Green is a graduate of the Boston Latin School, where he made a name for himself as a football player. Going to Lehigh, he immediately was chosen for the varsity, and last season he did good work in all the big games of his eleven.

However, finding himself unable to agree with some members of the faculty, Green quietly disappeared. He came to Washington, D. C., and entered the law department of Georgetown University.

The former Lehigh star will not be able to represent the Blue and Gray until next fall. He is a redoubtable shot putter, cannot snaffle in any athletic event at the Hilltop this season. Green is a six footer and weighs well over 200 pounds. He should prove a strong candidate for the 1915 football team.
