RAE TANZER IS HELD ON CHARGE OF USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Girl Suing Attorney Osborne for $50,000 Heart Balm Severely Arraigned.

DEFENSE WITNESSES ATTACK

Hotel Clerk Who Identified Couple Was Prompted, Is New Charge.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Rae Tanzer, plaintiff in a $50,000 breach of promise action against James W. Osborne, wealthy attorney, was bound over to the grand jury today on a charge of using the mails to defraud. The verdict was the climax of a morning of sensational evidence on each side of the case.

United States Commissioner Houghton severely arraigned the pretty defendant when he handed down his decision.

"There is no doubt in my mind but what plenty of evidence has been introduced to warrant holding the defendant," he declared. "The person who signed the bill bond for the defendant undoubtedly wrote the 'Dear Oliver' letters. At least one of them passed through the mails."

The district attorney has introduced a witness—Post Inspector Swayne—to prove that S. T. Safford, one of the chief witnesses for the defense, had been prompted.

Swayne testified that when Safford entered the courtroom yesterday he saw someone point out Osborne to him. Afterwards Safford identified Osborne as the man who registered at a hotel in Plainfield, N. J., with Miss Tanzer.

Contradicts Witness.

As soon as Swayne was excused from the stand, the defense introduced Alfred McCullough, a private detective. McCullough swore that he had "shadowed" Safford all day yesterday, and that at no time did anyone approach him to prompt him about his testimony. He said that no one spoke to him after he entered the court room until he testified.

Attorneys for Miss Tanzer began an argument to have her bill bond set at a low figure. Commissioner Houghton indicated he would set the amount at $5,000, which was named when she was first arrested.

The district attorney's office issued a statement shortly after noon today stating that an affidavit, signed by Matthew J. Smith, former district attorney of Queens county, had been turned over to it, in which Miss Tanzer's claim that Osborne was with her in a hotel at Plainfield, N. J., on October 18, last, is flatly repudiated.

Smith swore, it was stated, that on October 18 Osborne was at the Bar Association rooms in this city at the time Miss Tanzer testified he was with her in Plainfield.

Have New Witness.

Miss Tanzer's attorneys declared today they had a trump card in a "star" witness to play, after a Plainfield, N. J., hotel clerk and Miss Tanzer's sisters had positively identified Attorney Osborne as her suitor. As positive evidence that Osborne was not Miss Tanzer's companion was given by the hotel proprietor.

At the resumption of the hearing before United States Commissioner Houghton on Osborne's criminal charge against Miss Tanzer for alleged use of the mails to defraud, her attorneys made another effort to dismiss the proceedings. Commissioner Houghton, however, apparently concluded to hold Miss Tanzer for action by the Federal grand jury, for probable indictment and trial.

Osborne's own defense trial of Miss Tanzer's charge suit next month. Osborne's chief defense, to prove an alibi, was disclosed today. He declared he was trying a case at Providence when Miss Tanzer says he was wooing her.

"LOVE" CULT HELD FOR GIRL'S DEATH

Mysterious Drug Fatal, High Priest and Ten Other Members Are Arrested.

ALLIANCE, Ohio, March 25.—Following the death of Miss Amy Tanner, aged twenty-three, here early today, P. A. George, high priest, and ten other members of the "new love" religious cult were arrested, charged with complicity in the girl's death.

Miss Tanner's death, the coroner charged, was due to a mysterious drug. She died at a local hospital after being removed from the headquarters of the cult at midnight.

Five of those arrested are women. George came to Alliance a year ago. The cult, it is said, was started in the fall. Its meeting place was a large and expensive house near Mr. Union College, in the village of Alliance.

VILLA ARMY ROUTED AT EBANO, CARRANZA RUSHES TO TAMPICO

First Chief Claims Victory, and Says He Is Massing Reinforcements.

ANGELES AFTER PRESIDENCY

Commander of Northern Leader's Artillery Circulating Speeches Here.

Claiming that his forces had already routed those of General Villa at Ebano, General Carranza, first chief of the Mexican constitutionalists, wired today to his agency here, confirming reports that he is massing reinforcements at Tampico.

In view of the valuable American and English oil properties there, it is thought probable that the Navy Department will order another warship to Tampico to protect foreign interests.

Should the Americans and other foreigners show apprehension, the State Department is expected to ask that a transport be sent in addition to take them on board. It is understood that the United States consul at Tampico will endeavor to have the combating forces respect the area of the oil wells and tanks as a "neutral zone."

The only excuse given for the circulars is that Angeles is being groomed as the candidate of the convention forces for the Presidency. At the Villista agency it was stated that Villista had never expressed any intention of seeking the Presidency for himself.

Stranger Gets $1,000 in Damages

Because He Wouldn't "Move Up Front," William A. Morgan Was Called a "Boob."

A verdict for $1,000 damages against the Capital Traction Company was returned by a jury before Justice Gould in Circuit Court No. 1 in favor of William A. Morgan, who sued because a motorman grabbed him and shoved him to the head-end of a street car when he refused to respond to the conductor's familiar "move up front."

Morgan claimed that he was one of the "strap-hangers" passengers on a Pennsylvania avenue car on November 12, 1912, and was in no manner impeding the operation of the car. He asserted he asserted he had the right to stand where he desired so long as he did not block the aisle or interfere with traffic.

Testimony was to the effect that the motorman used such epithets as "Boob" and "a lot of cattle" in addressing Morgan and his co-strap-hangers. It was further alleged that he seized Morgan by the neck and one arm and forcibly escorted him out to the front platform.

In pleading for damages for the alleged rough-housing, Morgan claimed that he was "humiliated and disgraced" in the eyes of the passengers.

The defense was that one of its servants had a right to enforce reasonable regulations looking to expedition of traffic and the comfort of the passengers.

Former Justice Wright, T. Morris Wampler, and B. C. L. Moncreur were counsel for Morgan.

TO DECIDE DEMANDS OF BREWERS TODAY

Whether the demands of the local brewery workers shall be granted and a contract to succeed the one which expires April 2 drawn up and signed probably will be decided at a meeting of the employing brewers in the afternoon at the headquarters of the union.

Mr. Tschirner, who represents the employees, said this afternoon that he did not expect to meet with the employers again, but A. J. Kugler, labor organizer for the brewery workers, said that the employers had agreed to the result of today's conference.

"We are not asking anything of the employers that will cost them a penny," said Mr. Kugler. "We do not want to work for them when there is no work for us to do, but we are asking that all of the men be employed half time instead of half the men all the time. That has been our policy since we organized in 1911."

MAJOR LANGHORNE NOT ONLY ATTACHE RECALLED BY U. S.

Major Edward P. Lawton Ordered Back From Switzerland Since War.

HAS HAD NO DETAIL SINCE

War Department Still Maintains Deepest Screen of Secrecy Around Matter.

The deep veil of mystery which has been thrown over the recall from Berlin of the American military attache, Major George T. Langhorne, was made still more interesting today by the information that the Government about three weeks ago also recalled Major Edward P. Lawton, retired, military attache in Switzerland.

Major Lawton has not been detailed for any duty since his recall, Major Langhorne has been detailed to the War College, where he will prepare his report.

Acting Secretary of War Breckenridge today was asked to comment on the reports which are in circulation concerning Major Langhorne's recall. He refused to make any statement except to say that Major Langhorne was recalled, just as was Major Lawton earlier, "for reasons sufficient to the service."

Reform Unconfirmed.

The Acting Secretary of War would not confirm or deny a report that Major Langhorne was recalled because of the discovery that his name had been attached to unauthorized pro-German dispatches which were sent out from Germany to help create sentiment favorable to the German side in the war.

The fact that not only Major Langhorne has been recalled, but also Major Lawton, at a time such as this, when military affairs in Europe are at the height of their interest, indicates that it is questionable whether there is not yet to the entire situation than has yet been revealed.

The position of military attache to Switzerland just now is of special importance, inasmuch as there is serious talk of a change in the position of some features of the Swiss military plan in the United States.

Adequate Reasons.

It is denied at the War Department that the recall of Major Lawton has any connection with the recall of Major Langhorne. In each case the department takes the position that it had adequate reasons, but it refuses to make those reasons public.

Facts have come to light in relation to the Langhorne case which indicate the affair is a most embarrassing one to this Government and that the Government officials may have played a part in the circumstances leading up to it. It is asserted that Major Langhorne's name was attached with other names to a number of pro-German dispatches which went out from Germany for the purpose of dispensing information which would create sentiment favorable to the German side.

In plain English, the dispatches to which the name of Major Langhorne was attached in an unauthorized way were "faked."

Nothing to Discredit.

The War Department insists that Major Langhorne has done nothing to bring discredit and will say nothing to indicate that it holds the German government responsible. Nevertheless the air of complete secrecy thrown about the matter leads to the belief that the Government does not want to disclose all the facts for fear they will tend to show that the sending out of unauthorized dispatches bearing Langhorne's signature was something other than an individual matter and proceeded from officials of the German war office to put the best front on its case to the world and especially to the American public.

MAY EXTEND TIME FOR GRAND HOTEL

Treasury Disposed to Show Proprietor Every Possible Consideration.

An extension of time from April 1 to the date fixed by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Newton for the closing of the Grand Hotel, may be given Edward J. Gardner, proprietor, who has applied for this concession. Officers of the department are disposed to give every possible consideration to Mr. Gardner.

There are a number of applications for the lease, but no decision has been reached.

Mr. Gardner only wants a week to dispose of his furnishings and other properties, so that he may vacate with as little actual loss as possible.

Germany's "Daylight" Plan Saves Petroleum

COPENHAGEN, March 25.—The "more daylight" movement has struck Germany, for economic reasons.

On April 1, the hands of every clock in Germany will be advanced an hour, according to advices received here today. The Germans estimate that by rising an hour earlier and retiring an hour earlier during the six summer months they will save $5,000,000 worth of petroleum. Petroleum is much in need in Germany just now.

MOTOR BUS LINE TO BALTIMORE IS PLAN

Maryland Promoters Ask Utilities Board for Permit to Operate Here.

Plans for the establishment of a line of motor buses between this city and Baltimore are being made by the Baltimore and Washington Boulevard Company, a Maryland corporation, which today applied to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to operate in the District of Columbia.

The application probably will be received by the commissioners and the company informed that this is not a matter for consideration by the commission, but one to be determined by the Commissioners under the regulations applying to the operation of jitney buses.

Accompanying the application is a schedule of the fares between Baltimore and Washington and way stations, and the rate between the two cities being one way. The proposed route from Baltimore is by way of Halethorpe, St. Dennis, Elkridge, Dorsey, Waterloo, Savage, Laurel, Millersville, Ammondale, Beltsville, Branchville, Berwyn, College Park, and Hyattsville.

The Washington terminal will be at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue and the Baltimore terminal at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore and Calvert streets. The company states that it proposes to place in operation 40-horsepower buses, having a seating capacity of 12 passengers and weighing approximately 7,500 pounds each.

The business of the company, it is stated, will be conducted by a partnership of directors consisting of John J. Kraft, J. Morton Lehman, C. E. Trace, E. A. Hiner, Frank J. Kenney, William H. Leary, and Fred H. Mann, all residents of Maryland.

SLAIN MAN'S WIDOW ADMITS SHE SPIED

Mrs. Randolph Says She Widened Hole Through Which Husband Was Shot.

ST. LOUIS, March 25.—The veil of mystery surrounding the shooting to death of wealthy Richard Randolph with a gun poked through an aperture in the skylight over his store seems to be lifting today.

The police claim to have drawn from Mrs. Randolph an admission that she recently enlarged the skylight aperture which she might better say upon her husband when women customers were in his office. The police said today Mrs. Randolph said she saw her husband make improper advances to some of them.

Witnesses were produced today who, the police say, told them they saw Ralph Holliday, named in a divorce petition filed by Randolph, enter the building where the store was located, with a long barrel weapon in brown paper. Holliday was still missing today.

Today the police had only a meager description of him. Mrs. Randolph told them today that Holliday bore tattoo marks which would easily identify him. Another clue was developed today when detectives found eight cartridges near the skylight. They were of a caliber to fit the carbine with which Randolph was killed.

Mrs. Randolph was entirely composed when interviewed today. She told reporters she would assume the conduct of the dry-goods business of her husband, who left no relatives, and declared she "wouldn't wear mourning either."

When Mrs. Randolph was arrested she drew a note from her bosom and tore it up. This note read: "My dear Paul, I will save you. It is high time. I will be still. I know nothing. Guess they will get me sooner or later. Burn this. Bring my new shoes to the door. Put a 'pill' in the heel of the right shoe."

The note was in Holliday's handwriting.

ENGLAND MAY NOT SUPPORT JAPAN'S POLICY

Program of Oriental Domination of China and Pacific Clashes With British View.

NIGHTMARE FOR RUSSIA

Siberia and India Are To Be Considered in Diplomatic Councils of Future.

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER.

If England is prepared to stand back of Japan in the Japanese demands on China, then there is trouble ahead for the United States.

If, on the other hand, England is tiring of her alliance with Japan, and fearful that it looks to a dangerous measure of Japanese aggrandizement, then there will be an easy solution of the problem of the Far East.

Japan is ready to provide a vast field of investment for English capital in China, on condition that Japan shall be allowed the political and diplomatic leadership in opening China.

But the Japanese terms strongly suggest the purpose of unifying the yellow race against the white race; and that forecasts a world contest that is not to the liking of the masses of people in Britain, or to the people of Australia, New Zealand, Canada, and other British possessions, to say nothing of the United States.

Position of England.

Ever since the sensational stories began to come out of Peking concerning the twenty-one demands that Tokyo had made on China, there has been persistent inquiry as to the attitude of the British government. Was it prepared to back up its Oriental ally, or would it object to Japan taking advantage of its position in the Western world to enforce a new set of requirements in the East?

The Washington Government has made no conclusive record of its opinion regarding the Japanese demands in the East. It has been waiting to see what Japan really meant. There has recently come to Washington information from the East that tends to explain the situation, and to make clear that Japan has either assumed a great deal, or else is confidently expecting to be backed by England.

The question which echoes on the East today is whether Japan is planning, on her own account, to seize and exploit China, or whether she expects to provide Japanese military power and diplomatic authority, in a partnership in which England shall furnish the cash, Japan's twenty-one demands on China.

FEAR MISSIONARIES WILL BE MASSACRED

Officials Notify Morgenthau to Demand Protection by Turkish Government.

Extremely grave advices are reaching here partly unofficial, partly official, as to the danger to American missionaries and refugees at Urumiah, in Persian Armenia.

Word of serious rioting at Urumiah, with mobs of fanatic Mohammedans led by the Turkish consul, reached the State Department yesterday. Ambassador Morgenthau was ordered to ask the Turkish government to protect the missionaries and refugees. No other way seems feasible of affording protection in that remote part of the world.

Today, unofficial information is coming through which indicates conditions are worse than supposed. Missionaries and refugees, Christians, are being subjected to extreme indignities and are in danger of being massacred.

Ambassador Morgenthau has been asked to act quickly and present the demand for protection forcefully.

PETROGRAD, March 25.—Russian troops operating in the Persian province of Azerbaijan have been ordered to march immediately against bands of Turkish regulars and natives reported to have committed unspeakable outrages in Northwestern Persia.

The order was dispatched to the general staff of the Russian army in the Caucasus, following the receipt of reports from Tiflis, telling of fresh outrages at Urumiah and in neighboring villages. The Turkish Kurds have executed several hundred Assyrian Christians and have carried scores of girls away as captives.

One report received here today: from Tiflis, says Harry P. Packard, attached to the Presbyterian church mission at Urumiah, credit for saving the lives of more than 2,000 Assyrians facing massacre at Geogtana.

Packard, single-handed, faced the advancing Kurds, waving an American flag, according to a telegram from Tiflis. As a result of his parleying the Kurds drew off. Two hundred Assyrians had been executed before Packard arrived, according to the Tiflis dispatches.

DESTROYERS DASH BY TURKISH FORTS

British Vessels Enter the Dardanelles Narrows to Make Observations.

LONDON, March 25.—The Anglo-French fleet has again entered the Dardanelles and has opened a violent bombardment of the Turkish forts near the Narrows, according to a dispatch from the island of Tenedos this afternoon.

LONDON, March 25.—Duplicating the feat of the British cruiser Amethyst, two British destroyers ran by the Turkish forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles Narrows yesterday and penetrated to a short distance beyond Kild Bahr, according to dispatches today from Athens.

The destroyers accompanied a flotilla of Anglo-French warships that entered the strait and shelled the forts at long range. Almost unnoticed, they approached the Narrows entrance and dashed by the forts.

On their return they were greeted by salvoes from the Turkish batteries on both sides of the entrance, but escaped undamaged. Their observations, according to Athens, confirmed reports of the strait each night, guiding the gunners shelling the mine sweepers, but thus far the casualties have been light, and the operations are proceeding.

No news was received here today regarding the progress of the allied expeditionary forces reported to have landed on both sides of the Dardanelles entrance.

President Accused Of "Joshing" Girl

Calls Up Secretary's Daughter and She Refuses to Recognize Him.

President Wilson has been accused of "joshing."

The accusation came from a young lady whom the President called up by telephone last night to congratulate her on her birthday.

"This is President Wilson," said the chief executive. "I want to congratulate you."

"You're joshing," giggled the girl. "You can't fool me."

"But really it is," insisted the President, somewhat shocked. "I hope you do not object to my calling you up."

"Aw, go on, was the answer. And the president at a bold end offered to buy a shirt for the young lady, Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, asserted that it really was the President.

Seaman Is Commended.

Secretary Daniels has commended Louis Levy, ordinary seaman, on board the Texas for gallantry and presence of mind in jumping overboard and rescuing a shipmate at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, March 9, 1915.

His home is 20 Ludlow street, New York, and he was born in Baltimore.

BATTLE AND CARPATHIANS IS DEADLIEST OF GREAT WAR

Russians Are Hurled Against Stubborn Defense of Mountain Passes in Advance on Budapest.

Czar's Forces Reach Position Fifteen Miles From Bartfa. Tremendous Importance Attached to Operations.

LONDON, March 25.—In the first stages of the great battle preceding the Russian attempt against Budapest, a Slav force has pressed through the western gaps of the Dukla pass and entrenched itself within fifteen miles of the Hungarian city of Bartfa.

Reports both from Petrograd and from Vienna agree today that the opposing armies are now locked in a great struggle in the snows that may settle the fate of Hungary.

A decisive Russian victory at the mountain passes will start a great force of Slavs, augmented by the besiegers of Przemysl, pouring through the Carpathians into the Hungarian plain for the advance against Budapest.

According to latest information in London, the Russians who have retained control of the important passes of the Dukla, have advanced to a position near Svidnik, in Hungary. Their present objective is Bartfa, the northern terminus of a railway leading south through the principal upper Hungarian city of Kasza. Bartfa lies 150 miles northward from Budapest.

The first great engagement, if the Russians succeed in capturing the railroad, will be fought around Kasza, forty-two miles south of the position now occupied by the Slavs.

East of the Dukla, where large bodies of Russian troops are clashing with the Austro-Hungarian forces, the slaughter is heaviest.

The Russians are throwing regiment after regiment against the stubborn Austro-Hungarian defense in a great effort to gain control of the Lupkow and Uszok passes.

No hint has come from the Russian war office regarding the disposition of the Russian troops that invaded Przemysl, though German critics accept it as a fact that part of this army already is en route to the Lupkow and Uszok passes.

An official statement from the Russian war office today said that the Russian booty at Przemysl included 500 wagons of food, clothing and great quantities of coal, but contained no other news.

A semi-official statement from Petrograd today indicated a sudden assumption of fighting at several points in Poland. Northeast of Ostroloka, on the left bank of the Omulier, Petrograd asserted that the Russians have captured several trenches of the enemy and have repulsed seven counter-attacks. Special mention is made of desperate fighting in the woods near Valki.

In East Galicia, Russian infantry is credited with a daring exploit east of Anghelova. Slavs are reported to have frozen height and drove out the Austrians at the point of bayonets.

The Austrians, according to official statements from Vienna, are making every preparation to defend the fortress of Carov, from possible attack by a part of the Russian garrison released at Przemysl.

Austrian forces have been massed along the Danube river, about 100 miles east of Carov, and have destroyed a pontoon bridge thrown across the Danube by the Russians.
