

THE WASHINGTON TIMES DAILY MAGAZINE PAGE

HAPPENINGS OF DAY IN CAPITAL SOCIETY

Items of Interest and Importance of Past, Present, and Future Among Official and Fashionable Folk.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis S. Nash will entertain at a dinner party of twelve guests this evening at the Chevy Chase Club.

Mrs. Nash was hostess at a picnic yesterday in the grounds of the Naval Observatory in compliment to Mrs. Adelaide Worth Bagley and Mrs. Kelim, who is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Hoogewerf. Auction bridge was played during the afternoon. The other guests were Mrs. Edward W. Eberle, Mrs. J. A. Hoogewerf, Mrs. William Gorgas, Mrs. Carlo B. Brittain and Mrs. George A. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Hampton Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Brown, Mrs. Eberle, Talbot, Mrs. Edward Sefton, Miss Ruth Parker and B. Lang will be some of the dinner hosts of the evening at the Chevy Chase Club.

Mrs. Mason Gulick will entertain informally at luncheon tomorrow at the Shoreham Hotel.

The Russian Ambassador and Mrs. Bakmeteff entertained eighteen guests at dinner last evening at Stone Villa, Newport.

Mrs. James Milton entertained guests at the Swimming Club motor picture show in Bar Harbor last evening.

Mrs. Hunt Slater was a guest at the musicale which Dr. and Mrs. Robert Abbe, of New York, gave at Brook End, in Bar Harbor, yesterday.

Mrs. N. D. Parham, of the Portsmouth, entertained at dinner last evening in the roof garden restaurant of the McAlpin, in New York city.

Miss Gladys Ingalls is arranging a carnival to be held in Bar Harbor, August 14 for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Truxton Beale entertained at a luncheon of eight covers at the Casino at Narragansett Pier yesterday.

Lieutenant Commander Frank Taylor Evans, U. S. N., and Mrs. Evans gave a dinner in the house at the naval training station in Newport last night for Mrs. William C. Wickham, of Baltimore; took their guests to the theater, and went to Berger's for supper and dancing.

In the party were Mrs. William Rogers Morgan, Lieut. Joseph M. E. Smith, U. S. N.; Miss Ruth Fullam, of Fort Monroe; Charles Matthew C. Gleason, U. S. N., of the training station; Lieut. Charles E. Richardson, U. S. N., and Mrs. Evans Swell, of Washington.

An automobile party, including Mrs. Alexander Glass, Mrs. William Hayward and her daughter, Mrs. Howard Hume, and Mrs. Mason Blunt, motored to the Homestead, near Washington, from the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs yesterday for luncheon.

The lawn fete for the benefit of the Day Nursery and Dispensary, which did not take place last evening because of the rain, will be an event of this evening on the lawn of the Emmanuel Baptist Church, Sixteenth street and Columbia road.

Lieut. John J. London, U. S. N., entertained several guests at the supper table at Berger's in Newport last night.

In a party at the Casino at Narragansett Pier, yesterday afternoon, with Mr. and Mrs. Jerome N. Bonaparte were Paymaster General Henry T. F. Harris, U. S. N., retired, and Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Omer L. Richards. Mrs. Bonaparte was enveloped in a long, loose cape of puffy colored plush with a large bow pointed foot.

Personals.

W. C. Gilbert, of this city, won the men's putting event in the golf contest at Lenox, Mass., yesterday.

Commander I. V. Michtow, naval attaché of the Russian embassy, arrived at the Plaza in New York city yesterday from Newport for an indefinite stay.

Col. Charles L. McCawley is visiting Mrs. William H. Hunt in Newport, where he is a prominent figure about the tennis courts.

Maurice Fremont Smith will pose in some of the tableaux and living pictures which will be given in Bar Harbor for the benefit of the Soldiers and Sailors of Arts on August 17. The entertainment will be followed by a costume ball.

Gen. and Mrs. W. W. Wetherston are guests of Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Thompson at their home in Southampton, Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clough Buel and their daughter, Miss Beatrix Buel, are spending the summer at West-By-North, Rindfield, Conn. Miss Buel's engagement to Henry C. Smith, son of the late Joseph A. Smith, was announced last spring. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Recent arrivals at the Shoreham Hotel include Henry B. Gilman and Mrs. Lewis M. Allen, of Boyce, Va., and Mrs. W. W. Upshur, of Annapolis, Md.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. Pleadwell returned Sunday from a lengthy visit to the Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Murray Crane, Jr., have taken a house at Gloucester, Mass., for August, and went there today from Dalton, Mass.

Charles Warren, the Assistant Attorney General, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Billas at their cottage at Bar Harbor, where Mrs. Warren, their daughter, has been for some time.

Mrs. Fullam, wife of Rear Admiral William F. Fullam, U. S. N., and Miss Rhoda Fullam, who will be an attendant at the wedding of Miss Margaret E. Andrews and Morgan Belmont on August 14, are stopping with Miss Booke on the old Beach road in Newport.

Prince Hatzfeldt and Capt. Frank von Pappen, who were guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Constantin T. Dumba, at Lenox, Mass., left there yesterday for this city.

Lieut. and Mrs. David I. Hedrick, who have been living at the Mendota for a short time, are moving into their quarters at the navy yard today, where Lieut. Hedrick is stationed. Mrs. Hedrick, who is a daughter of Goulin Bull, formerly of the navy, now a professor at the West Point, is a bride of the early spring. She is a cousin of Mrs. Benson, wife of Rear Admiral W. S. Benson.

Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, who has been at the Maplewood, in Pittsfield, Mass., for some time, left there yesterday for Chicago.

Miss Natalie Winslow and her brother, Cameron McKee Winslow, Jr., are among those matched to play in the series of tennis tournaments for the juniors in Newport this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry motored yesterday to St. Marys county, Md., where they will remain some time.

Mrs. Baum, wife of Lieut. George M. Baum, will leave Washington tomorrow for a lengthy visit in Virginia.

Capt. Joseph Earle has returned from a stay at the military camp at Fishkill, N. Y. He will leave Washington tomorrow for the military camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., where he will remain a month. He will be accompanied by Lieut. Robert W. Crawford and Mrs. Crawford. Lieut. Harrison Brand, who has been on duty in New Hampshire all summer, will join Captain Earle at Plattsburg.

Mrs. T. Ritchie Stone and her daughter, Mrs. George Appley, who have just returned from a visit at Old Point Comfort, Va., will go to Atlantic City later in the month for a lengthy stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Faulkner, who were at the Wendell Hotel, in Pittsfield, Mass., returned to Washington yesterday.

Mrs. Horatio N. Slater has as her guest in Newport, Chester A. Butman, of Pittsburgh.

Col. and Mrs. C. A. F. Flagger returned to Washington last week from the Thousand Islands, where they spent a month or more.

Miss Blanchard Scott, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, returned to her home at Fort Myer last week from visits in New York, Long Island, and Connecticut. Miss Houston Scott, who was the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. H. Stockton, of Princeton, has also returned. Miss S. L. Merrill, New York, sister of Mrs. Scott, is spending several weeks with General and Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. W. D. MacDougal, wife of Commander MacDougal, U. S. N., and Ensign Warner Worth Bagley, were among those dining at the Casino, in Newport, yesterday.

Gouverneur Hoes is spending several weeks in Atlantic City.

W. E. Hoover, of this city, is at the York Hotel in New York city for a short stay.

Judge William H. Hunt is passing some time at the Stratford Hotel in New York.

Charles Howe returned to Washington yesterday from Atlantic City, where he has been for two weeks.

C. C. Brainerd, of this city, is a regular visitor at the Gregorian Hotel in New York city.

FEMININE FOIBLES By Annette Bradshaw

THE WRONG STYLE FOR A CANOE.

Is Readjustment of Sexes Necessary?

Educator Claims God Did Not Intend Man to Be Morally Inferior to Woman.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Did God make women to be morally superior to men? Prof. Thomas W. Shannon, president of the Single Standard Eugenic Movement and editor of Practical Eugenics, thinks so. "If the double standard of morals is responsible for nine-tenths of the inconsistencies practiced by men, and there is a marked and growing tendency among an ever increasing number of women to indulge in liberties formerly indulged in by men only. Unless this tendency is overcome by the immediate and unflinching teaching of a consistent standard of morals, the race will degenerate and rational solution of these problems. Readjustment Necessary. "A readjustment of the sexes is now possible, necessary, and inevitable. When the natural restraints forced upon women in the past shall have been fully removed,

ADVICE TO GIRLS By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie—I have been going with a young gentleman for over a year. To tell the truth, I think the world of him and there is no other one who could take his place. He uses to think the same of me, but lately he has gone around with other girls and does not go with just one. He says that does not make him think less of me. Do you think it does? He tells me to go around with other boys, but I have no desire to do so. He seems to think a great deal of me and then at other times he acts altogether different. Perhaps he is doing this just to tease me. Could you give any advice as to what I should do in regard to this matter? TRUE HEART. I should believe the man if I were you, True Heart. You know it more of you if he has your companion-ship after he has been going with other girls for a while. As long as he always comes back to you, I don't see where you should need worry. If I were you I should go around with other men, just as your friend told you to. He may be sure that he will do it that he has felt safe in behaving the way he has. Dear Miss Laurie—For two years I have been hoping to see a certain girl in the town where I attended school. I only went home twice in two years, but she wrote to me and I to her both times. I have taken her to several dances, and when we go she seldom dances with any other person than myself. If I ask her why she does this, she says she is tired or doesn't feel like dancing, yet when I want a dance she always lets me have it. In her letters to me she wants to be affectionate, yet I do not want her to be so. I do not want her to take me seriously because in the first place I have not an idea of getting married, and in the second place I do not think I like the girl well enough to want to marry her. Please tell me how to keep her acquaintance yet let her know I don't want to marry her, for that is not my intention. WORRIED. The girl has probably misinterpreted your attentions as serious, yet from what you have said I can scarcely see how she could if she has had any experience with men at all. Since this is so, she may feel herself very much abused if you try to plunge right in and explain affairs. First of all, about the dancing. The next time she goes to a dance with you and refuses to dance with the other men on the ground that she is tired, don't ask her any more yourself. If you do this, she ought to be cured of her habit of making her dances with you conspicuous. If you write your letters in a friendly way, without attempting to be in the least affectionate, she will certainly be foolish if she does not follow your lead and, instead, maintains her former attitude. Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper, and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care, this office.

Advertisement for Beecham's Pills, describing it as a "Self Preservation" and "The first law of nature." Includes the name N. W. BURCHELL and address 1325 F St. N. W.

Care of New-Born Child Demands Intelligence on Part of Mother and Nurse

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, (Copyright, 1915, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

THE new-born babe is as a lamb that frisks in the sun and bleats at its own innocence. It knows not the meaning of ill-doing, nor dreams that another does. Here, indeed, Diogenes could have found his variable virtue. No eyes to dread, no tongue to suspect—innocence personified. Milk and water, mirth and innocence are the happy mixtures of new-born days. What a pity they cannot endure forever! Here is an armed host to trample down envy and ambition. The mewling and crying innocent often bows his way into this vale of travail with a white, wax grease over its body. This should be removed by lanolin, rendered lard, or olive oil. Vasoline does not make a grease for this purpose, and the nurse, in any event, must anoint the folds and creases of the infant's flesh with vigor.

The First Bath. The new worldling's bath should be tempered to the lamb at 100 degrees, or blood heat. He should be slowly dipped into the bath, his head excepted. The neck should rest upon the wrist of the nurse above the hump of the thumb, thus keeping the head high and dry. The water should be warm, when the little one may be lifted upon a warm soft towel in the nurse's lap. A bath irritates the folds of the child's flesh only when the nurse fails to dry it thoroughly. Every morning, one hour after the child is nursed, a similar bath should be given. On the whole, this necessary ceremony should last only from two to five minutes. Such baths are best given after the second week by the mother. Only a mother senses the slight affections and injuries that often escape the most vigilant and expert nurse. Furthermore, these baths should be given every morning from birth until the child is four years old.

After each bath for the first few days, to obviate hemorrhages or infections at this point, the nurse should tie a fresh bandage about the neck. Iodine-iodine powder or alcohol are used upon the cut surface. It is then covered with sterilized gauze and held delicately in place with an abdominal band. Infants are chafed, have "heat" marks or irritated skins from moisture between the buttocks, and another without washing the child, and excessive or too frequent feeding. Frequent changes of the napkins are necessary, even if they are severely matted, then damp. Moreover, the little one must be washed each time with warm water and thoroughly dried. The delicacy of the child's skin is sometimes soothed, but not always necessary. Three cups of boric acid water—a teaspoonful to the cup of water—should be kept at hand, one for the mother's breasts before and after nursing, one for the child's mouth, and another for the child's eyes. If the child is so unhappy as to be bottle-fed, the first one is used to contain the rubber nipples. To cleanse the mouth a piece of sterilized gauze or cotton is wound around the finger and inserted into the child's mouth between the cheeks, checked, and over the tongue before each feeding.

Sleep Most Necessary. Never use a comb on a child's scalp. A stiff hair brush will harrow and rake the crop of down as aggressively as you should dare. No room is too warm, winter or summer, for the newly born. Indeed, it is usually advisable to put the infant in its crib—immediately after it is nursed—on its right side, with a warm water bottle in the crib. If the child is, as it is said, bottle-fed, the bottle may be given to the child in its bed. Cradles, trundle beds, and all sorts of rocking or other unstable bedding are an abomination to the baby's future health and habits. A legion of grown-ups today, whose mothers pook-pooked at these rules, are chronic sufferers from right-sided paralysis, by sitting, bouncing, juggling, and holding them as infants when they would have been better off left yelling or tossing in their cribs. Never show off an infant to relatives or friends. That is to say, avoid the injurious proud parent act, which makes you drag the child from its crib merely to show it to its aunt or grandmother, or to keep it awake beyond its hour. Feed by the clock, and never go visiting with the child. A babe's proper place is asleep in its PERSONAL ADVICE. Readers desiring a personal reply should remember: 1. To address inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirschberg, care of The Washington Times. 2. To enclose a stamped and addressed envelope. A new method sanitary bridge—the cleanest, healthiest, and most dental achievements, at about half the cost of the old methods. Dr. Vaughan, 307 7th St. N. W.

Woodward & Lothrop New York—WASHINGTON—Paris

A Special Clearance of Women's Fine Suits at $25.00

Now it is possible for women to get more for $25.00 expended in a suit than it has been for some time—we believe you will get greater value than you ever thought possible. They are all suits that we know thoroughly because they were bought only after the most careful selection, and for our best clientele. A splendid variety for choice.

Advertisement for Woodward & Lothrop suits, featuring "Suits for Mourning Wear" and "Another very stylish group of Suits is fashioned of Natural Pongee and Shantung Silks." Includes an illustration of a woman in a long dress and hat. Text describes various suit styles and materials like faille silk, wool, gabardine, and serge.