

Happenings of the Day In Capital Smart Set

Items of Interest and Importance of Past, Present, and Future Among Official and Fashionable Folk.

King Christian of Denmark celebrated his forty-fifth birthday yesterday, and the duty of congratulating his majesty fell to the American minister, Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, as acting dean of the diplomatic corps and the representative of a neutral power.

The King received Minister Egan with great cordiality and accompanied him to the door of the salon. When Dr. Egan's carriage left the palace, grounds a crowd cheered lustily for the United States.

Dr. and Mrs. Stephen O. Richey, who have been at Atlantic City for several weeks, en route from their summer home at Narragansett Pier, returned on Saturday to their home at Lafayette square.

Mrs. Eldridge Jordan spent a few hours in Washington today on her way from Annapolis, Md., where she will spend a week or ten days to shopping. Mr. Jordan will join her in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan have spent most of the summer at their country place on Chesapeake near Annapolis, with a several weeks' motor trip, stopping in the Berkshires, at Narragansett Pier, Newport, and numerous other places, for variety. On their return from New York they will open their town house in Jackson place for the winter, but they plan to make frequent week-end trips to their country home, and there is a prospect of numerous interesting house parties.

Colonel Vignal, military attaché at the French embassy in New York, who has been assigned to the post in Florence, Court formerly occupied by Rear Admiral and Mrs. Frank Beatty, will be accompanied by his wife, Miss Beatty, and their son, Midshipman Frank Beatty, who will be in Washington Wednesday from Norfolk, where Admiral Beatty is stationed. Mrs. Beatty will visit Lieut. Commander and Mrs. G. L. Smith at their home in Leroy place, while Midshipman Beatty will go to the Naval Academy Thursday morning as the academic year there commences Friday.

Col. Jay E. Hoffer, U. S. A., and Mrs. Hoffer have leased the home of Col. and Mrs. E. L. Ladd in Bancroft place for the season. Colonel and Mrs. Hoffer will visit the Ladds at their place late last winter and have already a large acquaintance here. Mrs. Hoffer is noted for her unusual beauty and charm of character.

This summer they have been at Atlantic City, on Long Island, and at West Point, and they have recently placed their daughter, Miss Helen Hoffer, at the Emma Willard School, at Troy, N. Y.

George de Benneville Keim, of Philadelphia and Washington, and his mother, Mrs. Keim, who are making an extended tour of the States and England, are now at the Elton Hotel in Waterbury, Conn.

Major General John R. Brooke, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Brooke, who have been at the Maplewood Hotel in Pittsfield, Mass., since June, are at the Manhattan Hotel in New York. They will come to Washington tomorrow to attend the Grand Army reunion, after which they will go to St. Augustine, Fla., for the winter.

Brig. Gen. John L. Clem, U. S. A., retired, Mrs. Clem, and Miss Clem, also left the Maplewood yesterday for New York.

Mrs. William MacDougall and children, who have been at Jamestown all summer, will return to Washington Wednesday to join Commander MacDougall, who is on duty at the War College.

Mrs. Thomas W. Gregory, accompanied by Mrs. Gregory, mother of the Attorney General, Miss Gregory and the younger members of the family, returned to their home on the tenth street yesterday after spending the summer at Monterey, Pa.

Col. William P. Wooten, commandant at the Washington Barracks, and Mrs. Wooten will entertain ten covers at dinner Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spaulding Flannery, who have been occupying the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGill in Cleveland Park, during the summer, have moved into their new residence near California and Massachusetts avenues, which has been under construction for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reburn, who have been at their summer home in New London, Conn., since spring, will arrive in Washington this week.

Charles C. Glover, sr., is recovering from an operation performed Thursday. He is at his suburban residence, Westover, in Massachusetts, where he extended his stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, who passed about six weeks with Emily Tuckerman at her country home in Stockbridge, Mass., have returned to their residence in Edgewood, near Bethesda.

The Ambassador of Argentina returned to Washington yesterday from Buenos Aires, where the embassy was established during the summer. The ambassador was to have sailed for his own country about a week ago, but delayed his departure on account of the Pan-American conference. Mme. Naon and their children reached town today and joined the ambassador at the embassy in New Hampshire avenue.

One of the most interesting visitors to Hot Springs this autumn is Lady Ross, who was formerly Miss Betty Ellison, of Hot Springs, Ark., and who has found many friends in the cottage colony there. Lord Ross is said to be the third largest landowner in Scotland and maintains a town house in London. His castle in the Highlands has been turned into a hospital for wounded soldiers, and Lady Ross has taken an active part in the war relief work. She made the trip across the ocean to take the baths at Hot Springs, as the convalescent cure are not available owing to the war.

Justice Charles F. Hughes and Mrs. Hughes, who have been spending the summer at Rangeley, Me., have closed their cottage and expect to arrive in Washington on Wednesday, accompanied by their family.

Commander Charles L. Hussey has returned to his apartment in the Connecticut Hotel, where he is still in New York. Mrs. Hussey, who is still in New York, will join him shortly.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Gibson Maddox to Austin Scott Imrie was solemnized yesterday afternoon in the rectory of St. Albans Church, officiating the Rev. F. A. Gavan officiating. Miss Dorothy Cossens was bridesmaid, while James T. Daly, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. As many people were to leave the city immediately after the ceremony, the bride wore a simple, elegant suit, and a large black velvet hat. The bridesmaid also wore a blue tailored suit and black velvet hat, while the groom wore a suit of black and white. The ceremony was held at 10 o'clock at the Clarion apartments.

James A. Ryan, of the reports division of the office of the Comptroller of the Treasury, and Mrs. Ryan have returned to their home at Lafayette square after spending a month camping in Canada and in the Northern States. After October 15 they will be at home at their new residence.

Mrs. C. F. Worthington, who has been in Illinois, is now the guest of Mrs. C. S. Hanks at Manchester, Mass.

Pay Inspector J. H. Merriam, U. S. N., and Mrs. Merriam have leased the residence 1335 I street, and will be close neighbors during the winter of Mrs. Merriam's mother, Mrs. C. S. Hanks. They are just back from Nahant, where they spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Newbold have gone to Atlantic City for ten days or a fortnight, after which they will return to their apartment in the Avondale.

The marriage of Miss Harriette Fowler to Mr. Charles Taylor, of the Sinaloa, Taylor, and Co., of New York, was solemnized at 3 o'clock yesterday at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Archibald Houston, wife of the principal of Episcopal High School, Francis L. Daingerfield, head of the school. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Sinclair Taylor. The maids of honor were Miss Mary H. Daingerfield and Miss Earle Taylor.

GERMAN LINES NOT IMPREGNABLE—MASON

Kaiser Likely to Send Back to West Many Regiments in Russia, Says Expert.

By J. W. T. MASON.
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The most important victory the allies have won along the western front since the battle of the Marne is still in process of development. Until the result of the fighting of the next few days becomes known it cannot be said, however, whether the successes are only sporadic or whether the allies are seriously developing a major offensive.

The allies can not know as yet themselves, how far they may be able to push back the Germans. The determining factor will be the casualties, and neither the British nor the French have announced their losses in the present engagements.

Might Cut German Lines.
But whether or not the Germans prevent the allies from further advancing, the victories already gained must have a legitimately encouraging effect in Great Britain and France. The German line has been proven not to be impregnable, and although it doesn't follow the Germans can be forced back into their own country, it ought to prevent them from wandering far ahead in other hostile directions.

This in all probability will be the most important effect of the British and French victories. It is now unquestionable that the Germans have overestimated their power of resistance in the west. Indeed, it is now unquestionable that the Germans have withdrawn a large number of their divisions from the Russian campaign. The capture of Warsaw and other eastern successes have been worth the German losses of this week-end in the west; but a few more such losses will cut the German western lines of communication, and no victories in Russia would pay for such an outcome as that.

May Have Saved Petrograd.
It is probable, therefore, that the Germans will be compelled to send back to the west many of the regiments now in Russia. Petrograd, in fact, may have been saved by the sudden military activity in France and Belgium. Furthermore, the Anglo-French victories must have a cautionary effect on Bulgaria, and indeed, it is probable that now will wholly reconsider her attitude.

If the allies break through the German lines in the west, Bulgaria, which has been mustering her forces in the Balkans, and should that happen, Bulgaria's entrance into the war with the Germans would prove to have been her death warrant.

Gay Ceremonies Usher In Fall-Trade Opening

Silver Chimes and Shrieking Sirens Announce That Capital Merchants Invite Inspection of Their Stocks—Sky Filled With Gift-Bearing Balloons.

Washington's "fall-trade opening" was ushered in at 9 o'clock this morning with ceremonies befitting a patriotic holiday. Tooting whistles, silver chimes, and shrieking sirens announced to the residents and thousands of visitors that now through the city the fact that the merchants of the National Capital invite them to inspect stocks replete with fashion's latest fables.

At the request of the Retail Merchants' Association, under whose auspices the trade week was inaugurated, factories tied down their whistles, sirens, and shrieking sirens, and automobiles whirled through the streets tooting horns as the hands of the clock pointed at nine. As this day drew crowds into the streets, the air was filled with vari-colored balloons thrown from the tops of tall buildings in the business districts.

Each of the air-bubbles bore an order upon one of the thirty stores which had subscribed to the balloon movement. The balloons were cast aside their usual dignity that children for the impregnable, and although it doesn't follow the Germans can be forced back into their own country, it ought to prevent them from wandering far ahead in other hostile directions.

Before several of the buildings from which the balloons were distributed the crowds became so dense that the police were compelled, in some instances, to take precautionary measures to see that no one met with injuries in the rushes which resembled under-classes' tugs-of-war on college campuses. Those who took part, however, entered with good grace and took their buffeting with smiles. Women's hats were knocked askew, but they did not heed this trifling as they snatched at the chance to obtain a substantial discount on a pair of shoes or a bejeweled trinket.

Simultaneously with the signal for the distribution of the balloons, sixty-five of the largest stores of the city drew from before their windows curtains to display wares arranged in the competition for the three silver cups offered by the Retail Merchants' Association for the best dressed windows.

This afternoon and tonight the judges in the window-dressing contest will make their inspections. Each window entered will be viewed under both natural and artificial lighting conditions. The judges are J. R. Hamilton, The Times; Troland Cleas, The Herald; LeRoy W. Heron, The Star; and Ralph Goldsmith, The Post.

In addition to the cups offered by the Retail Merchants' Association, a prize of $10 in cash and a loving cup have been offered by the Washington Shoe Retailers' Association to be awarded to the merchant whose window display excels among the footwear establishments.

The committee which arranged the fall buying program is composed of M. A. Leese, chairman; Joseph Herberich, Sidney West, Julius Duhring, and George S. DeNeale.

4 U. S. Submarines Fail to Pass Test

L Type Craft Not Rejected, But Trouble Is Found in the Engines.

Reports from Newport are that four of the L type submarines have failed to pass inspection by the naval trial board of the board of inspection and survey, of which Capt. Henry B. Wilson is president.

Navy Department officials understand that defects have been found in the Diesel engines, but it is also stated that the boats have not been rejected.

Admiral Taylor, chief of construction, has been advised that the boats have not been accepted, but that the defects are such that they will be remedied by the contractors.

Meantime, the department is studying other types of machines, including gas and steam turbines, for submarine propulsion and will try out a new type of engine in the G boats.

War Department Clerk Victim of Bullet Wound

George G. Elise, thirty-two years old, a clerk in the office of the adjutant general in the War Department, is in a serious condition in a Philadelphia hospital as the result of a self-inflicted bullet wound, according to a dispatch received by the Washington police today.

Elise, according to the dispatch, lives at 12 Adams street northwest. Friends said today that he left for Philadelphia last Wednesday, having obtained a leave of absence from the War Department.

It is understood to have been much saddened during the past few years by the deaths of his wife and baby. The man has been in the War Department for about eight years.

Wilson Names Aide for Jubilee Speech

Assistant Secretary of War Breckinridge has been designated by President Wilson to represent him Thursday and speak at the dedication of the memorial tablet marking the spot in the Manassas Courthouse grounds, where four years ago, the National Jubilee of Peace was held.

Word of the selection of the assistant secretary as the principal speaker was received from Congressman C. C. Carlin today by George Carr Round, of Prince William county, Va., who has the dedication in charge.

DANIELS WILL HELP BURY F-4 VICTIMS

Full Naval Honors to Be Given at Arlington Services Tomorrow.

Secretary Daniels and other high officials of the navy will participate in ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery tomorrow in burying fourteen victims of the F-4, the submarine that was lost at Honolulu last March.

Four caskets containing the bodies are at the Washington Navy Yard today. The caskets arrived yesterday from San Francisco, to which point they were brought following the raising of the submarine.

The victims will be accorded burial with full naval honors. Secretary Daniels and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt have arranged to attend. Nearly all naval chiefs will go.

The funeral cortege will proceed from the Washington Navy yard at 8 o'clock tomorrow. The burial will take place at 10 o'clock. The bodies will be attended by an honorary escort up Pennsylvania avenue consisting of the Marine Band, a battalion of seamen, the Second Battalion of the Third Field Artillery, the Fifth Cavalry Band, and the Third Squadron of the Fifth Cavalry.

Chaplain M. C. Gleason, now stationed at Newport, and Chaplain J. B. Frazier, Norfolk navy yard, will have charge.

Among the unidentified bodies is that of Lieut. Alfred L. Ede, who commanded the F-4. The body of Ensign Timothy A. Parker, a visitor on the submarine, also cannot be identified. The widow of Lieutenant Ede will attend the services.

VETERANS AND "KIDS" SEE CIRCUS PARADE

Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Here for Two Performances Today and Tomorrow.

Just as though the town didn't have a week of excitement and parades ahead, the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus thrilled the small boy and diverted the attention of the G. A. R. veterans by sending its animals and performers on a long parade through the city this morning.

The circus parade began at the show grounds, Fifteenth and H streets northwest, and went all the way to Washington circle, and then swung back down the Avenue.

More than 1,000 men and women and horses were in the line of march, according to figures of the circus.

Thousands of Washingtonians and thousands of visitors lined the streets and crowded office and shop windows as the parade passed.

In addition to the performance this afternoon at 2 o'clock another exhibition will be given tonight at 8 o'clock. The same program will be repeated tomorrow, with the exception that there will be no parade. Doors to the menagerie open an hour before the show. An operatic concert by military band of forty-two soloists precedes each performance. The circus will leave tomorrow night for Frederick.

WAGON BREAKS AND BEARS QUIT PARADE

When the afternoon performance of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus opened today the menagerie was shy three perfectly good polar bears, who were lost in the shuffle during the street parade.

The big circus wagon carrying the bears broke down at Fifteenth and K streets, near the Department of Justice building. The bears were dropped out of the wagon because, though the wagon was disabled the cage wires held tight.

During the noon lunch hour a party of officials of the Department of Justice stopped to see the bears, when one of the circus drivers protested.

"All right," he yelled in his chaste circus English. "Shake down these hicks for a jit apiece. We can't show 'em no more."

But the bears were not interesting, after their lunch hour passed leaving them miles away from their bear meat, and the officials left.

If they got the wagon fixed this afternoon the three disgraced bears ought to be there for the night performance.
