THOMPSON SETON QUILTS BOY SCOUTS

Declares Methods of Chief Executive Are Repulsive to Him.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Ernest Thompson Seton, former chief scout of the Boy Scouts of America, has announced he was through with this organization and a severe criticism of James E. West, the present chief executive of the Boy Scouts. Mr. Seton describes him as "a good organizer, an executive of ability, but without knowledge of boys or their activities," adding:

"He has never really seen the blue sky of his life, and his office methods as chief executive of the Boy Scouts are such that I do not wish to be associated with him."

Members of the organization seen last night placed a different construction upon Mr. Seton's retirement. They said the former chief scout got out because he was not an American citizen and would not take the necessary steps to become one.

"Still a British Subject." The European war, it seems, brought about an investigation as to the citizenship of the Boy Scouts. It was made that, although he had taken out his first naturalization papers years ago, he is still a British subject.

It is said that at the February meeting of the organization in Washington Mr. Seton's name was quietly dropped from the list of officers.

Of this change Mr. Seton said: "It did not seem right for me to take out my full papers when my mother country was at war, so I am waiting. When the war ends I shall become an American citizen."

Mr. Seton says he forwarded his resignation as chief scout last spring, and that it has been held without action ever since, which Mr. Seton denounces as unfair.

"Of the executive board of the scouts only high praise is voted by Mr. Seton. His sole target is Mr. West."

According to Mr. Seton the Boy Scout movement as launched by Baden-Powell and himself was designed to bring the boys into closer touch with outdoor life, and in its highest sense, was the keynote.

"Now Drills and Wigwagging." "And now," says Mr. Seton, "there is a deadening of all idealism, and a loss of interest in trees and flowers, and all that makes up the wonderland of woodcraft. Now, the boys have drills and learn wigwagging."

"A measure of preparedness is all right for America, but this organization was not created for any such purpose."

Mr. Seton says tribute to Mr. West's business ability, admitting that the office force is splendidly equipped and that last year's budget reached the handsome total of $70,000 or thereabouts.

"They forget the boys," he adds. "Mr. Seton says he will hereafter devote his attention to the development of his Woodcraft League, which he asserts, the Boy Scout movement grew."

Mr. West issued a reply late last night through Colin H. Livingston, president of the organization. Mr. Seton was not re-elected chief scout. Mr. West declared, "because he had failed to respond satisfactorily as to what his intentions were about becoming a citizen of the United States."

Mr. West says that Mr. Seton's motive in giving to the newspaper his interview, on the eve of the opening of a campaign to raise $200,000 for Boy Scout work in Greater New York, was "selfish and unfriendly." He adds that the action taken in Mr. Seton's case "reflects the unanimous decision of the members of the board."

ELWOOD, Ind., Dec. 6.—"I have the stuff to put myself out of the way. It's no use for you to look for me, for you won't find me." This note David Davis, fifty-one, left for his children when he disappeared from his home in Elwood on August 7. Recently, while James S. Edgell, tenant on the Washington McCoy farm, just west of the city, was husking corn in a field an eighth of a mile west of the old McCoy glass works, he found a bleached bone and weather-beaten clothing of the long missing man. Exposed to the elements and to the attacks of feathered and fur-covered scavengers, every particle of flesh had disappeared from the bones, and identification was possible only through the clothing.
