Determination of Allies To Win Coupled With Grief at U. S. Position

Revelation of Public Opinion in France and England Toward America Made in Interviews With Trained Observers—Mutual Misunderstanding Is Apparent.

There is a revelation for the people of America in what the people of England and France think of them. The United States has been so concerned for several months by its misunderstanding with Germany that few persons have given much thought to the nature of its relations with other countries.

England Believes U. S. Puts Honor Below the Dollar

By ED L. KEEN. It is evident that America misunderstands England almost as much as England misunderstands America in this war.

American Patience Viewed in France As Money Desire

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS. Between France and the United States there exists a strange misunderstanding. Neither country appreciates the state of mind of the other nor grasps the full significance of what the other is contending for.

This is one's impression following a trip through the East, West and South, made to get in touch with home conditions after being with the allies in France since the beginning of the war.

While officialdom seems to appreciate America's position fully, the French man-in-the-street says: "Americans are patient." You know by the way in which the United States is being treated for a year and a half ago.

On the other hand, one observes a few Americans who seem to realize the deadly earnestness of the French. I have been frequently asked what France has to do to bring about peace.

France is not thinking of peace. And if you would insult a Frenchman, all you have to do is to suggest peace to him now.

"We did all we could honorably to have peace a year and a half ago," says a Frenchman. "Now peace can only come after we have won."

This is not bluff and bluster. He means it, every word. He says it quietly, but with a sort of religious fervor in his voice, his jaws set, face grim and determined.

So don't misunderstand the Frenchman. His country is so totally set on fighting it out to a victory, whether it takes months or years, that there is something in his determination that is almost weird.

SOCIALISTS PLANNING FOR NOMINATIONS

Party Will Hold No National Convention, But Resort to Referendum.

At least one political party will soon decide on its Presidential nominee. Prominent socialists here said today that early in March the results of the referendum which their party is taking would be known.

James Maurer, Pennsylvania labor leader, who has been prominent here of late in working against preparedness, is one of the candidates. Allen Benson, who is known as a writer and lecturer, is another.

The Socialists, who take unpopularity above all things else, and is opposed to preparation for national defense, insist they are going to roll up a large vote this year. They say antagonism of the Bryan Democrats to Wilson's program and opposition of numerous pacific Republicans to preparedness will give them 2,000,000 votes and a number of seats in Congress.

STONE AND BORAH CLASH IN SENATE

Press Clipping Offered For Record Brings Charge of Partisanship.

Just before the Senate yesterday adopted a resolution by Senator Lodge, asking the President to set apart a day on which the public might contribute to the relief of distressed Armenians, Senators Borah and Stone clashed over the fact that Senator Borah had sent to the desk for insertion in the Record a press dispatch from Petrograd telling of the death at the hands of Kurds of a Dr. Shimmun, said to be an American missionary, and also said to have been burned to death in oil.

Senator Stone expressed his surprise that Senator Borah presented a newspaper clipping of this nature, and charged Senator Borah with trying to give the action on the resolution a "partisan color."

Senator Borah said he simply wanted to accentuate the situation, and trusted it was not improper for the Senate to be informed how American citizens were treated elsewhere. He trusted also "we have not become so supinely cowardly as to be afraid to let the public know the conditions which exist in those countries with reference to our own people."

Senator Stone insisted it was not "a suitable thing to do," and there followed a sharp colloquy in which Senator Borah emphasized that Senator Stone was supposed to regard anything of the kind put in the Record as a reflection on the Administration. He said Senator Stone was the only man who had accentuated partisanship in this matter.

ANOTHER AQUEDUCT BRIDGE IS DEMANDED

Safety First Association Adopts Resolution For Building of New Span.

A new Aqueduct bridge is urged in a resolution introduced by J. Clinton Hlatt and adopted unanimously by the Washington Safety-First Association at the Public Library last night. The association also adopted a resolution commending the Commissioners for providing repairs to the floor of the bridge.

A. J. Deland, a director of the association, announced he had organized "safety patrols" among the pupils at the Franklin, Thompson, and Jefferson schools, and will shortly extend the idea to other schools.

QUEST FOR BODY OF MALLORY A FAILURE

Friends of Baltimorean Drag Waters Where Corpse Was Seen Without Success.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 10—After dragging the waters of the bay in the vicinity of Pool's Island for several hours for the body of Dwight P. Mallory, who was lost some months ago while on a ducking trip, a searching party has returned, reporting the trip unsuccessful.

Recently a rumor spread that Mr. Mallory was alive and that he had been seen in a hotel in Newerk, N. J., but this report was found to be a hoax. There is a standing offer of $500 reward for the body.

You Can Tell The People Who Have Iron In Their Blood

Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Folks.

Doctor Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Nervous Run-down People 200% Stronger in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases. NEW YORK, N. Y.—"One glance is enough to tell which people have iron in their blood," said Doctor Sauer, a specialist in this city in a recent discourse. They are the ones that do and dare. The others are in the weakling class. Sleepless nights spent worrying over supposed ailments, constant dosing with patent medicines and narcotics for nervous weakness, stomach, liver or kidney disease and useless attempts to brace up with strong coffee or other stimulants are what keep them suffering and vainly longing to be strong.
