THURSTON URGES HOME GARDENS

Say It Is Economic as Well as Scenic Benefit to City.

Plans for the extension of gardening among pupils of the public schools are being worked out by Superintendent of Schools Ernest L. Thurston, he stated today.

It is planned to interest the children in gardens of their own rather than school gardens, although the latter will not be neglected.

The economic value of gardens such as could be made in the back yards of school children is believed to be great.

For some years school officials have endeavored to interest students in gardening. More cultivation of ground said to be practically going to waste would lead to a reduction in the high cost of living, educators believe.

There are but few productive gardens among the schools now. Most schools have flower beds, and in one or two instances vegetables are raised, not with a view of realizing profit, but as an experiment.

Superintendent Thurston is enthusiastic over the plan of a widespread interest in home gardens. "Leaving out the decorative side of the question," he stated today, "there is a certain economic development obtainable from these gardens which is highly beneficial."

"Think of the vast supply of vegetables available if all the space now being practically wasted was utilized. Need we stop at the yards of the school children? No. We could go out to the vacant lot next the home and cultivate that space."

"Most of these lots are eyesores and the general scheme of beauty of the entire neighborhood would be improved by cultivation."

"Under the laws of the school system it is possible to provide an agricultural teacher, but no funds are available. It is possible that the pay of a teacher could be procured, but then it would be necessary to provide, among other things, labor to prepare the ground for the reception of fertilizer and seeds."

It is the belief of Mr. Thurston the training received from the care of even a small plot of ground gives the student a sense of responsibility and arouses a thrifty spirit.

"If we could get the boys and girls interested in gardens at home," he said, "there is no question but that morality would be better developed. The reasons that juvenile courts are necessary are because the child has a foe to idleness and is productive of thrift, industry, and integrity."

Each year the pupils of the public schools are given an opportunity to purchase small quantities of seeds at reduced prices.

These sales have shown a steady increase, it is stated, but it is not thought sufficient to merely tell children how to plant them.

Members of the Board of Education are interested in the proposition, but have taken no steps in the matter. They agree that the subject should be introduced in the schools, and some think school credits should be given. If gardening was introduced it is believed it would be in line with the vocational ideas being developed in this city.

THIS STOPS HAIR FROM FALLING OUT

Ever try to count the dead hairs in your comb and brush? They are nature's warning of future baldness and proof that the dangerous little dandruff germ is busy on your scalp.

Dr. Sauerburtel, the famous Paris specialist, first discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe. Then came the discovery of the value of the real Parisian Sage (liquid form) in destroying the dandruff germ and promptly preventing the further loss of hair.

The effect of only three days' use of Parisian Sage is simply marvelous, and the American people have now awakened to the fact that dandruff is just as unnecessary as it is unhealthy, and that they can be quickly rid of it and save their hair by using a few ounces of Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is sold by O'Donnell's Drug Stores and good druggists everywhere. It's an inexpensive, daintily perfumed liquid, free from stickiness, and will surely cause hair to grow soft, lustrous, and really seem twice as abundant—Advt.

York Mother Finds Ideal Cold Treatment For Her Little Boy

Nothing to Swallow—You Just Rub It On.

Mother everywhere will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Chas. I. Smith, 623 West Gas Alley, York, Pa. Mrs. Smith tried the Southern remedy—Vick's Vaporub Salve, when it was first introduced in York, and writes—

"Our little four year old boy had a cough for about a week. We gave him everything we knew, and nothing seemed to do any good. So when we got Vick's Vaporub I rubbed it on his chest well for two nights and I have not heard him cough since. I think it is the best medicine I have ever had in the house."

Vick's Vaporub comes in salve form, and when applied to the body heat, the ingredients are released in vapor form. These vapors are inhaled with each breath, opening the air passages and loosening the phlegm. It's a real "Bodyguard of the home" against all forms of cold troubles. 25c, 50c or $1.00. At all druggists.
