

COUNTRY AWAYS PRESIDENT'S REPLY TO POPE'S APPEAL

(Continued from Page One.) pursued is susceptible to two interpretations—either the President believes it proper to await an exchange of views with the entente powers or there is an expectation of an utterance from Germany which may put a different face on the whole matter.

Close Co-operation in Reply. Mindful of opinion in America, mindful of the eagerness of the Russian Socialists for peace, mindful of the necessity of stimulating the German liberals by making them clearly understand that efforts at conquest on the part of the entente are merely distorted notions of the Pan-Germans, there must be the closest co-operation in framing a reply.

So far as the President himself is concerned, he still believes the world cannot be made safe for democracy until a new kind of government arises in Germany that can be trusted as a partner in a world league to enforce the peace of the future.

Hope of Revolution in Germany Ends. But this expectation of a revolution in Germany, considered last April as likely to follow the Russian upheaval, is now slowly vanishing. What officials really believe will happen is a peaceful revolution, a change of democratic tendency.

Just when that time will come, no one knows. Information as to what is happening in Germany, politically or economically, is only fragmentary, and few people in our Government know enough about distant Germany to form an opinion on the subject.

The President is the best informed man in Washington, and he is the single person who has a clear conception of what is going on behind the German lines, for all data of a confidential character gathered by England and France is available to him.

Just as it was the President alone who could tell when America would enter the war, so is the President alone able to forecast with any degree of accuracy when there will be peace.

PASTOR SEES NO PEACE TILL KAISER IS DEPOSED

"No peace can be concluded with the Kaiser on the throne. When Prussian militarism has been crushed, America will make peace, not before."

These views of the Rev. D. H. Martin, pastor of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, today are accepted by members of his congregation as his comment on the Pope's appeal for peace.

Captain in New Army and His Affianced Bride

CAPT. GERALD EGAN.

CAPT. EGAN TOWED LOUISE HOOVER AS HE AWAITS ORDERS

Another war-time wedding in the National Capital's younger set is soon to be added to the already long list. It was learned today when the engagement of Miss Louise Hoover, sister of George C. Hoover, a prominent attorney, and Capt. Gerald Egan, for several years connected with Washington newspapers, and who is a son of the American minister to Denmark, was announced.

Both Captain Egan and Miss Hoover, whose grandfather was for years connected with the diplomatic service, have been identified with the younger set here for the past several years, and are widely known.

Captain Egan served four years as a private in the regular army. This experience enabled him to lead many of his competitors for commissions.

AMERICA TO SEND 1,200,000 SOLDIERS TO FRENCH FRONT

That the United States intends sending at least 1,200,000 fully equipped and trained fighting men to France is shown by a statement given out today by the committee on public information.

The statement shows the Government is preparing to send 500,000 infantrymen and that there will be one artilleryman for every two foot soldiers.

Can Send 100,000 Monthly. However, it has been established that 100,000 men can be transported across the Atlantic every month. The shipping facilities now available are adequate to keep these bodies of soldiers fully supplied and equipped.

QUITS NAVY LEAGUE BECAUSE OF ROW

PERRY BELMONT.

BELMONT'S SPLIT WITH NAVY LEAGUE PRESAGES OTHERS

The resignation of Perry Belmont as vice president and director of the Navy League is expected to be followed by those of other prominent members of the organization unless its attitude toward Secretary Daniels is changed.

This became known today, when members of the Navy League who read Mr. Belmont's letter of resignation said it thoroughly voiced their sentiments.

Letter to Thompson. In his letter of resignation, sent to Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the league, Mr. Belmont said:

"The good accomplished by the Navy League in the past is beyond question, but its present efforts are jeopardized by persistent disagreement with the official head of the navy in time of war.

"Of this attitude I disapprove, and, therefore, with regret, tender my resignation as director and one of the vice presidents of the league."

Mr. Belmont's resignation will be laid before the officials of the league at their next meeting, and probably will be accepted, unless there is such an adjustment of the organization's controversy with Secretary Daniels in the meantime as to cause him to reconsider his severance of relations.

Tying Reconciliation. A retired naval officer who enjoys the friendship of Secretary Daniels and of the principal officers of the league is understood to be exerting efforts to reconcile the contending forces.

STATE, WAR, NAVY REDOUBLE EFFORT WITH SPY DRAGNET

Rumors of spies today caused the Government to redouble its guard against traitors in the State, War, and Navy building and other buildings.

Reports have been received by officials of the three departments named above that agents of the German government have repeatedly succeeded in gaining admission to the building and obtained army, navy, and diplomatic secrets.

Plain clothes men were today added to the regular uniformed force of watchmen, which was increased to more than double its usual strength upon the declaration of war.

URGENT PIECEWORK, NO NIGHT HOURS, IN WAR PLANTS

In the manufacture of munitions at home, as well as in the use of them at the front, the United States is learning all possible lessons from its allies, and a report on industrial efficiency and fatigue in munitions factories in Great Britain, made public by the Department of Labor today, suggests the adoption of the piecework plan and the absence of night work wherever possible.

The possibility of a wide employment of women in American munitions factories was one of the chief reasons for making the report, which shows that female labor is especially adapted to the making of small arms ammunition.

The medical examination of 1,543 men, 1,509 boys, and 1,326 women and girls, while revealing evidence of strain and fatigue, says the report, "showed less ill-health than was anticipated."

DEPOSED EMPEROR OF RUSSIA NOW SAFE AT TOLBOLSK

PETROGRAD, Aug. 20.—The former Czar has arrived at Tolbolsk, a western Siberian town, according to official announcement. It was in this town that the late Gregory Rasputin, the mystic monk who wielded a great influence over the Emperor's family, was born.

The official announcement follows: "Owing to reasons of state the government decided to transfer to a new residence the ex-Emperor and ex-Empress, who are detained under guard. The place selected was Tolbolsk, where they were taken after requisite measures to insure their safety. With them went of their own free will their children and certain of their entourage."

Tells of Departure. NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Herman Bernstein, telegraphing from Petrograd to the New York Herald, gives a graphic description of the transfer of Nicholas Romanoff, former Czar of all the Russias, and his family from the Alexander palace in Siberia.

Accompanied Czar. Continuing, the Bernstein dispatch says: "In bygone days the Czar's guards were chosen from troops and gendarmes, who could be depended on in defending the Czar against the people. This time the guards were selected from regiments devoted to the people and the revolution. It is understood that Prince Dolgoroukoff, a personal friend of Nicholas, was allowed to accompany him."

Had Few Admirers. "Mr. Kerezhsky gave all instructions, entering into every detail of the trip. He spoke with the Czar on the platform at the station before going on board the train. The man who only recently ruled Russia, and dishonored Russia by his rule, and the man who now virtually rules Russia and is striving to maintain her new liberty and save her honor."

Had Few Admirers. "No ruler ever had so few followers or admirers as Nicholas. Weak, yet cruel and obstinate, he discredited his own regime and destroyed it. Like an overripe fruit, autocracy fell to the ground. There is no element in Russia that even sympathized with the Romanoff dynasty after the Rasputin scandal and the pro-German intrigues of the Russian Empress were revealed."
