WOMEN PLEDGE REGULAR GIFTS TO SMOKE FUND

As The Washington Times Tobacco Fund for the Sammie mounts higher and higher, several contributors have come forward who want to give systematically. They want to give a certain amount every week, or every month, as the case may be.

One of these generous givers is Miss Isabel Horning, of 3319 Sixteenth street northwest, who sends $2, her contribution for October and November. She expresses her regret that her October contribution was delayed, due to the fact that she has been in Canada.

Mrs. Rachel E. Laurie, of 506 Sixth street northeast, sends $1 for the fund, and says she will give 25 cents a month.

The big contribution from employees of the Naval Gun Factory, received by The Times last week, was from the workers in the tool shop. They have subscribed the largest round robin contribution to the tobacco fund of any industrial plant in the District.

A captain of the coast artillery, who has not yet been mentioned, left a box of good cigars at The Times office. His request that they be put in the hands of the soldiers will be gladly carried out.

Soldiers Gave All For Liberty Bonds, Sacrificed Insurance

Thousands of soldiers at the cantonments and camps throughout the nation pledged their last cent to the Liberty loan. As a consequence Treasury officials are hard at work on a plan to permit them to take out soldiers' insurance without going into debt.

Many of Uncle Sam's new soldiers did not know that certain of the allowances made them were withheld from their pay. They gave freely to the loan. It is estimated that the total from military men will be near the $100,000,000 mark. Many will not have enough left to carry insurance unless they are relieved to some extent from the burden of loan subscriptions.

HIGH ARMY MEN ACCUSED AS SPIES BY 'INSIDE' PAPER

Charles that two high United States army officials, "not in active service, but there, just the same," are in the employ of the German government as German spies, are made by John R. Raiton, editor of the Providence Journal.

The Rhode Island editor explained how his newspaper obtained much advance information regarding the plans and activities of Count von Bernstorff and the numerous German agents in this country.

Continuing, he said: "There are three men in the Austrian general's office who ought to be sent home. We know that there are a hundred German spies in the army today. But how can we be expected to eradicate those evils at once, when our Department of Justice has not as much money in a year as the German spy system in New York city used in one week?"

"If it any wonder if two of the high officers in our army, today are German spies? They are not in active service, but they are there just the same. One of them was asked to make a report to the Government on the state of wireless in the army."

"We got a copy of it five days before it was delivered to the Government on the desk of the German ambassador in Washington."

"The trouble here is that we have a Congress of corner-procurers, statesmen in the House who realize what's going on 'over there' or think in national terms, but fall down in international terms. Everything is muddled in Washington."

Of these 1,482, Mr. Wood said it was possible that a certain number may have failed to report to their boards and have gone directly to the camps, but he did not think that this number would exceed more than thirty.

"These men," said Mr. Wood, "are all technically deserters."
