

LANSINGS' NIECE TO BE WAR NURSE; MAY GO TO FRANCE

Miss Natalie Dulles, niece of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Robert E. Lansing, will leave Washington within a few days for Philadelphia, where she will take up a course in nursing before sailing for France.

Mrs. Lansing will miss her niece very much as she has made her home with her uncle, the Secretary of State, during the past winter and has participated in many of the social functions given by Mrs. Lansing.

It was Miss Dulles who managed the "bandbox," the war shop of Mrs. Lansing, on Twelfth street, last month. The bandbox was the war store which Mrs. Lansing ran for the benefit of war orphans. Beautiful gowns, suits, and jewelry were donated by Mrs. Lansing and society women with which to stock it. The proceeds of the sales were given to orphans.

Miss Dulles is the daughter of a prominent clergyman of Auburn, N. Y. She left her home there at the beginning of the winter to come to Washington as the secretary of the State Department war relief unit of which Mrs. Lansing is president.

"I shall love to go to France," said Miss Dulles to a Times reporter. "It has been my desire since the beginning of the war, and I think it is the best way I can help out in this war."

When asked if Mrs. Lansing were not proud of her prospect as a Red Cross nurse, Miss Dulles said, "I guess she is but you had better ask her."

Miss Dulles, who is a pretty blond of twenty-two years old, said she is not a bit afraid of submarines.

"I suppose they know how to control them by now," she said.

CORN TO FILL GAP AS USE OF WHEAT IS CUT FURTHER

America today hit the roughest food road thus far traveled in the war.

The titanic job of supplying England, France, and Italy with sufficient cereals to maintain the morale of the troops and people has reached the point where the American table is forced to make the greatest sacrifice of its history.

Individuals are limited to a pound and a half of wheat a week, and hotel men are pledged not to serve wheat flour in any form until the next harvest. There will be plenty of meat, however, to make up for the wheat bread lack, meatless days having been abandoned for thirty days.

Corn is called upon to fill the wheat gap for the time. Beginning tomorrow, corn shipments to Europe stop for two months—the grain-making season. Thousands of bushels will thus be made available for home consumption and tonnage, and wheat will be released for Europe. It is estimated that 20,000,000 bushels of wheat will be shipped across during April.

But, pending the next harvest, which holds out great hope, the country appears willing to undergo sharp curtailment in bread supply, according to official reports here.

The residents of Grimes county, Tex., for instance, have pledged themselves to give up every bushel of wheat within the county limits for war needs. Similar action is expected elsewhere.

Oppose $2.50 Wheat. Rallying after overheard defections by the Senate, the House today had thrown its opposition in the path of $2.50 wheat, in the House. Leaders forecast this morning the legislation will come to a definite halt here.

Taking stock of war warnings by the Food Administration and Chairman Lever of the House Agriculture Committee, many members at first insisted on bigger wheat prices, today were veering about. These included some members from farmer States.

The feeling grew that the allied food situation is now in too precarious a state to take any chances with demoralization of the grain markets through radical price advances.

Hudson Announces a 4-Door Sedan

It is natural that this new model should be an advance over the cars of similar type which have preceded it and which are now its contemporaries.

The lines are straighter than in former models. All side windows disappear and the rear posts on either side are removable. The seating arrangement comfortably provides for seven persons.

There is no question about the suitability of the Super-Six Sedan for all touring purposes to which even a light touring car is put. Thousands of Hudson Sedans are in service.
