PORTO RICAN SHIP GOT S. O. S. CALLS

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 9.—Officers of an American liner arriving here from Porto Rican ports reported having picked up an S. O. S. call Wednesday night. Records at the maritime exchange do not show any ship carrying wireless having been attacked Wednesday night. The liner carried forty-eight passengers and came into port with all lifeboats lowered. The captain stated that he was too far out at sea to make a port when the call was sent out for boats to run for cover last Monday.

NO TRACE OF SUB SEEN OFF FLORIDA

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 9.—Seaplanes and small naval craft after an all-day search failed to find any trace of the German submarine reported to have been sighted off the east coast of Florida. The captain of the Clyde liner Arabah and skippers of several small craft reported sighting the raider off the coast. The captain said he sighted a periscope some miles off Mayport, Fla. He immediately put into the nearest harbor for safety and sent out a warning to shipping. The Heisman, a small steamer, also put into port and reported having sighted a U-boat. Fearing a hostile attack, the lights in the village of Mayport and the lighthouse at that point were dimmed. Shipping was ordered into the St. Johns river.

BULGARIAN ENVOY DANGEROUS ALIEN, ASSERTS SERBIAN

have been recalled, because of a violent demonstration staged upon receipt of the peace terms. "It is quite probable that the Bulgarian division was withdrawn from Roumania, but it was in order that it should be sent to the Salonica front against the English, French and Italian, allies of the United States, and the Bulgarian minister urges his government that the present policy toward the United States be continued. "I must point out that all these expressions of sympathy of our enemies usually occur when they are starting some action against us, and in the present case, the latest statement by the Bulgarian minister happens on the day following the submarine attack on American shipping and American citizens. "If these enemy agents either observed silence in such moments or expressed their regret for the losses of the allies, one could suppose that they were in sympathy with us, and that they regretted that has happened, but when they state publicly what the Bulgarian minister stated, I believe they are dangerous."

Scenes Snapped at Congressional Travesty on Baseball

On the left is Congressman Sydney E. Mudd of Maryland, and he is worried. In seven innings he let the Republican team to victory. An atook the smile from the face of Congressman James V. McClintock, who posed before the game started. His Democratic retainers were beaten by their political and diamond opponents.

CHARITY COVERS COUNTLESS ERRORS IN CAPITOL GAME

The Republican baseball team is triumphant today. President Wilson tossed the first ball in the seven-inning game at American League Park yesterday when the Republican minority team wiped out the November political defeat by an overwhelming victory over the Democratic opponents. Score: Republicans, 19; Democrats, 5. The President, Vice President, Speaker Clark, and other leaders—social as well as political—watched the Democratic team go down to defeat. As the Republican players piled up the score against the representatives of his party, the President's smile became more expansive. His applause encouraged the Democratic team, but the G. O. P. had clinched the victory from the first inning. Congressional colleagues contributed the humor of the matinee travesty on the national pastime. Dignity was forgotten, and the comment of Senators and Representatives on the playing of individuals kept the fans in an uproar. The players' high proficiency in the art of wrangling made the life of an arbiter miserable. The game was ripe with errors.

Clark in High Beaver.
In the Presidential box on the Democratic side of the fielding, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, and Miss Helen Bonea, Speaker Clark and Mrs. James Thompson, his daughter, were seated with the Democratic contingent beside the President's private box. Speaker Clark attracted attention in his capacity as honorary umpire. A tall beaver hat of the vintage of '61 topped the picture—and the Speaker.

The President tossed the ball to Congressman McClintock of Oklahoma, captain of the Democratic nine. The movie man failed to get the movement, and the Executive smiled broadly as he obliged by hurling the ball again.

Congressman Fuller of Massachusetts opened the series of sensational wallings by a two-bagger. Larkin, of the Bay State, completed the circuit for the first run of the game. Congressman Johnson of South Dakota, who has recently completed a course at the officers' training camp at Fort Myer, Va., returned to the field as a commissioned officer. Lieutenant Johnson celebrated the reunion by a double bagger in the opening frame, scoring on a single clipped by Congressman Mudd of Maryland, captain of the Republican team.

Under a heavy bombardment by the G. O. P. batsmen, the Democrats changed their battery. Delaney, of New York, was the twirler, and McClintock was at the receiving end during the initial inning. Sterling, of South Dakota, replaced McClintock, who went into the box for the Democrats, Delaney holding down third base.

Triples Plentiful.
No home runs were chalked up during the contest, but doubles and triples were plentiful.

The fielding of both teams was the laugh-provoking end of the matinee. The Republicans pounded McClintock unmercifully in the third inning, sending five men across the plate without much protest from the majority side of the House. Changes were made in the line-up, but the crowd failed to observe the change in results. When the comptometers turned in the official score, it stood: Republicans, 19; Democrats, 5. The errors proved too much for the machines.

More than twenty wounded veterans of the American expeditionary force now at Walter Reed Hospital attended the ball game as guests of the Red Cross. The maimed soldiers hovered in the vicinity of the President's box. The members of the President's party smiled a friendly greeting to the khaki-clad fighters.

Mrs. Horace Towner, president of the Congressional Club, which directed the charity baseball matinee, stated today that the proceeds from tickets and sale of flowers would exceed $1,200. The fund will be given to the Red Cross.

800 ALIEN SOLDIERS ARE MADE CITIZENS

SPARTANBURG, S. C., June 9.—Eight hundred soldiers of foreign birth became citizens of the United States at naturalization exercises held at the Liberty Theater at Camp Wadsworth yesterday.

BROODING OVER LOSS OF SON, MARINE ENDS LIFE

Believed to have been mentally unbalanced from brooding over the death of his young son, who was killed a year ago in a motorcycle accident, Corp. Gustav Johnson, twenty-nine years old, a marine, attached to the barracks at Eighth and G streets southeast, ended his life last night by inhaling gas from a tube in his apartment at 524 Seventh street southeast.

Corporal Johnson went to his room yesterday afternoon after returning from the barracks. He appeared in a cheerful frame of mind. Several hours later his wife detected the odor of gas from Johnson's room, and when the door was forced he was found lying across his bed, dressed in his uniform, with a rubber tube in his mouth and the gas turned on. After an investigation, Acting Coroner Carr gave a certificate of suicide.

CONGRESS GETTING READY FOR FIGHT OVER PROHIBITION

Under the surface in Congress, there is a great marshaling of forces for the new struggle over prohibition which will soon be forthcoming.

Practically no doubt remains that before this session is over there will be a test of strength in both houses on the question whether the nation shall be made dry for the period of the war.

The drys hope to force through some dry legislation this summer. If they do it will obviate the need of a separate fight to make the District of Columbia bone dry, although the drys will not overlook any opportunity to force a vote on this proposition.

Important conferences among leaders of the Anti-Saloon League and dry leaders in Congress have been held. The result has been a decision to miss no chance to force a test in both houses this session on war-time prohibition.

The drys have been prompted to action in part by recent statements of the President and Food Administrator Hoover, the effect of which, as the prohibitionists look at it, is practically to challenge them to put through direct war-time prohibition.

The Randall amendment to force the President to issue a proclamation preventing use of foodstuffs in making wines and beer is defeated by the intervention of the President against it. But at the same time it has served one of the purposes for which it was originally projected: It has stirred up anew the dry controversy in both houses.

What the drys now aim at is not only prohibition of the manufacture of wines and beer, but to require the Government to commandeer existing supplies of liquor for munition purposes. Thus they will seek to meet the argument that if beer and wines are not made the country will be driven to stronger drink.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Prohibition of the sale as well as the manufacture of all intoxicants during the war is the answer, William Jennings Bryan, president of the National Dry Federation, has made to Food Administrator Hoover's objection to the Randall prohibition amendment that to stop the manufacture of beer will result in the consumption of more whiskey. "Mr. Hoover's objection," wired Mr. Bryan to the federation, "can be easily met by a bill prohibiting the sale of all intoxicating liquors during the war as well as their manufacture."

The per capita weekly consumption of potatoes in Germany is 16 quarts; in Austria-Hungary, 8 quarts; while in the United States it is only 2.5.
