

BANKER WARNS OF FRENCH ORCHESTRA INTERNAL STRIFE TO PLAY IN CAPITAL

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—In an address delivered today before the convention of the American Bankers' Association here, Otto H. Kahn, of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., defined the lines of post-war period.

He said, in part: "There is one 'war after the war' for which the lines are now being drawn, and which indeed the attacking party has already started, although it was the country's general understanding that until the war against our external enemy is won, internal conflicts should be postponed.

"That is the war of the motley army ranging from the American variety of destructive Bolshevism to various gradations to self-seeking demagogues, well-meaning utopianists, intolerant and impetuous young writers strong in the assured consciousness of their mental and moral superiority, iconoclast theorists and, alas! too often, overworked, underpaid and consequently somewhat acidified college professors and other teachers—against those who believe that the accumulated wisdom of centuries of human experience is wisdom still, and who see in individualism, ordered, enlightened, progressive, sympathetic and adjusted to the changing needs and social conceptions of the age, the soundest and most effective instrument for the advancement and the happiness of humanity.

"I do not mean the harsh doctrine of the so-called Manchester School of the nineteenth century which, with a somewhat naive faith in the automatic and beneficent self-regulation of human forces, bade the individual to exploit his opportunities to the unrestrained limit of his strength, and the devil take the hindmost."

"The individualism to which I adhere, spells neither reaction nor greed, selfishness, class feeling or callousness. No less than those who carry their hearts visibly aching for the people and affairs against their oppressors, into magazine articles, political assemblies and upon lecture platforms; no less than they are we are generous for the well-being and contentment of the masses of the people."

MACHINIST DROPS DEAD.
Charles J. Stanowski, forty-two years old, living at 118 Todd place northeast, dropped dead this morning at the Government Printing Office. He died of heart disease. Stanowski was employed as a machinist in the Government Printing Office.

Those who know Otto H. Kahn and are even remotely aware of his indefatigable efforts for the promotion of French art in this country were not surprised when announcement was made recently of the conferring upon him, by the French government, of the Loyal Legion of Honor, which carries with it the title "Chevalier."

For more than a decade Mr. Kahn's activities in introducing to America all French things of worthy character are generally known. He has entertained a profound respect for the art, literature, drama, and music of France.

Now Mr. Kahn has concluded arrangements at the request of the French high commission for the presentation in America of France's oldest and finest symphony orchestra, one of the greatest extant—"La Societe des Concerts du Conservatoire"—which will be heard in Washington at Poll's Theater, Wednesday afternoon, October 16.

It was Mr. Kahn's initiative as chairman of the Metropolitan Opera Company executive committee, which gave the American people their first opportunities to hear and to see the representative French operas with which they were unacquainted.

Without Mr. Kahn's suggestions, some of the illustrious French artists engaged to appear at the Metropolitan might not have been so soon heard here and no such introduction to French opera comique would have been possible had he not carried out the project which flourished so artistically during the season of 1910-11 in the Century Theater.

Some of the finest examples of the French scenic artist's craft were viewed in this country because of Mr. Kahn's work.

The earliest efforts of the Theater Francaise were aided by the encouragement and aid of this patron of French achievement in the arts. Now, in the Theater du Vieux Colombier, New York may see plays presented by Jacques Copau's French players, for which Mr. Kahn is in part responsible.

A., as her representative in the District, has obtained office in 17 P street northwest, and will proceed at once to assume charge of the council's activities in housing and recreation for war workers.

Conspicuous nose pores

How to reduce them

Complexions otherwise flawless are often ruined by conspicuous nose pores.

In such cases the small muscular fibres of the nose have become weakened and do not keep the pores closed as they should be. Instead, these pores collect dirt, clog up and become enlarged.

To reduce enlarged nose pores: wring a cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Then finish by rubbing the nose for thirty seconds with a lump of ice.

Notice the improvement the very first treatment makes—a promise of what its steady use will do.

Do not expect to change in a week, however, a condition resulting from years of neglect. But use this treatment persistently. It will gradually reduce the enlarged pores until they are inconspicuous.

Start to make your skin lovelier—tonight

Get your first cake of Woodbury's today. Begin now to overcome whatever condition is keeping your skin from being as lovely as it should be.

Blackheads, conspicuous nose pores, oily skin and shiny nose, blemishes, a sluggish, sallow skin—treatments for these and others of the commoner skin troubles are given in the booklet "A Skin You Love to Touch" which comes wrapped around the soap.

You will find a 25c cake sufficient for a month or six weeks of any Woodbury treatment and for general cleansing use during this time.

Get a cake today. It is on sale at all drug stores and toilet goods counters throughout the United States and Canada. The Andrew Jergens Company, Cincinnati, New York, and Perth, Ontario.
