

LEAGUE BASED ON POWER, SAYS HILL

Instead of preventing wars, the constitution of the League of Nations not only increases the likelihood of them, but specifically states the occasions on which they must occur.

The lecture was the first of a series of lectures on constitutional and international law under auspices of George Washington University.

In his lecture yesterday afternoon Dr. Hill declared that the League covenant created either a super-government with imperial power, or a mischief-making advisory body with no real means to enforce its wishes.

He said that the constitution was plainly the work of politicians, not of jurists, and that it creates an organ of power instead of an institution of justice.

Ambiguity Is Admitted. "The ambiguity of the document," said Dr. Hill, "is generally admitted. It has received from persons opposed to it a competent, diametrically opposite interpretation, and such conflicting views have been expressed even by the same person at different times and upon different occasions."

"Between free self-governing nations on the one hand and super-government on the other, there is no intermediate condition, no third alternative. It is a choice between free and not free."

"The league proposes to bind its members to united action, and it is in the next breath pretended that there is nothing binding about it. It is not to be a body competent to make laws. It will probably consist, if it comes into existence, of a minority of the sovereign states of the civilized world. Even if it were a majority it would not be sufficient. It may through its preponderance of power be able to command, and even to enforce its will, but law does not right itself by force. It must be the offspring of reason, or it cannot claim to be law in any true juristic sense."

"The league plan is imperialism. It may be well meaning—imperialism always pretends to be benevolent—but if the war in which we have participated was a war to destroy imperialism, and to establish self-determination of free nations under law which should be the expression of their consent, a plan which merely establishes a composite imperialism, the arbitrary power of a single group of nations, would be not a victory for freedom, but its defeat."

NEW YORK, April 29.—Falling from the roof of Delmonico's, on Fifth avenue, today the body of a waiter employed in the restaurant struck Mrs. E. P. Whitehead, of 23 Bellevue place, Chicago, and killed her instantly. Both were watching the parade of the 16th infantry, which was passing.

The waiter, Robert Palmer, was removed to a hospital with a fractured skull. Mrs. Whitehead is the widow of E. P. Whitehead, a pioneer of Chicago, and was for many years a leader in Chicago society. She was widely known for her philanthropic activities.

HER GARTER BREAKS IT COSTS HIM $75

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 29.—A fair damed floated into the grocery store of Ed. O. Catlin, on Euclid avenue.

"A bottle of milk, please," she asked sweetly. Ed got the bottle. "Oh, pretty please," she exclaimed, moving toward the rear of the store. Ed looked, as he was a man and hadn't noticed such things. "Oh-o-o," she blushed a bit, "may I see behind your counter a moment. You see I'm—just a moment."

Ed turned and went to the front of the store. Suddenly she up and thanked him and started to the door. He remembered, and looked. The bottle was still on the counter.

"Here, lady," he explained, "here's your bottle of milk." But the lady kept on going. Then he looked at the cash drawer. It was open and $75 was missing.
