

PRESIDENT'S CONDITION IS BETTER, SAYS DR. GRAYSON

(Continued from First Page.) but is keeping in touch with the White House by telephone. Mrs. Wilson was in the sick room at an early hour today. She rarely leaves her husband's side. Mrs. Wilson is being assisted by two trained nurses. Dr. Grayson, who has been showing evidence of worry since the President's illness began, seemed more cheerful today than he has been for some time. He attributed the change for the better entirely to the good night of natural sleep that the President had, and expressed the belief that if this continued there soon would be a marked change for the better.

Dr. Grayson also reiterated his declaration that the President's mind was alert and keen. No Signs of Excitement. There were no evidences of excitement outside the White House early today, no curious crowds, pointing to indicate the President of the United States lay seriously ill there. An occasional automobile rolled slowly by the sweeping drive to the stately, pillared portico. In the wing which houses the executive offices the motto seemed to be "business as usual."

Clerks and stenographers were at work. The telegraph department of the White House was in fact busier than ever, due to the great volume of telegrams and cablegrams of sympathy and expressions of hope for Wilson's speedy recovery, which were pouring in from all parts of the world. Mrs. Wilson is reading many of these, but the President is too ill to see them. The newspaper reporters' room at the White House gave some indication of the situation. It was crowded.

Word has been received at the White House that the King and Queen of Belgium, who are in New York, will make a very quiet tour of the United States, due to the illness of the President. After visiting Boston and Buffalo, these visitors said, they will go to a quiet place in California until October 14, when they visit San Francisco. It is hoped that President Wilson's health will be so improved by that date that the King and Queen can fulfill all their engagements while on route East. Secretary Tumulty has been in close touch with the President's desires in many matters, and with regard to the Industrial Conference, which opens here today, and is ready to carry them out. Cabinet members are aware of the President's ideas in affairs touching the various departments, and it was stated on semi-official authority that all Administration business would be disposed of while President Wilson is ill in accordance with policies he has already enunciated.

Among telegrams received at the White House during the night was one from Carolina and these words: "Accept my sympathy. I pray for your prompt recovery." Sympathy From Hitchcock. Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Administration forces in the treaty fight, said with regard to President Wilson's illness: "It is a terrible thing for the United States and I believe for the whole nation that the President should be at this time stretched upon a sick bed. Unquestionably he is exhausted because of his enormous labors in the cause of peace. He sacrificed his health and his strength in a great cause." Yesterday and again today the most alarming rumors circulated here and in New York concerning the President's condition and these spread across the country in the strange way that rumors have of finding circulation. This was in part accounted for by the fact that the official bulletins from the White House were, not, and of course, could not, be definite in their character. As a matter of fact,

CHILD SUFFERED WITH ITCHING AND BURNING SCALP. Became Fretful, Hair Fell Out. CUTICURA Heals. My little girl suffered severely with an itching and burning sensation of the scalp. There were large pimples at times and a thick crust of dandruff would appear. The itching and burning would be so intense that the child became fretful and could hardly sleep. Her hair fell out and became thin and dry. I purchased Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In a week I could see that the eruption was healing, and I used two cans of Soap and three boxes of Ointment when she was healed. (Signed) Mrs. I. V. Satterfield, Davigtas, Miss. Daughters of President Wilson Who Are Gathered At the White House

MRS. WILLIAM G. McADOO. Who hurried here with her husband from New York as soon as the condition of the President was announced as serious. MISS MARGARET WILSON. She has remained at the Executive Mansion since her father returned from the Paris peace conference. MRS. FRANCIS B. SAYRE. Second daughter of the President, who has arrived here from Cambridge, Mass., with her husband.

Dr. Grayson and his consultants had agreed upon a diagnosis, but the President was making a fight and it was not known from hour to hour whether this might turn to the favorable or unfavorable side. It was explained that the uncertainty of the neuroathetic condition of the President are particularly baffling and that this is typical of that reason. Nervous collapse, he stated, may give off the most alarming symptoms, but these may soon disappear if the patient responds to treatment, and particularly if the patient finds relaxation in a natural sleep.

It was learned today that there have been times since the President's return to Washington when he could not compose himself to natural sleep and as a result sleep was induced by artificial means, but the results were not satisfactory. It was only when he found natural rest that he seemed to show refreshment. The President's nervous condition is regarded as the leading difficulty, demanding complete mental relaxation, but it is, of course, complicated in part by intestinal weakness which attacked him in Paris. Then, too, it is stated that he has a slight tissue obstruction in the nasal passage which is annoying. Sometimes the President is bothered by a hacking cough, which in part is due to the nervous state.

Gifts to President "Very Insignificant," According to Tumulty Secretary Tumulty today was preparing an inventory of presents received by President Wilson from foreign governments in response to a Congressional resolution. Aid of Mrs. Wilson was sought in doing this. The total value will be "very insignificant," it was stated. Included in the list will be a book presented by the King of England and two antique guns received from the King of Italy. The most valuable present, it was stated, is the President's honorary citizenship document from London, which was placed in a gold casket. The President, it was said, accepted nothing without first ascertaining from Secretary Lansing and Attorney General Palmer that it could not be claimed as an emolument, requiring sanction by Congress for acceptance.

Talk of Third Term For President Is Ended By Illness of Executive

President Wilson's illness is believed to have definitely settled the question as to whether he would seek a third term, according to political observers here today. Whatever his inclinations may have been to run again to uphold his record in the League of Nations in the advent of adverse action by the Senate, these considerations, it is thought, necessarily now must give way to the imperative necessity of conserving his health. COMPLETE REST IS AN ESSENTIAL. The President's physicians have said he is "a very sick man." They hold out hope of complete restoration only on the condition that he will free himself of the burdens and worry of public affairs and take a complete rest for at least several months. Even if the President personally were disposed to disregard the counsel of his medical advisers, his family will resist his decision. The members of his family realize that the President in the future must take the best care of himself to assure the prospect of a reasonable number of years of life after his retirement from the Presidential office. They have just had an experience in the family which tended to impress upon them the seriousness of the President's condition and the benefit which can be derived by one suffering from his ailment through a change of scene and a complete rest. Just about a year ago Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, the President's son-in-law, was forced to resign from the Treasury because of failing condition of health. He was threatened with a nervous breakdown. For a month or six weeks later he continued, against the advice of his physicians, to carry the burdens of the head of the Railroad Administration. He had thought that by relieving himself of the major part of his duties he could regain his health. He found that he was mistaken, and that his physicians were absolutely right in telling him that he must have a complete rest for a long period. They are fully restored. Accordingly he resigned his position as director general of railroads and went West with his family to live the free outdoor life unburdened by any responsibility. It took four or five months to bring him back to health. Mr. McAdoo was at the White House today looking very fit. He ascribed his excellent condition to his having broken completely with public affairs and lived out of doors for a protracted period. Mr. McAdoo has the advantage of being seven years younger than the President. Rest and Isolation Needed. If the President should go away and isolate himself in some restful place it probably would be at least the first of the year before his physician would consider he had regained his strength to an extent which would justify his again taking up the burdens of his office. He would need all of his strength to meet his unavoidable responsibilities. If he were to enter the contest for renomination in what promises to be one of the most bitter campaigns in American politics, he certainly would be courting another breakdown. His friends as well as his family, it is now believed, will do all that they can to discourage him from such a sacrifice even if he should be disposed to make it. It is not expected that the President will make any definite announcement about his political intentions for the future, but it is expected that he will make them known quietly. Democrats will want all the time they can get to groom a new candidate if the President is definitely out of the race, because they feel that they will have an uphill fight in the coming campaign.

OLD COTTON CLAIM OF SOUTH REVIVED The old claim of several thousand Southerners for compensation for the loss of cotton seized by the Government during the war between the States was revived yesterday, when Speaker Gillette, by request of some of the persons concerned, offered in the House a bill to confer jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to adjudicate the matter. There is attached to the bill the names and addresses of 6,939 claimants. These claimants held a convention in Muskogee, Okla., on August 30-31 last, at which time steps were taken to prosecute their claims before Congress. Gilbert DeLoach, of Sanford, Fla., is president of the claimants' association, and A. H. Brown, of Shaw, Miss., is secretary. Besides conferring on the Court of Claims jurisdiction to determine the rights and equities asserted for by certain persons designated in the bill in equity in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in which H. M. Johnson, Rebecca Bowers, C. B. Williams and Maimie Thompson are plaintiffs, the bill would also provide that the same action determined in the Court of Appeals would serve as a precedent in other pending cases which involve $68,972,388.99. This sum was collected as revenue tax on raw cotton between 1862 and 1868.

ITALY EXPECTED TO RATIFY BY DECREE PARIS, Oct. 4.—Advices received by the peace conference from Rome have convinced the members of the supreme council that Italy will ratify the German peace treaty by royal decree. The general opinion in the council is that such a ratification will be valid under the Italian constitution, as the treaty does not involve any Italian territorial changes. According to the Echo de Paris, the French government upon learning of the Italian government's resolution to dissolve parliament, made representations to the Italian cabinet. News has just been received that Tomasso Tittoni, Italian foreign minister, has informed the French government that ratification would be made by decree, the paper asserts.

NEW GLASS PROVES TO BE GUNPROOF

Successfully Resists Shower of Bullets From Revolver During Test. NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A bullet proof glass, which may be used as a protection against gunmen by bank tellers, was successfully tested in the basement of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory yesterday afternoon. The first shot from a Colt .45 automatic at a piece of four thickness one-quarter inch plate fell short of the mark by six inches. However, when the marksman acquired his shooting eye the new glass presented conclusive evidence that it could weather a fairly continuous barrage from a Colt .45 or .38 at a distance of fifteen feet. A piece of ordinary plate glass was fired at and the result was a pile of shattered fragments, but in no case was a bullet found to penetrate the burglar proof variety. A question was raised by a sceptical insurance man as to whether the glass would withstand as successfully a close hand, point blank shot; that in his experience he had observed it was not the custom of robbers to stand some fifteen feet from a teller window while practicing their profession. Considerable discussion took place as to how the glass could be tested without injuring the witnesses with deflected bullets. A temporary shield was devised at last and the glass withstood two shots from the Colt .45 at a distance of two inches. This glass, which is modeled after a variety which has had extensive use in France and England on aviator windshields, port lights, tanks, etc., is handled by the Triplex Safety Glass Corporation, of America.

FOREIGNERS LEAVE STEEL FOR MINES Exodus to Homes Abroad Also Reported From Mills Near Pittsburgh. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 4.—Ranks of striking steel workers were being rapidly depleted of foreigners today. Police in Clairton, Braddock and Rankin reported the additional workmen passing into the mills today. Police Commissioner Walsh is formulating plans for deportation of unaturalized men.

JEWES WILL PRAY FOR PRESIDENT NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Jews throughout the country have been requested, in an appeal sent out by Maurice B. Blumenthal, general counsel for the Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, to devote part of their prayers during the Yom Kippur services, the most sacred of Jewish holidays, for President Wilson. The appeal reads: "Woodrow Wilson has collapsed under the strain of his tremendous labor for our country. His condition is alarming. As the world's greatest leader and the real guardian of our nation in the present crisis he occupies the unique position of being indispensable. Today, the most holy day in the Jewish year, on which the Jew through the centuries has appealed to the Creator for the favor most desired, on this sacred day given additional solemnity, you are requested to make as a chief prayer in the services of your respective synagogues, the prayer to the Almighty that even as He has guided the hand of our President, so may He lift up His divine countenance upon our great leader and grant him health and restore him to his sphere of activity."

CHICAGO RUNS STEEL MILLS ON HALFEFFICIENT CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Steel mills in the Chicago district today are running at 50 per cent capacity, according to a canvass of all mills in the section during which steel mill operatives reported that more men returned to work yesterday than any day since the nation-wide steel strike was called. In several mills the plants were said to be operating with practically complete forces. Union leaders today demanded that Sheriff Peters remove all deputy sheriffs assigned to guard steel mills in Cook county. The demand for the removal of the guards followed reports of the wounding of a strikers' son and girl by deputies protecting workmen from attacks by strikers. Several minor clashes between strikers and non-strikers, which were reported yesterday, but no one was seriously injured.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—Declaring under oath that the Eastern Shore had furnished him with a housekeeper who was willing to work for $3 a week, whether she got the money or not, and who refused to be "fired," Eugene Schroeder yesterday persuaded Justice Rohleder of the Northwestern police court to eject Lottie Laine from his premises. After hearing the first part of the testimony the magistrate sat back and affirmed that the millennium had arrived and had produced its first female exponent. Later when Schroeder told him that Lottie occasionally throws hard missiles; refuses to get up in the morning; and insists that he should be her wardrobe, that of her family, the magistrate's views changed. He ordered a trial balance made of the account between Schroeder and his housekeeper, all scores settled and diplomatic relations severed between them. Lottie departed for the Eastern Shore.
