

Saving Money in the Home

$1 PAID FOR EACH DOLLAR SAVED. Here is a chance for every one to earn a dollar by telling how she has saved a dollar. It may be a dollar or more. It may have been saved in a day or a week. However, all that matters is HOW it was saved.

SHIRK scientifically now and then. This is a necessary admission for the woman who does not even work. I do not mean she should do things in a slovenly manner, nor should she neglect them, but there are times when every housekeeper must choose between her half-hour nap, relaxation, or spending her time in a bit in order to keep in touch with the doing of the world and the thorough accomplishment of some insignificant task which from habit seems big to her.

All Plans Upset. Work for the day is planned in advance and planned wisely, yet the plan is upset at unexpected points, and the woman who does her own work gets breakfast and then hurries to wash up, the breakfast dishes, she has planned to do her marketing, and then the cooking of the dinner was to be started, so that either she could be getting out of the way while the dinner was cooking. The schedule laid out left a free period in the afternoon to be spent in relaxation, a nap or reading, or even a call on a few friends.

When a Girl Marries

"I SEE by the papers," said Val Cooby, walking in on me unannounced a few days after the starting events at Mason Towers, "that Mama and Papa Mason announced that the engagement of their daughter, Evelyn, to Mr. Neal Hyland has been dissolved by mutual consent—or words to that effect."

A Defense of Love.

"You didn't approve of her methods?" I gasped, astounded at which Val judged me. "You didn't approve of her taking a man away from another woman if she could?" "I wanted to add," said that woman, well, sane, able to make some sort of fight for her own. "While you stole Lane from an invalid—a poor innocent creature!" But Val's indolent voice took on a note of eagerness and poured out in a sort of thick torrent before I had a chance to reply. "Yes, you could have expressed that through my eyes. I wasn't sure that Val was sincere in what she said. And even if she was I am too much of a Puritan to accept a doctrine that I have justified everything. Val's narrow Egyptian eyes almost closed as she sent back a gleaming gaze to baffle me. But some of the innocence had gone from her voice when she went on. She seemed almost to be begging me to understand her.

Not Strong Enough.

Muriel, aged four, was taken by her governess to have her tea with an aunt. Presently she began to eat a piece of very rich cake. "Oh, I just love this chocolate cake," she exclaimed. "It's awfully nice."

The Tramp's Request.

"Hallo! What are you doing here?" said a farmer to a tramp, who had just got over the wall in time to escape the bulldog. "Sir," answered the tramp, with dignity, "I did intend to ask for something to eat, but now, in the interests of humanity, I beg of you to feed your dog!"

NINA TARASOVA IS GIVEN BIG OVATION

Russian Singer in Costume Gives Recital of Melodies of Her Homeland.

Yesterday Nina Tarasova came to Washington for the first time, coming only through the printed word. Today we find the printed word lifeless in expressing this tiny spark of human genius. This little Russian gave a costume song recital at the National Theater yesterday afternoon, in an extension concert to the T. A. Smith Ten-Star Series. She received an ovation that included cheers, received also more flowers than have gone over the footlights any time this season, and had one large bunch of roses hurled to her from an upper box.

CAVALIERS' RECEPTION.

The Scouts of Colonial Cavaliers gave a reception and dance on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Washington Club to celebrate the anniversary of the landing at Jamestown. There was a short musical program and Daniel Smith Gordon, head of the local chapter, and Whitehead Klutz made short talks. Those taking part in the program were Mrs. Genevieve Sherwood, Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton, who sang; Miss Margaret Mansfield, who gave a violin solo, and Miss Maria Davidson, who gave readings.

HAPPENINGS IN SOCIETY

Marshalls Due Tonight—Wedding of Miss Stevens And Congressman Hicks

THE VICE PRESIDENT AND MRS. MARSHALL are expected in Washington tonight from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where they have been since leaving Arizona a fortnight ago. They have been in the West for several weeks.

The marriage of Miss Marie Christie Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Pierre Christie Stevens, and the late Major U. S. Army, to Congressman Frederick Coombs Hicks, of New York, was solemnized today at noon in the Bethel Church, Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul. A distinguished little company of friends of both bride and bridegroom, including many persons prominent in official life, assembled for the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. G. C. F. Bratton, of the Cathedral, and afterward there was a small informal breakfast for the immediate wedding party and a few guests from other cities at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Henry Cleveland Perkins.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Robert E. Bradley. She had Mr. Hicks' young daughter, Miss Georgina Hicks, as her maid of honor and only attendant, and Mr. Hicks' group of bridesmaids included Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Congressman Richard Olney, Dean Mason, of Los Angeles, Cal.; William C. Biddle, of New York; Henry Cleveland Perkins and Henry Fairbanks, of Washington, and other gentlemen of decoration save for the palms and Easter lilies, which were sparingly used in the chancel, the beautiful little chapel made a picturesque setting for the ceremony.

The bride's traveling costume is a smart suit of navy blue tulle, worn with an oversleeve of blue georgette and a becoming hat of bronze net with a large paper holder. Mrs. Stevens' gown was of black charmeuse, with an overdress of black georgette embroidered in dull black beads in an unusually graceful pattern. Her black hat completed her costume.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT WAR TRADE REUNION

Among those who are to speak briefly at the reunion of the nine bureaus of the War Trade Board, which is to take the form of a dinner-dance at Wardman Park Inn on Friday evening, April 23, is Edwin E. Gay, president of the New York Evening Post Company. Dr. Gay was formerly dean of the Graduate School of Economics of Harvard University. He was head of the Central Bureau of Planning and Statistics in Washington during the war and represented the Shipping Board on the War Trade Board. It is hoped that James McCormack, chairman of the War Trade Board, may find it possible to come to Washington for the reunion. It is necessary that reservations be made by April 21.

A men's committee has just been formed, consisting of R. E. Pendergast, H. F. Carl and Chas. S. Howes, Edwin J. Hibbs, Herbert A. Williams and J. O. Schaefer, S. D. Maddock and R. E. Smythe. Miss Mabel L. Shulters, 1822 K street northwest, is chairman of the general committee on arrangements, and those assisting her are Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton, and Miss Mabel Wyman; Miss Martha Noyes, Miss Alice E. Barnes, Miss Helen Wylie, Miss E. Jane Herman, Miss Ruby Ridenhower, Mrs. Kathryn Zaker and Mrs. Bertha Gliddie; Miss Lida E. Stone, Miss Edna Strudley, Miss Irene Mason and Miss M. Evans.

Guest of Freyers.

Commodore and Mrs. Frank B. Freyer have as their guest, Senora de Abby, wife of the naval attaché for the British, Mrs. Freyer accompanied Senora de Abby to New York, where she went to see her husband Comandante Don Luis Abby, sail for Europe Thursday.

Artur Zarafu, secretary to the military attaché of the Rumanian legation, has been recalled to Rumania, and will leave Washington tomorrow, spending a few days in New York before sailing. On Monday evening, Mrs. B. Green will give a dinner in his honor, having asked about fifty guests to meet him.
