

JEAN ELIOT'S WEEKLY CHRONICLE OF CAPITAL SOCIETY

June Brings Its Usual Harvest Of Many Brides

ENTER the June bride. Collectively she seems to be neither so numerous nor quite so important as in recent seasons, but individually she is as wise as an owl and interest in her plans is as general and as keen as always. Moreover, to make up for any possible shortage in the Washington crop, there is a whole harvest of weddings in other cities which, for one reason or another, Washington feels that it has a proprietary interest.

For instance, there's Miss Maud Kahn's marriage to Major J. C. Marriott, sometime of the British embassy, which is set for June 15, having been put off for three days in order to insure the arrival of the bride's father, Otto H. Kahn, who is on his way back from England. Washington may be a bit resentful of the fact that it is a New York girl who has carried off one of its most conspicuously attractive "marriageable lightbuds," but admits its interest in the wedding; and, headed by a delegation from the British embassy, a good many Washingtonians are going on for the event. The ceremony is to be in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., with a reception to follow at the Kahn estate at Woodbury, L. I. Shortly after the wedding Major Marriott and his bride will sail for England to spend their honeymoon. I'm told, at the English home of the Kahns.

Major Marriott, who has the distinction of being the youngest major in the British army, has only three weeks' leave and when that is over, must return to duty with the Guards' regiment, to which he was transferred at the end of his service at the embassy here.

Miss Kahn is a girl who has been both generally and generally popular since her debut some two years ago, and her father is a man known and revered all over the country for his generous benefactions, his services to the athletic and educational development of the country, and more particularly for his support of all that is best in the musical world.

MRS. CHARLES CRAMER. A Charming Young Matron, Whose Home in Massachusetts Avenue Is the Scene of Much Hospitality.

MISS TRACEY LYON. Of New York, who was the guest of Miss Anna Hamlin during Horse Show week.

MISS ANNA HAMLIN. Who is leaving town to join her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, at Mattapoisett, Mass.

MISS AUGUSTA GLASS. Younger Daughter of Senator and Mrs. Glass, Who Is to Wed Robert McClanahan Allen, of Roanoke, Va.

Pletcher, who was Frances Brooks and lived in Washington until her marriage, is to be her sister's matron of honor, and there'll be another Washington girl, Catherine Letts, in the wedding party. She left yesterday for Wynnewood to stay with the bride until after the wedding.

Dodge-Cromwell Wedding Set for June 17.
Another out-of-town wedding in which Washingtonians are more than a little interested is young James H. R. Cromwell's marriage to Delphine Dodge, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Horace Elgin Dodge, of Grosse Pointe, Mich., which is set for June 17 in Detroit. The Cromwell boys were little fellows when their mother, Mrs. Oliver Eaton Cromwell, was married to Edward T. Stotenburg, and went to live in Philadelphia. But the lady is pleasantly remembered here, and they have another tie to bind them to Washington in their pretty sister, Mrs. Cromwell Brooks, who has purchased the charming and individual house in Massachusetts avenue, which she now occupies, and intends to make this her permanent home. She expects to go on for the wedding, and so will Mrs. Stotenburg if her health permits. She has been far from well for several months, an attack of influenza having left her very much run down. Eaton Cromwell will be his brother's best man and Miss Dodge will have a bevy of pretty bridesmaids, among them Nancy Starr, of Detroit, who visited Myra Morgan here last winter.

Perhaps the most important of the June weddings in Washington is the marriage of Colina Calvo, daughter of Mme. Joaquin B. Calvo, to John Galen Carter, which will take place in St. Paul's Church on June 16 at 11 o'clock. A nuptial mass will follow the ceremony, and afterward there'll be an informal reception at Mme. Calvo's home for the two families and is of international interest, for the bride's late father was for nearly twenty years minister of Costa Rica to the United States. She, however, has lived most of her life here, and so has her fiance, who is the son of Mrs. Thomas H. Carter, of Washington. His father, the late Senator Carter, represented Montana in the upper house for many years.

Half Dozen Brides Usher In June Procession.
The procession of June brides was ushered in on June 2 with at least half a dozen weddings, notable among them the marriage of Miss Sara Park, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Frank Park, of Georgia, to Ernest Riley, and the marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Cone to Ensign Harold Irving Parker, U. S. N., of the U. S. S. Florida. The latter wedding took place in the Naval Academy Chapel, Miss Cone and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cone, of Illinois, who have been living in Washington for the last two years, went to Annapolis especially for the wedding, which took place hard upon Ensign Parker's graduation from the Naval Academy. And only the day before the bride had been graduated from the Cathedral School for Girls at Washington.

Another very picturesque and charming June wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock in Epiphany Church, when Miss Virginia Annette Mullins, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. John Bailey Mullins, became the bride of Frederick Parrott Hall. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, assistant rector of Epiphany, assisted by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim, and afterward the bride party and the members of the two families went back to the home of Miss Mary Truxton Eastman, where Miss Mullins has lived since her father's death, for an informal reception and a chance to wish the young couple godspeed. Miss Eastman is Miss Mullins' guardian and has been almost a mother to her.

The church was simply decorated with palms and asparagus fern, with clusters of pink snapdragons used on the altar. And the bridesmaids had the look of gay garden flowers in their crisp organdie frocks. Miss Ellen Fillebrown was matron of honor and wore a violet organdie, with a picturesque organdie hat to match, and carried a great sheaf of delphinium. The four bridesmaids, Miss Constance Atwood, of New York; Miss Katherine Dorst, of Warrenton, Va.; Miss Alice Brice and Miss Margery Hall, sister of the bridegroom, were gowned alike in blue organdie, their frocks being made like that of the maid of honor, and had becoming blue hats. They carried shabby bouquets of pink sweetpeas.

The bride's gown was fashioned of soft ivory satin, combined with tulle, cut on graceful lines and untrimmied save for wee clusters of orange blossoms. The long court train was hung from the shoulders. She wore a voluminous tulle veil falling from a chapeau of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley. The costume was at once dignified and becoming to the demure little bride, and she made a memorably lovely picture as she made her way up the aisle on the arm of her guardian, Charles Arthur Barnard, who gave her in marriage.

Bliss-Knopff Wedding Is Planned for Autumn.
The announcement of the engagement of Eleanor Bliss, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Tasker Bliss, to Adolphus Knopff, of the Geological Survey, included the statement that tentative plans were being made for a fall wedding. And Elsie Downing and Donald Alexander, of Cleveland, are also planning to be married in the autumn. He was in the army during the war, was stationed in Washington, and their several daughters have grown up here. The eldest daughter, Miss Alys Downing, and her father are going out to California to spend the summer with Mrs. Hugo Osterhaus—Helen Downings—and Mrs. Downing and the bride-to-be will be at Chelsea, on the Jersey coast until a short time before the wedding.

There was no suggestion of a date coupled with Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Oxnard's announcement of the engagement of Miss Eugenie Pichon, her sister, to Robert Krogstadt, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Krogstadt, of Washington. The Oxnards are, of course, transplanted New Yorkers. But they have a big place near Upperville, Va., and they spend a good deal of each winter in Washington, making their headquarters at the Shoreham and doing a good deal of entertaining—especially for the young people.

Nor did Senator Lawrence Phipps give any hint of when the wedding was to be when he recently announced the engagement of his daughter, Dorothy, to Holt Barrett, of Augusta, Ga. The Phippases are comparative newcomers to Washington. Senator Phipps having run against—and away from—Senator Shafter of Colorado in November, 1918, and taken his seat last June, when the President was forced against his will to call a special session. As a matter of fact, Senator Phipps, though his representing Colorado in the Senate, is rather new to Colorado. He was one of the Carnegie steel kings of Pittsburgh, who retired after the formation of the United States Steel Corporation—and went out to Colorado to live. Miss Dorothy is the third of his six children and his oldest unmarried daughter. Senator and Mrs. Phipps make their Washington home at Single Oak, the lovely suburban estate on Woodley road, which the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniels occupied when they first came to town, and have entertained there a good deal during the spring. They have now closed the house and Mrs. Phipps is at Wardsman Park Hotel until her son Jerry, who is in Water

Barlow, of Montclair, N. J., the wedding taking place at his house.

Reed Hospital is well enough for her to get away. The Senator has started West and will take in the Chicago convention before going to Colorado.

More Engagements of General Interest.
Two announcements made last week were of particular interest—the engagement of Miss Edith Wallach to Gaines Gwathmey, of New York, and of Miss Anne Elizabeth Robertson to Lieut. Ralph B. Bagby, air service, United States army. Miss Wallach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallach, of Warrenton, Va., but she made her debut in Washington a season or two ago, and she spends much time here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair.

Pretty little Miss Robertson and Lieutenant Bagby talk of being married, but no definite plans can be made until Uncle Sam determines what his orders are to be. As an aviator, Lieutenant Bagby has quite covered himself with glory—he has several decorations—and he's a fine, upstanding young chap. Miss Robertson, the daughter of Mrs. Frank T. Robertson, is a Kansas City girl, but she has been living in Washington for the last two years doing newspaper work, and has made many friends here. The wedding will take place in Kansas City.

The newest engagement of all, just announced today, is that of Miss Geneva Jean Winslow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julius M. Winslow, of New York, to Lieut. G. Haven Mankin, Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of the School of Arts, Columbia University, class of 1919. Her major work was in physical education, and during her four years' college course she was identified with a number of pageants, festivals and masques and gave several dance recitals. During the war she was active in Red Cross work and

(Continued on Page 17.)

Big Bargains In Every Department

Loverton's
1106 G Street

The House of Fashion

June Sale--Extraordinary Values
Equal to Any South of New York

A Thousand Beautiful Summer Dresses

Stylish Foulard; Georgette, Satin, Taffeta and Tricotine. Values $29.50 to $65. Cotton Dresses of All Kinds. Values $20 to $35.

$19.50 $29.50 $39.50 $12.95 $16.95 $25

All Cloth Suits 25% to 40% Reductions
Handsome Suits Now

$29.50 $49.50 $69.50

Linen Suits, Special, $21.50 Pongee Suits, Special, $39.50

Smartest Skirts in Town

All the new novelty silks and wool plaids. Values to $35, Monday..... $19.95 White gabardine and surf silk. Values to $10, Monday..... $5.95

Monday's Extra Bargains to Close--None Reserved

Mussed Cotton Voile Dresses, values to $12.50. To close $5.00
 Lot of Mussed White Tub Skirts, all sizes, values to $6. To close $2.50
 Accordion-Pleated Capes, best quality serge. Values to $35. Monday... $23.50
 Fiber-Silk Sweaters, all colors. Formerly to $10. Monday..... $3.95
 Lot of broken lines Voile Blouses; values to $3.50. To close..... $1.00
 Lot Black Jap Silk Blouses; values to $5.00. To close $2.98
 Broken lines of Beautiful Georgette Blouses; values to $8. Monday... $3.98
 Five hundred New White and Novelty Voile Blouses. $1.98, $2.98, $3.98, $5
 50 Trimmed Hats; variety of models; sold to $12.50. To close..... $3.00

they are not planning a garden wedding. They are playing safe and making all arrangements to have the ceremony indoors. But if June 23 should prove to be a beautiful day—why, it would be the easiest thing in the world to simply transfer the wedding to an outdoor setting. Mrs. Dawbarn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunlop Williams, of New York, and in the days when she was Miss Alice Carroll Williams she used to spend much time here as the guest of the Gills. Her first husband died nearly two years ago during the influenza epidemic, leaving her with two adorable little boys. She was very young at the time of her first marriage; indeed, she can't be more than twenty-five now—and she's pretty as a pink, with the most appealing long-lashed blue eyes.

After the little reception, at which Miss Eastman was assisted by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall and his bride started off for a brief wedding trip, the latter traveling in a youthful suit of navy blue taffeta worn with a mushroom-shaped hat of luscious horsehair braid. Their honeymoon over, they will make their home in Newark, N. J. Virginia Mullins, now Mrs. Hall, is a very popular little lady, and the last several days before her wedding were thick with parties in her honor. Mrs. Hall, sr., had a tea for her on Thursday afternoon. On Friday Alice Brice gave a luncheon for her at the Cafe St. Marks, and that evening Ellen Fillebrown and Miss Atwood were joint hostesses at a dinner at the Purple Iris Tea House for the bridal party.

Capitol Keenly Interested in Miss Taft's Engagement.
Of all the interesting engagements which have cropped up lately the most important would seem to be the engagement of Miss Helen Taft and Frederick Johnson Manning. News of this leaked out several weeks ago when Miss Taft was touring the country in behalf of the Bryn Mawr endowment fund, which was promptly denied, and was formally announced last week by former President and Mrs. Taft—a course of action which led one ribald person to remark that the Tafts had evidently profited by their White House training. The wedding is to take place in July at the Tafts' beautiful summer home at Murray Bay, Canada. Mr. Manning is on the faculty of Yale University and his fiancee, who is under thirty, is dean and acting president of Bryn Mawr College. She made her debut in Washington while her father was in the White House and, as her mother was a good deal of an invalid at that time, played a rather more important role in official life than the average White House debutante. She has been back here frequently to visit—the last time was when the Bryn Mawr drive was on—and has very many warm friends in Washington.

The announcement of Augusta Glass' engagement to Robert McClanahan Allen, of Roanoke, Va., also caused a little flutter of excitement, tempered by regret that the wedding is to take place at the home of Senator and Mrs. Glass in Lynchburg, rather than in Washington. The Glasses have had rather more than their share of weddings, for it was only last November that their elder daughter, Miss Mary Archer Glass, was married to John Guerrant Boatwright—she was the "cabinet bride" of the family, her wedding taking place while her father was Secretary of the Treasury. And a few weeks ago the Senator's niece, Miss Elizabeth Glass, became the bride of Edward Author and she made a memorably lovely picture as she made her way up the aisle on the arm of her guardian, Charles Arthur Barnard, who gave her in marriage.

After the little reception, at which Miss Eastman was assisted by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall and his bride started off for a brief wedding trip, the latter traveling in a youthful suit of navy blue taffeta worn with a mushroom-shaped hat of luscious horsehair braid. Their honeymoon over, they will make their home in Newark, N. J. Virginia Mullins, now Mrs. Hall, is a very popular little lady, and the last several days before her wedding were thick with parties in her honor. Mrs. Hall, sr., had a tea for her on Thursday afternoon. On Friday Alice Brice gave a luncheon for her at the Cafe St. Marks, and that evening Ellen Fillebrown and Miss Atwood were joint hostesses at a dinner at the Purple Iris Tea House for the bridal party.

Capitol Keenly Interested in Miss Taft's Engagement.
Of all the interesting engagements which have cropped up lately the most important would seem to be the engagement of Miss Helen Taft and Frederick Johnson Manning. News of this leaked out several weeks ago when Miss Taft was touring the country in behalf of the Bryn Mawr endowment fund, which was promptly denied, and was formally announced last week by former President and Mrs. Taft—a course of action which led one ribald person to remark that the Tafts had evidently profited by their White House training. The wedding is to take place in July at the Tafts' beautiful summer home at Murray Bay, Canada. Mr. Manning is on the faculty of Yale University and his fiancee, who is under thirty, is dean and acting president of Bryn Mawr College. She made her debut in Washington while her father was in the White House and, as her mother was a good deal of an invalid at that time, played a rather more important role in official life than the average White House debutante. She has been back here frequently to visit—the last time was when the Bryn Mawr drive was on—and has very many warm friends in Washington.

The announcement of Augusta Glass' engagement to Robert McClanahan Allen, of Roanoke, Va., also caused a little flutter of excitement, tempered by regret that the wedding is to take place at the home of Senator and Mrs. Glass in Lynchburg, rather than in Washington. The Glasses have had rather more than their share of weddings, for it was only last November that their elder daughter, Miss Mary Archer Glass, was married to John Guerrant Boatwright—she was the "cabinet bride" of the family, her wedding taking place while her father was Secretary of the Treasury. And a few weeks ago the Senator's niece, Miss Elizabeth Glass, became the bride of Edward Author and she made a memorably lovely picture as she made her way up the aisle on the arm of her guardian, Charles Arthur Barnard, who gave her in marriage.

After the little reception, at which Miss Eastman was assisted by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall and his bride started off for a brief wedding trip, the latter traveling in a youthful suit of navy blue taffeta worn with a mushroom-shaped hat of luscious horsehair braid. Their honeymoon over, they will make their home in Newark, N. J. Virginia Mullins, now Mrs. Hall, is a very popular little lady, and the last several days before her wedding were thick with parties in her honor. Mrs. Hall, sr., had a tea for her on Thursday afternoon. On Friday Alice Brice gave a luncheon for her at the Cafe St. Marks, and that evening Ellen Fillebrown and Miss Atwood were joint hostesses at a dinner at the Purple Iris Tea House for the bridal party.

Capitol Keenly Interested in Miss Taft's Engagement.
Of all the interesting engagements which have cropped up lately the most important would seem to be the engagement of Miss Helen Taft and Frederick Johnson Manning. News of this leaked out several weeks ago when Miss Taft was touring the country in behalf of the Bryn Mawr endowment fund, which was promptly denied, and was formally announced last week by former President and Mrs. Taft—a course of action which led one ribald person to remark that the Tafts had evidently profited by their White House training. The wedding is to take place in July at the Tafts' beautiful summer home at Murray Bay, Canada. Mr. Manning is on the faculty of Yale University and his fiancee, who is under thirty, is dean and acting president of Bryn Mawr College. She made her debut in Washington while her father was in the White House and, as her mother was a good deal of an invalid at that time, played a rather more important role in official life than the average White House debutante. She has been back here frequently to visit—the last time was when the Bryn Mawr drive was on—and has very many warm friends in Washington.

The announcement of Augusta Glass' engagement to Robert McClanahan Allen, of Roanoke, Va., also caused a little flutter of excitement, tempered by regret that the wedding is to take place at the home of Senator and Mrs. Glass in Lynchburg, rather than in Washington. The Glasses have had rather more than their share of weddings, for it was only last November that their elder daughter, Miss Mary Archer Glass, was married to John Guerrant Boatwright—she was the "cabinet bride" of the family, her wedding taking place while her father was Secretary of the Treasury. And a few weeks ago the Senator's niece, Miss Elizabeth Glass, became the bride of Edward Author

Barlow, of Montclair, N. J., the wedding taking place at his house.

Reed Hospital is well enough for her to get away. The Senator has started West and will take in the Chicago convention before going to Colorado.

More Engagements of General Interest.
Two announcements made last week were of particular interest—the engagement of Miss Edith Wallach to Gaines Gwathmey, of New York, and of Miss Anne Elizabeth Robertson to Lieut. Ralph B. Bagby, air service, United States army. Miss Wallach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallach, of Warrenton, Va., but she made her debut in Washington a season or two ago, and she spends much time here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair.

Pretty little Miss Robertson and Lieutenant Bagby talk of being married, but no definite plans can be made until Uncle Sam determines what his orders are to be. As an aviator, Lieutenant Bagby has quite covered himself with glory—he has several decorations—and he's a fine, upstanding young chap. Miss Robertson, the daughter of Mrs. Frank T. Robertson, is a Kansas City girl, but she has been living in Washington for the last two years doing newspaper work, and has made many friends here. The wedding will take place in Kansas City.

The newest engagement of all, just announced today, is that of Miss Geneva Jean Winslow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julius M. Winslow, of New York, to Lieut. G. Haven Mankin, Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of the School of Arts, Columbia University, class of 1919. Her major work was in physical education, and during her four years' college course she was identified with a number of pageants, festivals and masques and gave several dance recitals. During the war she was active in Red Cross work and

(Continued on Page 17.)

Barlow, of Montclair, N. J., the wedding taking place at his house.

Reed Hospital is well enough for her to get away. The Senator has started West and will take in the Chicago convention before going to Colorado.

More Engagements of General Interest.
Two announcements made last week were of particular interest—the engagement of Miss Edith Wallach to Gaines Gwathmey, of New York, and of Miss Anne Elizabeth Robertson to Lieut. Ralph B. Bagby, air service, United States army. Miss Wallach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallach, of Warrenton, Va., but she made her debut in Washington a season or two ago, and she spends much time here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair.

Pretty little Miss Robertson and Lieutenant Bagby talk of being married, but no definite plans can be made until Uncle Sam determines what his orders are to be. As an aviator, Lieutenant Bagby has quite covered himself with glory—he has several decorations—and he's a fine, upstanding young chap. Miss Robertson, the daughter of Mrs. Frank T. Robertson, is a Kansas City girl, but she has been living in Washington for the last two years doing newspaper work, and has made many friends here. The wedding will take place in Kansas City.

The newest engagement of all, just announced today, is that of Miss Geneva Jean Winslow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julius M. Winslow, of New York, to Lieut. G. Haven Mankin, Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of the School of Arts, Columbia University, class of 1919. Her major work was in physical education, and during her four years' college course she was identified with a number of pageants, festivals and masques and gave several dance recitals. During the war she was active in Red Cross work and

(Continued on Page 17.)

Barlow, of Montclair, N. J., the wedding taking place at his house.

Reed Hospital is well enough for her to get away. The Senator has started West and will take in the Chicago convention before going to Colorado.

More Engagements of General Interest.
Two announcements made last week were of particular interest—the engagement of Miss Edith Wallach to Gaines Gwathmey, of New York, and of Miss Anne Elizabeth Robertson to Lieut. Ralph B. Bagby, air service, United States army. Miss Wallach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallach, of Warrenton, Va., but she made her debut in Washington a season or two ago, and she spends much time here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair.

Pretty little Miss Robertson and Lieutenant Bagby talk of being married, but no definite plans can be made until Uncle Sam determines what his orders are to be. As an aviator, Lieutenant Bagby has quite covered himself with glory—he has several decorations—and he's a fine, upstanding young chap. Miss Robertson, the daughter of Mrs. Frank T. Robertson, is a Kansas City girl, but she has been living in Washington for the last two years doing newspaper work, and has made many friends here. The wedding will take place in Kansas City.

The newest engagement of all, just announced today, is that of Miss Geneva Jean Winslow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julius M. Winslow, of New York, to Lieut. G. Haven Mankin, Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of the School of Arts, Columbia University, class of 1919. Her major work was in physical education, and during her four years' college course she was identified with a number of pageants, festivals and masques and gave several dance recitals. During the war she was active in Red Cross work and what his orders are to be. As an aviator, Lieutenant Bagby has quite covered himself with glory—he has several decorations—and he's a fine, upstanding young chap. Miss Robertson, the daughter of Mrs. Frank T. Robertson, is a Kansas City girl, but she has been living in Washington for the last two years doing newspaper work, and has made many friends here. The wedding will take place in Kansas City.

(Continued on Page 17.)

The newest engagement of all, just announced today, is that of Miss Geneva Jean Winslow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julius M. Winslow, of New York, to Lieut. G. Haven Mankin, Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of the School of Arts, Columbia University, class of 1919. Her major work was in physical education, and during her four years' college course she was identified with a number of pageants, festivals and masques and gave several dance recitals. During the war she was active in Red Cross work and

(Continued on Page 17.)

The Wolcott

A hotel with all the metropolitan luxury so attractive to the out-of-town visitor to New York, and all the home atmosphere so desirable to every traveler.

Two blocks from the Pennsylvania Station. Only a few minutes from Grand Central Terminal. In the heart of New York's theatre and shopping districts.

Especially desirable to women visiting New York unassisted.

THIRTY FIRST STREET BY FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

VALENTINE BAUER
HAND LAUNDRY
Lace Curtains
Draperies, Blankets
Gentlemen's Silk Shirts
Ladies' Fine Garments

Work Called for and Delivered
2443 18th St. N. W. Columbia 4802

Straw and Panama HATS
For Men, Women and Children

Cleaned, Bleached, Blocked and Retrimmed By Experts

VIENNA HAT FACTORY
"The Family Hatters"
435 11th Street N. W.
410 9th Street N. W.

Furs Stored Free

If You Have Your Furs Repaired Now.

Save 50% By Buying Your Furs Now

We will store free until next Fall.

All Chokers at Cost

Wm. Rosendorf
Manufacturing Furrier—Established 1909
1213 G St. N. W. Opp. Dulin & Martin's

The PALAIS ROYAL
ESTAB. 1877
DESIRABLE QUALITIES - CORRECT STYLES
A. LISNER

11th and G Streets Queen Quality Shoe Dept.—2nd Floor

Hundreds of pairs of Queen Quality Low Shoes for Women
All Colors—All Sizes—All Widths in Combined Lots.

$5.45 Specially Priced $9.45

An unprecedented opportunity to secure the finest grades of summer footwear at a price unequalled for Pumps and Oxfords of the nationally known Queen Quality standard. Every pair made for our regular stock—EVERY PAIR A WONDERFUL VALUE.

THE LEATHERS
Cross Strap Pumps CUBAN Stylen and Louis XV Black or Brown Suede Black Kidskin
Opera Pumps Oxfords Theo Ties Black or Brown Satin Gun Metal