WILL BOYCOTT HUNGARY.
LONDON, June 6.—The International Federation of Trade Unions yesterday decided to boycott Hungary beginning June 20 in retaliation for oppression of trade unionists. Fifty thousand trade unionists are said to have been imprisoned in Hungary, many dying. The international trade unionists will endeavor to halt all traffic to Hungary.

Edith Gould's Husband Sure of Home Cooking, With Wife in Kitchen

NEW YORK, June 6.—Chances are that Carroll Wainwright, whose elopement recently with Edith Gould set New York and Philadelphia society "tongue wagging," is not breaking fast these days on grape fruit and bakery rolls. And perhaps there are no holes in his socks.

The little miss who became his bride and who will share a dazzling heap of the Gould millions, boasts that she can cook and sew. It wasn't all chattering dish and bon-bon parties at the "finishing school" she attended here, it seems, and she is possessed of knowledge of the cuisine that would do credit to the most domestic of present-day wives.

And the Wainwrights will not live with Mamma and Papa Wainwright, nor Mamma and Papa Wainwright, for themselves, without the retinue of cooks and maids so common in the households of the financially fortunate. It'll be just meals for two with Mrs. Wainwright's cooking.

Bride Optimistic.
"So many persons are talking about us now and they don't seem to think we'll get along by ourselves," said Mrs. Wainwright as she came from an Atlantic City boardwalk shop several days ago. "The Wainwrights are spending their honeymoon in the seaside resort. I have learned many things at school that will stand us in good stead in our home."

The couple, explaining their elopement, said they desired to get away from the splurge and pomp of a "big" wedding. "We were in love and wanted to get married and we didn't want a lot of dices about it," said Wainwright.

Many talks about the young couple were abroad following their elopement. One had it that they were forced to pawn their jewelry to get married. "Nothing of the kind," said Wainwright. "We have been saving from our allowances for some time and have plenty of money to see us through. And we'll show these 'gossips' a thing or two."

Mrs. Wainwright was just returning, accompanied by her bundle-laden husband, from a tour of the Atlantic City boardwalk shops.

She wore a tailored blue serge suit, in which she was hurriedly married. Her raven black hair peeped out from beneath a picturesque hat of rough straw, trimmed about the crown with white georgette, and faced with the same material and white fox.

Her string of pearls was of a dainty size, and her frilly collar was held together with a barpin of platinum, diamonds and pearls, with a French voile blouse as a ground.

She wore chic sandals from the boulevards of Paris, with black hose.

No Engagement Ring.
"Nested on the little tapering finger of her left hand, in contrast to her plain wedding band, was a large sapphire, surrounded by diamonds. She wore no engagement ring, although she wore a large diamond, set in platinum, on her right hand."

Mrs. Wainwright's appearance bore out the description given by her husband in an "on-the-other-side-of-the-door" interview at the Hotel du Pont in Wilmington, a few hours after they had been married.

Her eyes are even larger than her young husband said. Her scarlet lips and olive complexion, heightened by an undernote of rose, suggests, as the husband said, a rare type of Spanish beauty.

HUSBAND SHOT AS WIFE PLAYS BANDIT

Thought Revolver Wasn't Loaded. Then Makes Record Run to Hospital.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 6.—How a woman played bandit and shot her husband accidentally, picked him up, placed him into an automobile, made a record run to the hospital with him all because of a joke over a pay envelope, which came close to ending the life of the young husband, is told in a story from Conneville, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

"Throw up your hands. I'm going to take your money like a bold, bad bandit," said Mrs. Carrie Beckett, of Hannaburg mines, near Conneville, as her husband approached with his weekly pay envelope in his hand.

"I thought she picked up her husband's revolver, which she thought was not loaded, pointing it at him. She pulled the trigger and the bullet entered Beckett's shoulder, inflicting an ugly wound. The min-striker and realizing the seriousness of her act, Mrs. Beckett, glancing out of the window, saw an automobile parked in the street. She half-carried and half-dragged her husband into the car, and with but slight knowledge of the mechanism she grasped the wheel and began a mad race against time to reach the hospital, four miles away.

She knew but one speed, and witnesses say it was the fastest run ever made between the two points. Reaching the hospital and seeing the patient on the operating table, the reckless but fearless woman collapsed in a nurse's arms.

The shooting was the climax of a series of playful pranks between the Becketts, a pair of newly weds of only seven months. Both are young. Mr. Beckett being twenty-one and his wife twenty. The latest reports from the hospital are that the bullet has been located and that Beckett will recover.

RED CROSS SENDS SERUM TO PLAGUE-RIDDEN CITY

Responding to an appeal from Dr. Rafael Reygadas, president of the Mexican Red Cross, the American Red Cross has forwarded curative doses of anti-plague serum to aid in stamping out the bubonic plague, which is reported making headway in Vera Cruz.

Rat extermination and rat proofing are the fully effective means of prevention, but the serum will slow up progress of the disease temporarily. The American Red Cross, in replying to the cable from Dr. Reygadas, also offered information as to the best means of preventing the spread of the disease. This knowledge is the result of careful investigation of the causes of the disease and its spread and its application has proved highly effective.
