

SEES SAFETY IN DRAFT LAW

Congressman Kahn Will Offer Bill in Congress for Automatic Conscription.

An automatic conscription law, which would become operative the moment war is made against the United States or this nation declares war against another, will be sponsored in the next Congress by Representative Julius Kahn, of California, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs.

Representative Kahn, then ranking Republican member, led the fight in the House for the selective draft act when war was declared in 1917. Chairman Kahn believes an automatic selective service law is necessary for national defense, as along with it he would provide a system of military training.

FEARS DELAY IN FUTURE.
"We lost three months by not having the selective service act on our statute books when we went to war," said Representative Kahn yesterday, on his return from the Pacific coast. "Such a delay might be fatal to our cause another time, for we cannot again be sure of having allies to fight off our enemies until we get ready."

"I am in favor of amending the army reorganization bill of the last Congress so that we can put conscription into effect immediately when another nation makes war on us, or we declare war against any nation. That would be a great guarantee for peace."

"Universal training must be adopted as a national policy to make this plan most effective. I am convinced that the National Guard, authorized by the last army bill, will never reach authorized strength. Efforts have been made to build up the guard for many months, but it has less than one-third of its authorized strength and increases in enlistment are slight."

The Kahn bill for universal training was endorsed by a vote of 11 to 9 by the Military Affairs Committee last session, but Democratic members of the House in caucus refused to permit consideration of the measure at the time. It was brought up by the Secretary of War.

SEES FLAWS IN ARMY BILL.
Congressman Kahn said that the Army reorganization bill had developed several flaws to be corrected in the next Congress. Something should be done immediately for aviation, he said, and cited that already Germany is outdistancing the United States in aviation since the end of the war. America is dropping back, he suggested, to her pre-war condition of training other nations after inventing the airplane.

"I am in favor of appropriating $5,000,000 annually to be used solely for the invention and development of airplanes. When given a chance American inventive genius is—the best in the world, but aviation, as a commercial enterprise, in our times, will not give the necessary encouragement for development of aviation and the Government must do it. If we can get the speediest and best planes by spending $5,000,000 a year in developing them, the investment will be cheap. We expended $40,000,000 on our first aviation program after we went into war and we got few planes out of it. We cannot afford to do that again."

Georgia to Develop Potash Deposits If Trial Is Profitable

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 30.—Development of the potash deposits in Bartow county may begin actively soon, is the opinion of S. W. McCallie, State geologist.

American Metals Company has been working for three years in the neighborhood of Cartersville on the problem of extraction of the potash content from slate for use in fertilizers. Some of the slate has from 8 to 10 per cent potash content and experiments have reached the stage where the company is ready to make final tests to determine the commercial possibilities of the development.

The chief engineer of the company was in Atlanta Tuesday to obtain a car to ship a carload of the mineral to New Jersey, where it will be tested at the company's plant there.

In case the tests are satisfactory the company plans to erect a large plant near Cartersville and to carry on the work extensively on the large leases it has in that section.

GERMANY DECREES INDUSTRY CONTROL

More rigid control is to be exercised by the German government to prevent factory closings, according to reports received today from the American commission at Berlin.

The German economic council, it was said, will reopen plants and take measures for resumption of work by providing for community orders through the co-operation of trade organizations. Under the authority to be exercised by the economic council, factories cannot be closed or production restricted without consent of the government.

The German public's agitation against high prices grows out of the dearth of raw materials, the cablegram said. The great mass of the people are unable to pay the present prices charged. Labor is fighting reduction in wages, urging that such a course only would decrease the purchasing power of the people.

Officials in Berlin, it was said, believe the new methods of control invoked over industry will prevent idleness, keep up production and gradually reduce prices to a lower level.
