

Famous Illustrators Working Now to Elevate the Pictures

By EDWIN JUSTUS MAYER. Art is long, as the poet observed, but not long enough to escape the all-encompassing reach of the movies. Everybody knows that in the last decade stage stars and famous writers have yielded to the spell of the shadow world and given their talents to the once despised cinema.

some advertising propaganda for the Goldwyn Eminent Authors super-picture "Earthbound." But there is no reason to believe that the illustrations have become so much more important during the past ten years.

To return to the increasing importance of the illustrative titles which has already been touched upon, it may be said to those interested in the movies—and who isn't?—that there is little doubt that this development of the motion picture is far more likely to continue to gain in importance than otherwise.

It is certainly doubtful if the motion picture will ever become sheer pantomime; and it is more than likely that the ultimate state of the movies will be one in which the captions and the action are artistically blended.

HE GOES AWAY SINGLE AND COMES BACK DOUBLE

When Eddie Barry, well known Christie comedian, returned from his vacation recently from Big Bear Lake he brought with him a smiling bride. She was formerly Gladys Patterson, who is with the Francis Ford Production Company.

HE'S SOME BUSY.

"Hello, Tom! Been busy lately?" asked a friend of Tom Mix, the daredevil cowboy, when he met him upon meeting him while "The Texas" a newly finished William Fox thriller, was being made.

AIRPLANES MAKE REAL SNOW STORM FOR FILMS

Blizzards are not to be had for the asking, and yet Rex Beach wrote two great blizzard scenes for his latest picture, "The North Wind's Malice," a Goldwyn production, which opens a week's engagement at Moore's Rialto Theater beginning tomorrow.

How could the director make sure of these blizzards? He might take of these blizzards. He might take his actors and cameramen into the northern country and wait for months without a blizzard, and the light on that day might be too bad to insure good photography.

CLYDE COOK SELF-MADE WONDER AS A COMEDIAN

The engagement of Clyde Cook, recently famous pantomimist and clown of the New York Hippodrome, as a comedy star by William Fox follows a long record of successes achieved as a comedian in Australia, London, Paris and America.

Cook invaded London at the age of nineteen and was an "overnight" success at the celebrated Alhambra.

It was while performing in "Happy Days" at the New York Hippodrome that William Fox first saw Mr. Cook. Realizing that here was a real comedian for the films, Mr. Fox requested Mr. Cook to call and see him.

DON'T LAVISH TOO MUCH AFFECTION UPON HUBBY

Almost as many husbands are driven from home by wives who lavish too much attention on them as leave because their wives neglect them.

Holliday, Jr., which is to be solemnized in historic St. John's Church, with a reception afterward at Falkland, the country home of the Blairs at Silver Spring, Md.

Long, Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, Col. John George Quackenbush, Prince Eugene Lubomirski, and John Kirby.

Among the other guests were Helen and Lawrence Houston, children of the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Houston; the Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker's children, Betty, Peggy and Jack Baker; Mary Dixon Palmer, daughter of the Attorney General and Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer.

After luncheon the host, who has his own motion picture machine, showed "Treasure Island" and other interesting films to the great delight of his audience. The two small sons of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Grayson came in time to see the pictures.

CHRISTIE COMEDIES ARE CELEBRATING BIRTHDAY

This week the Christie Comedies are four years old—quite a husky infant organization.

But four years in the picture business as independent producers is a long time, according to Al Christie, who has been away from his plant more than a night in all the four years that the Christies—Al and Charlie—have been in business for themselves.

The only time Al Christie has been away from his studio more than a day since its organization was when he had the flu, and then he says they had scenario conferences in the back yard of his house every afternoon, with "Charlie Christie running up and down stairs and relaying Al's orders to the directors out of the window."

The Christies have made 400 comedies, most of which were Christie comedies in one reel, on which Al Christie founded his fame as a producer of polished screen humor.
