Drama League Gives Benefit to Aid Near East

INTEREST in the Drama League plays and ball to be given tomorrow evening at the Hotel Washington for the benefit of the Near East Relief Fund promises to crowd the big ball room. The Near East makes a peculiar appeal because the money raised for the fund is expended in the most direst of the suffering and starving children in Armenia and the Bible lands of Asia. There has been more or less confusion in regard to this Near East Relief drive, which has been often accepted as part of the work of Herbert Hoover, who is interested in the work of relief in eastern Europe. They are widely separated in the field of their activities and quite distinct in their separate aims. A distinct in the Near East Relief will be sending help to the part of the world most closely associated with sacred history.

The plays to be presented tomorrow have been long rehearsed at the home of Mrs. John W. Thompson, who is the author of one of the dramas. Mrs. Thompson will play the principal part in her own play, "Pearls." Besides Mrs. Thompson, Miss Nancy Gordon Jones and Mrs. William Channing Johnson, their able director, about whom I have already told. Those taking prominent parts are: Miss Dorothy Bennett, who is playing the leading role in "Eugenically Speaking," a very amusing play produced by the Washington Square Players several years ago. Miss Bennett is an extremely good-looking blond and well known to Washington for her charm and talent. She has been starring two seasons in her college class plays at Wisconsin University. Others in that cast are J. M. Curtin, who is well known as a singer as well as star in the College Dramatic Club of Syracuse University, and C. H. Gifford, an old friend of the drama and versatile and pleasing in his part.

In "Pearls" the charming little play by Mrs. Thompson in which she plays the lead, are Miss Mildred Brown, who plays the ingenue part and Edwin Trusheim, a student at George Washington University and youth of marked ability who shows a good interpretation of his part. Mrs. Paul de Hoff Reed, who is Elizabeth Boyd, of Philadelphia, before her recent marriage, is very charming in the leading role of "The Gift of the Magi," a story familiar to us all which Mrs. Burelson has dramatized. She is supported by Roger L. MacAndrews, who also shows marked ability as an actor.

In "The Unlucky Star," the play by Roi Cooper Meigrue in which Nancy Gordon Jones is starred, there are such able actors as Addison Smith, who has been on the professional stage with Mrs. Fiske and later in vaudeville and Detlow Martinson, who is identified with the Arts Club, having taken part in a number of their plays besides being a writer of plays. He fills the role of lover to decided advantage. Mrs. Werner plays the part of maid very cleverly. Additional names on the floor committee are: Major Stuart Craver, Franklin Ellis, C. J. F. Harky, British Embassy; Ralph W. F. Hill, Commander Theodore Jewell, Chester A. Snow, Jr., and Horace Westcott.

HOLD THE TRENCH!
The Trench, the little shop maintained by ex-soldiers as a clearing house for the work of the wounded and disabled men in the hospitals in and near Washington, has got into difficulties. Up until Christmas time there was a ready sale of the basket work, bead work, the lamps and other useful and beautiful articles on exhibition there. Afterward, as the natural enough, the demand for such things slackened. And, as the boys running the little shop—it is in F street opposite the Willard—have no capital, they are finding it hard to keep running and pay their rent.

As a matter of fact without help they will go under—and this must not be, for they offer a permanent market for the work of the men taking vocational training in the hospitals which is provided in no other way. So now comes the American Women's Legion to the rescue through its president, Mrs. James W. Wadsworth. She is sending out invitations for a tea and sale on Thursday and Friday afternoons, from 2 to 6 o'clock, at her residence, 800 Sixteenth street, where the stock of the Trench will be on sale, with the addition of shipment of interesting things which have just come in from the various hospitals.

Some of the ladies of the American Women's Legion will help with the sale and may be the people of Washington be generous in their support. It is hoped that enough funds will be realized for the Trench to carry on or that, at the very least, the stock on hand will be sold so that the men in the hospitals will not have things thrown back on their hands. The Trench has always turned the proceeds from each article, less a small percentage for the cost of disposing of it, over to the men who made it—and that's probably the reason why the shop is falling.

The original idea was to have the sale at the Washington Hotel on Wednesday, and tentative arrangements were made for this when Mrs. Wadsworth volunteered to lend her house and for many reasons that seemed a more satisfactory proposition.

MARSHALLS HONOR GUESTS.
The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall will be honor guests at the dinner which the Spanish ambassador and Mme. de Riano are giving tonight. They will be thirty in the company. Mrs. and Mrs. Edward McKoon are coming over from Baltimore for the dinner and will make a brief visit at the embassy.

Mrs. Marshall was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. Joe Henry Eagle, wife of Congressman Eagle, of Texas, who had a company of distinguished women to meet her. The JESUITS HONOR GUESTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley will give a dinner tonight for the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand. The Duchesse de Richelieu, who is the leading role of "The Gift of the Magi," a story familiar to us all which Mrs. Burelson has dramatized. She is supported by Roger L. MacAndrews, who also shows marked ability as an actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will entertain again at dinner on Wednesday night for the Spanish Ambassador and Mme. de Riano and the Belgian Ambassador and Baroness de Cartier.

Lady Geddes, wife of the British Ambassador, was the guest for whom Mrs. Henry F. Dimock gave a luncheon today. There were nineteen in the company of ladies asked to meet her.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Dimock will give a dinner in compliment to the Charge d'affaires of Italy and Mme. Branbilla.

Congressman and Mrs. Samuel Winslow will entertain a company at dinner tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. John Joyce Broderick of the British Embassy, will be hosts at dinner this evening at Raucher's when they will entertain thirty-six guests in honor of Maj. C. E. D. Bridge, assistant military attaché of the British embassy and Mrs. Bridge, who have recently joined the ranks of the diplomatic here. The guests will include members of the diplomatic corps and the official and resident sets.

Mrs. Timothy T. Ansberry will be at home this afternoon, assisted by Mrs. James M. Cox, who is her guest. The reception will be quite informal as no invitations have been issued, and friends of the hostess will be commended as they arrive to do the honors at the prettily appointed table.

Former Governor and Mrs. Cox have come to Washington in order that he might take part in important party conferences and will be with Judge and Mrs. Ansberry for several days on Wednesday Judge and Mrs. Ansberry will give a dinner for their guests.

Mrs. Joseph W. Folk will be at home this afternoon between 4 and 6 o'clock. Woodland drive, and each Monday during the remainder of January and the month of February.

Mrs. Charles Boughton Wood, who will receive this afternoon, as is her custom on Mondays, will be assisted by her nieces, Miss Alice Egan and Miss Antoinette Graves.

Dr. Bedrich Stepanek, minister of Czecho-Slovakia, has gone to New York to remain until Thursday. On Saturday Dr. Stepanek entertained at dinner at the Lafayette Hotel for Charles Vopicka, American minister to Rumania.

Prince Antoine Bibesco, Rumanian minister to the United States and Princess Bibesco sailed for New York Saturday on the Aquitania.

Mrs. Henry W. Keyes, wife of the senator from New Hampshire, will go to New York tomorrow to remain several days and consequently will not be at home on Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Greenlee are entertaining tomorrow night in compliment to Mrs. Keyes and certain of their friends among the literary folk whom they are anxious for her to meet. Mr. Greenlee is the author of "Japan, Real and Imaginary," and a number of other charming works, and Mr. Greenlee is also a writer of distinction.

after a serious illness. He is now entirely recovered. Mr. and Mrs. Joerissen are now at their home, 1819 Massachusetts avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Marye have invitations out for a dinner on Monday evening, January 31, in honor of Mrs. James B. Haggin, of New York and California, and Mrs. Frederick Sharon, of California, who will be in Washington for several days. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown, of Baltimore, will also come to Washington for the dinner.

Mrs. John F. Rodgers will give a dinner next Sunday evening for Dr. and Mrs. Preston Pope Satterthwaite, of New York, who are coming to Washington to stay with Mrs. Cromwell Brooks. Mrs. Brooks will have a dinner for her guests on Saturday night and on Sunday Mrs. Charles S. Brownwell will entertain them at luncheon.

Mrs. C. Frank Reavis and Mrs. Albert W. Jefferia will be at home informally together tomorrow afternoon at the Congressional Club in compliment to Mrs. H. H. Wheeler, of Lincoln, and Mrs. Draper Smith, of Omaha, the Nebraska electors, who have just bought the electoral vote to Washington.

The hostesses will be assisted by Mrs. George W. Norris, Mrs. Irvin Lenroot, Mrs. Julius Kahn, Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mrs. Wallace White, and Mrs. James C. Good. At the luncheon will be the wives of the members of the Nebraska delegation in Congress—Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. William Andrews and Mrs. Melvin McLaurin.

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will pass part of the week in Washington. Mrs. Rockefeller will attend the economic conference called by the Y. W. C. A. for today, Tuesday and Wednesday and will speak at a tea at the Blue Triangle Center, Twentieth and B streets, Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock and again on Friday evening at the annual meeting when, as chairman of the housing committee of the national board, she will formally turn over to the local association the Twentieth and B street property.

GENERAL PERSHING'S AT HOME.
General Pershing's at home yesterday at Highwood, his Chevy Chase residence, proved to be one of the most notable events of the season. The spring day made the drive from Washington especially enjoyable and there was a steady stream of motor cars from 4 o'clock in the afternoon when early comers had the privilege of an informal chat with the General and Major Quackmeyer, who shares the house with him.

Mrs. Frances E. Warren, wife of the Senator from Wyoming and mother-in-law of General Pershing, received the guests, Mrs. Grafton Minot and Mrs. G. T. Marshall, wife of Colonel Marshall, presided at the table.

Several hundred guests called and in order to see the many others who desire to meet him in his own home General Pershing will entertain again. He has arranged a series of Sunday receptions.

Miss Mildred Brownell has returned from Lakewood, N. J., bringing with her her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, who is her guest. The two girls received with Mrs. Charles S. Brownell, who was at home yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. John Elliot, who is the daughter of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and as Maude Howe Elliot is widely known as a writer, will be the guest of honor from 4 to 6 next Wednesday afternoon at the regular weekly tea of the League of American Pen Women. Mrs. Elliot will talk informally to the members and their guests and may describe the artists' colony which she has established in Newport.

Mrs. Elliot will be the guest for a time of Col. and Mrs. George C. Thorpe and afterward will visit Mrs. Gilson Fahnestock. She has recently been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Lutz Anderson at Weld, Brookings, Mass.

A meeting of the Washington Chapter of St. Mary's Alumnae of Alexandria, Va., will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Hibbs building. A large attendance is expected.

Congressman and Mrs. John McDuffie will have as their guests in their box at the Alabama Society ball and reception this evening Congressman and Mrs. William Washburn, of Mississippi; Major and Mrs. C. L. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wise, of Mobile, Ala.; Mrs. Randall, of Monroeville, Ala., and Tom Fosque, of Grove Hill, Ala.

Congressman H. B. Steagall will have in his box Major and Mrs. J. P. Johnson, Miss Eula Thomas, Miss Margaret Steagall, Miss Mabel Steagall and Miss Mira Steagall. The arrangements committee for the ball is headed by Mrs. P. T. Carter, who is assisted by Mrs. W. I. Hitchcock, Mrs. W. T. Willett, Mrs. George S. Barnard, Mrs. Q. B. Newman, Major T. V. Walker, P. F. Conway, and Grady E. Oakley.

MRS. WALCUTT AT HOME.
Mrs. Charles Carroll Walcutt will be at home for the first time this season Sunday, January 30, when she will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Charles Copeland of Wilmington, Del., who will arrive Wednesday to be the guest of Mrs. Walcutt, and will be joined here Saturday by Mrs. Copeland.

The guests of honor and principal speakers at the regular fortnightly soiree of the Washington Salon at its studios in the McLean Building, 1517 H street, next Thursday night, will be Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of public schools of this city, and Percy S. Foot, Dr. Ballou will speak on "Progressive Educational Methods" and Mr. Foster will talk on "The Underestimated Value of Music." The musical program will include a cycle of songs by Italian, French, Russian and American composers sung by Mr. Martin Richardson, American tenor, formerly of the Royal Opera, Florence, Italy, accompanied on the piano by Paul Whitney Fishbaugh; violin selections by Miss Ruth Bronson, with Mrs. H. M. Blandy at the piano; Miss Kathryn Oldys, in piano numbers by Paderewski, Chopin and McDowell. The hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. L. D.
