D. C. AD CLUB PICKS CAMPAIGN SLOGAN

"Heart-of Nations" Is Phrase Trade Organizations Are Urged to Adopt.

Urging the adoption of the "Heart of Nation" slogan in connection with extensive plans for the nation-wide advertising of the Capital as a convention city, the Advertising Club at its luncheon yesterday appointed a committee to confer with the other local civic organizations with this end in view.

MILLION DOLLAR IDEA. It is planned to use a heart-shaped shield as the symbol of the campaign to emphasize Washington's advantages also as a business center. It is said 150 national organizations maintained headquarters here, and the plan will call for an attempt to get 300 more to do so.

The advertising plans are in the hands of William L. Banning, of the Capital Advertising Company. As stated by Joseph D. Kaufman, Mr. Banning has a million-dollar idea for advertising Washington. This idea, the Advertising Club hopes will be used jointly with the "Heart of Nation" slogan. The committee refused at this time to divulge the idea.

Mr. Banning outlined some of his plans at the luncheon. He was appointed chairman of the committee which will confer with other Washington organizations and urge the adoption of the slogan and its plans. Other members of the committee are L. J. Faulkner, Robert Meyers, Roland Robbins and Mr. Kaufman. This committee will in a few days meet members of the following organizations: The Merchants and Manufacturers Association, the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, and the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs.

Mr. Banning intended to establish headquarters here, it was stated, it will be probable that Washington will be selected as the convention city for each of the industries represented.

B. J. Doyle, publisher of Philadelphia, is a short address endorsing the plan proposed by Mr. Banning. Harold H. Levi introduced the speakers and presided.

WEATHER AFFECTS RATE OF BIRTH, DOCTOR SAYS

PARIS, April 13.—The weather has more to do with a nation's birth rate than almost any other factor, declares Dr. A. Magelssen, noted Norwegian physician, in a leading article in the current number of Paris Medical.

Abnormally hot weather is certain to increase the birth rate, says Dr. Magelssen, and he presents an interesting number of weather and birth rate charts, collected during a study lasting more than twenty years. Conversely, a mild summer, following a mild winter, brings fewer babies.

Some of the Norwegian doctor's statistics were gathered in France and the United States. He points out that neither New York nor Paris can be taken as criterions because both cities have large foreign populations not yet acclimated and therefore not so directly affected by weather changes.

"TWIN BROTHER" PLEA NO GOOD FOR BIGAMIST

SAPULPA, Okla., April 13.—"Captain" Harry W. Devore is serving a five-year term in the State penitentiary all because, Harry says, he has a "double" brother who likes the ladies.

Devore, alias George W. Roberts, alias George W. Mack, was convicted of bigamy when three wives identified him in open court. "They got me wrong," alibied the "Captain." "I'm the victim of a double. My brother is the guy who married these ladies."

The evidence showed that either the "Captain" or his brother "double" had departed after each ceremony with the bride's jewelry and all available cash.

The court decided it was the "Captain."

GERMANY DISCOVERS PLOT TO SLAY FRENCH

MAYENCE, Germany, April 13.—The police here today discovered a large deposit of dynamite in a hunting lodge near Wiesbaden and subsequently unearthed a communist plot to kill the members of the French court martial in that town, planned for the opening day of the trial of communists arrested in the recent riots.

Several arrests were made.

MAZDA NAME HAS INTERESTING ORIGIN

Derived From Religion Which Was Founded Over 3,000 Years Ago.

Many people wonder why incandescent lamps are so frequently spoken of as Mazda lamps. They know Mazda is a trade-mark, but they suppose it means that the filament is made of Mazda—whatever that is—just as a Tungsten lamp is so called because it has a Tungsten filament.

It is interesting to know that Mazdaism, or, as it is more frequently styled, Zoroastrianism, was a religion which originated some three thousand years ago in Persia. The conflict between the god of light, Ormuzd, and the god of darkness, Ahriman, formed the central part of this religion.

Ormuzd was the embodiment of truth and frankness, while Ahriman was a mixture of secrecy and cunning. Ormuzd was the sun god and Ahriman the god of night. It was a religion of many rites and ceremonies; it had its temples, priests, and altars. On the altars burned a sacred fire.

There were various branches of this religion, offshoots known as Mithraism which spread into Egypt after the campaigns there of Pompey the Great and as late as the time of Constantine. The early part of the fourth century A. D. was a serious rival to Christianity, and toward the close of that century, the Emperor Julian tried to substitute it for the accepted faith.

Another branch was known as Manichaeism, which taught that Ormuzd was God and Ahriman was Satan and that life was a conflict between light and darkness. The theory of Manichaeism was that man was created in the light, but fell from light into darkness and is spending his life on earth redeeming himself and striving for light. The followers of Zoroaster, those who adhered to his original teaching, were styled Mazdas to distinguish them from those who followed Mithraism or Manichaeism. It is interesting to note that Mani was crucified in A. D. 277, while Mazdaism held its own in Persia for several centuries.

BRADLEY BENEFIT TICKETS SELL FAST

Capacity House Sure for Revue By Delhi Club in Aid of Policeman's Widow.

More than half the tickets for 'The F Street Revue,' which will be given at Immaculate Conception Hall, Eighth and N streets northwest, Wednesday night, by the Delhi Club for the benefit of Mrs. Preston E. Bradley, widow of the policeman who lost his life in the line of duty, have already been sold, according to an announcement today.

George Durno, manager of the talented and versatile troupe of Washington performers composing the Delhi Club, says all the indications are that the capacity of the auditorium will be taxed on the night of the high-class entertainment and that a substantial sum will be realized for Mrs. Bradley.

With almost nightly rehearsals, Manager Durno promises a finished performance. The cast has been augmented by several additional entertainers and the show probably will be one of the best ever put on in Washington.

A well-balanced array of vocal entertainers will be a feature of 'The F Street Revue.' Miss Virginia Squares, possessor of a soprano voice of exceptional quality, will be heard in several numbers, both with the Delhi chorus and with her partner, Miss Catherine Morrison. When these two young misses make their appearance everybody else takes a back seat, according to Durno. Miss Morrison is truly 'a mistress of the keys,' and this versatile duo put their numbers over with a vim that is fascinating.

Catherine Smith is one of the real hits of the show. Her beautiful contralto voice is sure to bring down the house, as will her partner's concert solo from the singing of one of the higher type of ballads to the jazz sort, ever dear to the vaudeville audience.

Synopation reigns supreme with Mildred Flynn on the stage. The way she puts over the "blues" is irresistible. All-in-all, 'The F Street Revue' has an exceedingly well balanced combination to draw upon for its musical numbers.

WALTER HAMPDEN SHOWS PERFECT FORM AS DANE

Walter Hampden gave an excellent rendition of "Hamlet" before a large audience at Poli's last night, his well-balanced company supporting the star almost flawlessly. This was the only offering of the tragedy of the Dane during the present stay in Washington.

J. Harry Irvine, as Claudius; William Sauter, as Horatio; and Mabel Moore, as Ophelia, were prominent. Tonight "Romeo and Juliet" will be played and tomorrow afternoon "The Merchant of Venice."

LAST OF POTTER RECITALS GIVEN

Pianist Heard at Best With Eisenberg at Masonic Auditorium.

The final concert of the Potter recitals was given last evening, with Louis Potter, pianist, and Maurice Eisenberg, cellist, in joint recital. Mr. Potter has given a real contribution to music in these three recitals at the Masonic Auditorium, for as soloist he is essentially musical, and he plays with a sincere appreciation of the composer.

In program making, too, the Potter recitals have been broad. Two novelties last evening were the French "Sonatine" of Ravel, played here for the first time, and Dohnanyi's "Rhapsodie," a sharp minor. The Dohnanyi work is interesting from a pianistic point of view, but not rich in substance, though Mr. Potter made much of it in variety of effects. It is somewhat the sensational old school music.

Louis Potter is fine and highly sensitized. His art was at its best yesterday, his technique pure, clean, and his melodic quality a dominant factor. In Beethoven, the Sonata opus 21, No. 3, he was most happy. He articulated each note with musical meaning, he gave his themes with a singing tone, shading them effectively and bringing a buoyant joy into the fluent music, which is catching one of the real moods of the great master.

The Schumann "Etudes Symphoniques" was the pinnacle of his work, these many variations revealing again his dominant note. For this young artist is a purist, with a delightful fairy agility of technique, who paints his tone-pictures with delicate line and color that is fresh and clear. He does not indulge in introspection, his tone being perhaps too crystal clear for the suffused music of Ravel and Debussy, but artist he is, in the charming Mozart spirit and his playing is refreshing and musically of sincere value.

In a double role, that of promptly accompanist to Mr. Eisenberg, Mr. Potter showed that his very fineness would fit him admirably for concerted work. His playing of the Beethoven "Variations Symphoniques" was exquisite in tone work.

Maurice Eisenberg is from the New York Symphony Orchestra and he plays with a particularly rich tone in his low register, giving grace in the formal style of the Popper "Gavotte," and a musically interpretation of his entire program. He does not seek depths of feeling, the "Kol Nedri" of Bruch, having nothing of the plaintive, but the type of the Saint-Saens "Swan" given for encore, was very lovely, and his technique is good.

Mr. Potter gave the MacDowell "Novellette," in D, for encore, closing a series of concertos that should become established in our music season. They would serve a purpose in bringing to our student world an appreciation of music, and they are a pleasure.
