

LEGION WILL APPEAL TO HARDING TO SAVE JOBS OF EX-SERVICE MEN

DISPUTE ON RATINGS OF SOLDIERS

Many of High Efficiency Under Law Face Dismissal From Their Positions.

President Harding will be appealed to within a few days by the heads of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars in the District of Columbia to immediately issue an Executive order which will prevent the dismissal of hundreds of ex-service men holding Government positions who are to be released on June 30.

RESULT OF CONFERENCE.

At a conference yesterday between Herbert D. Brown, director of the Bureau of Efficiency, Col. James A. Drain and Col. E. E. Eady-Smith, of the American Legion, and Capt. Edward Bettelheim, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, it was decided that the only way in which the ex-service men could be saved from dismissal would be by an Executive order, signed by the President, stating that no honorably discharged ex-service man, whose record as a Government employe is "good," shall be discharged from employment.

MUCH FOR LITTLE.

The proprietor of the little lunch-room opposite the Capitol, Tracton car barn, Eighth street southeast, serves a bowl of real soup, coffee, pork and beans and bread pudding for two bits, and yet a few blocks away I paid 30c for a fresh pork sandwich and a bottle of near beer.

DOUBT OVER RATINGS.

Department heads, it is stated, while heartily in favor of retaining the ex-service men, have not yet decided what percentage of efficiency ratings shall be considered "good," or, at least, good enough to show evidence to the ex-service men in reducing their forces, as provided by law.

MYRTILLA GRADUATES

Addressed by Bruce

That the Myrtilla Miner Normal School will soon be developed into a full-fledged teachers' college on a par with all others in the country was prophesied by Roscoe Conkling at the Myrtilla graduation exercises last night.

MODERN ADAM SHOCKS

Suburban Community

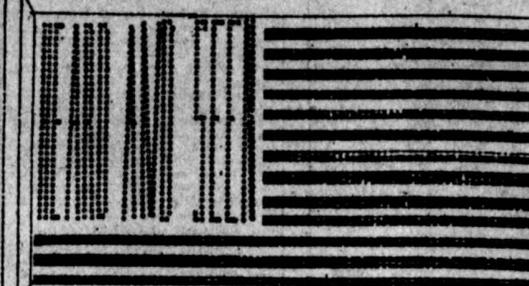

The heat has no terrors for one young man in the Rock Creek Park section. Yesterday he was emulating Adam in the garden of Eden in the park when a horrified pedestrian observed him. When last seen he was on the run. The horrified person notified Patrolman Foley, of the traffic bureau, and the police are now searching for the twentieth-century Adam.

Allen Heads Trinidades.

Harold Allen was elected community secretary at a joint meeting of the Trinidad Citizens' Association and the Trinidad Community Center last night. He is the first man in the District to be elected to such an office. Following the transaction of routine business the meeting adjourned until the fourth Thursday in September. Don H. York presided.

HEARD AND SEEN

By BILL PRICE.

Dear Bill: Why shouldn't the Grand Old Column boast a flag of its own? Above is my suggestion for a design, symbolizing the galaxy of stars whose contributions have helped to make the old column so popular. Some of your real art contributors may be able to suggest something else. It is drawn on a typewriter.

AFFINITIES.

Hold on: "He the pale pursued, And I was no prude; Blot in Battery and Lee, Swoop, with bright, pointed eyes, I had to buy ten times and meat, in such to suit the briny deep. Left wife, full 'er soap and toilet, Busted commands of Holy Writ; Now I got 'er real affinity, A burlesque queen, some divinity. Methinks, but not for a crest, Triangle cop 'ud suit me best.

SOME QUESTIONS.

1. Did the horsemen who "scoured" the plains use soap? 2. Is a good view to be had from the "top of the morning"? 3. If a man "cuts" an acquaintance, is he liable to prosecution for assault? 4. When a man and woman are made "one" by a clergyman, which is the one? 5. Why is the uttering of "false notes" a crime in forgers and merely a harmless peculiarity in singers? EAMON O. B.

THE FLY'S IMMODESTY.

Little fly upon the wall, Ain't you got no shame at all? Ain't you got no blushing pride? Ought to run away and hide. After all the gringing you've had, I never thought you'd be so bad. Your behavior's simply shocking! Six bare legs, and not one stocking! ETTALOTTA PRUNER.

DESCRIBE LOVE.

"Love is a ticklish feeling around the heart that can't be scratched," writes "DICK." Whether it's a ticklish or ticklish feeling, lots of 'em have it; don't want to scratch it; and either beam happiness or emit gloom, all according to whether it is required. If any columnist can describe love in a new way—snappy, solemn, witty—we want it for the column without loss of time. Have any of you had the disease so badly that you can describe it in immortal fashion? Go to it.

BIDDING HIS TIME.

The little drawing below is by EARLE SMITHSON. It represents the idea of the tenant as to what will happen to him if the Ball rent law expires in October next. Smithson entitles it, "Just waiting for the look to open."

HEROINEING.

Mary had a little lamb. It's fleece was white as wool. But now she's had it heroineed. For that is quite the style. CHEERIE.

HOT? UNDERWEAR SALESMEN DON'T HAVE THAT IDEA

They're Right on Deck Now With Samples of Nice, Warm, Woolly Goods.

Calling electric fans to Eskimos in the middle of the Arctic night might well be considered good salesmanship. But it isn't a circumstance to what is going on in Washington today. Salesmen are here now to place orders for winter underwear—the nice, warm, thick, woolly, itchy kind. And the worst part is that they are doing it.

Displaying salesmanship to the nth degree, they imbibe long draughts of cooling fluid at the nearest soda fountain, heroically discard their fans, clutch their bags of samples, and fare forth among the big buyers.

These unfortunate beings gaze awestricken upon the outwardly cool salesman, who smiles enticingly and expatiates at length upon the desirability of his wares until, caught in a snare of words, the buyer plunges steamingly into the pile of samples, pawing them over feverishly, utterly surrounded by their hot, linty appendages.

These salesmen seem to be especially eager to place orders for those warm er-r-oh, you know, what ever it is—women call what they wear next to 'em. They evidently consider it likely that short skirts and low necks will prevail during the winter and—well, the women have got to wear a little something anyway.

If you suffer from heat, don't go into the underwear section of a big store. The sight of men in Palm Beach suits and women half-way in peek-a-boo waists, pawing over sizzling hot underwear and attempting to close their ears to the flow of eloquence, meanwhile wiping their steaming brows, is apt to give you a relapse.

GEN. CHAMORRO AGAIN TO COME TO WASHINGTON

Former Nicaraguan President to Take Place of Dr. Cesar, Who Will Go to Paris.

Transfer of Nicaraguan diplomats, bringing to Washington once more Capt. Emiliano Chamorro, former president of the Central American Republic, is said to have followed the intense desire on the part of the present minister, Gen. Dr. Don Alejandro Cesar, to return to France, the home of his descendants and of his pretty Nicaraguan wife.

Dr. Cesar will leave within a few days for Paris, where he received the degree of doctor of medicine following study at the University of Paris.

TURNER IS HANGED IN RICHMOND FOR D.C. BRIDGE KILLING

Washington Negro Pays Penalty For Slaying U. S. Worker and Attacking Girl.

As a score of prisoners looked on from their cells, William H. Turner, Washington negro, this morning was hanged on the gallows at the Henrico county jail at Richmond for the slaying on May 23, 1920, of Thomas Morgan Moore, employe of the Government torpedo plant at Alexandria, and for attacking Miss Pearl Clark, secretary to Congressman Britten, of Illinois.

The trap was sprung at 6:07 o'clock and Turner was pronounced dead fifteen minutes later. This was the first hanging in Virginia since electrocution was established by the State and the first by the Government in Virginia in twenty-five years.

The reason Turner was hanged under Federal supervision was due to the fact that he killed Moore and attacked Miss Clark on a small piece of Government reservation on the Virginia side of the Highway bridge. Edie Turner, 477 A street southwest, the negro's wife, witnessed the hanging and claimed the body, having it sent to this city for burial.

Before going to his death, Turner confessed to the crime, stating that he was ready to die as he had made his peace with God. The execution was conducted by United States Marshal John G. Saunders.

ARRESTS GIRL FOR SPEEDING; WEDS HER

"You need someone to keep you from reckless driving," Milton D. Smith, traffic officer, told Katherine M. Horton, last year when he held up her car as it raced around Dupont Circle. She thought it over. They were married yesterday.

At any rate it is an excellent siren. A three-horse-power electric motor puts the kick behind it and is capable of 3,450 revolutions a minute. When weather conditions are good the siren can be heard all the way from Rockville to Thibet and back again by way of Georgetown and Sandy Spring.

Connection will be made with the local telephone exchange so the alarm can be turned on by the telephone operator. A system of alarms will be adopted so that inhabitants will know in which part of the civilized world, or Riverdale, the fire is raging. The citizens earnestly pray each night that the operator will not plug in on the alarm by mistake.

Speed Laws Bring Romance and Bride To D. C. Traffic Cop

To the altar instead of the police station is the course one young Washington woman has taken as a result of her violation of the traffic regulation which specifically states that automobiles shall not go more than eighteen miles an hour about the city.

"Here, hold on; how fast do you think you can go around this circle?" called out Milton D. Smith, member of the Metropolitan Police Department, to the driver of a large touring car which was going at considerable speed around Dupont circle some months ago.

"Draw up to the curb," he ordered. "The car slowed up and pulled near the curb. Smith hurried over to it, all intent on taking the driver to the police station.

"But you wouldn't arrest me?" came the appealing voice of Katherine M. Horton, the driver, as she smiled at Smith. "I really didn't mean to go fast. I am terribly sorry. In fact he kept two eyes on her. For the rest of his life he will be watching her. For this chance meeting developed into a romance. Smith met her again, and again. Then he called on her. And called again. Instead of taking her to the station he gave her a lecture.

"I'm going to keep an eye on you hereafter," warned Smith. Smith did keep an eye on her. In fact he kept two eyes on her. For the rest of his life he will be watching her. For this chance meeting developed into a romance. Smith met her again, and again. Then he called on her. And called again. Instead of taking her to the station he gave her a lecture.

"I do," declared Smith at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church when Rev. J. J. Dimon performed the marriage ceremony.

LEAVE ON MOTOR TRIP. The couple left Washington last night for a two weeks' motor trip to the Blue Ridge Mountains and White Sulphur.

Smith is one of the best known members of the police department. He is now assigned as an examiner in the traffic bureau at the District building. He is a widower, thirty-two years old and lived at 211 Fifteenth street southeast.

The bride is a widow of twenty-six years and lived at 37 T street northwest.

Charles J. Columbus announced the judges of the style show as follows: Clifford K. Berryman, Charles W. Semmes, automobile dealer; John Bosbar, Kiwanis Club; Edward S. Brashear, Civitan Club, and E. C. Graham, president of the City Club and member of the Board of Education.

The business houses are restricted to four entries each, and it is expected that a number of Washington's most beautiful girls as well as the most attractive bathing costumes will be on exhibition.

Announcement is made today that a band will be on hand for the review. The style show was sanctioned by Col. C. O. Sherrill, of the office of Public Buildings and Grounds, as a part of the endeavor to not only popularize the Potomac Park facilities but to provide the public with a concrete idea of what can be done in the way of beauty and modesty in bathing costumes.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOLBOYS SEE "NOW OR NEVER"

Ninety boys from St. Mary's Industrial School were the guests today at Harry A. Crandall's F street house when they saw that great funster, Harold Lloyd, in "Now or Never."

The boys were escorted by Supt. Herrook of the school and made welcome by Mr. Sanbovy, secretary to Harry A. Crandall, when they arrived at 10:30. Each of them was given a lollypop. The treat was arranged by Mrs. Thomas A. Sheridan.

ROCKVILLE HAS REAL OLE' HE FIRE HORN THESE DAYS

And the Thing Is Guaranteed to Be Heard in China If Necessary.

Hyattsville, with its far-famed "whispering" fire siren can now take a back seat. Rockville, right over in the next county, has just obtained a fire siren which is a fire siren.

If the citizens of Hyattsville have difficulty in hearing their own siren they are cordially invited to phone over to Rockville, some twenty or thirty miles away, and the Rockville fire department will oblige with a siren solo which may be plainly heard in all parts of Hyattsville, even when a train is going by.

The new siren has been put in the courthouse tower. When the siren is operated it "work" automatically ceases in the courthouse, while the inmates run around wildly, looking for cotton batting and ear muffs, always kept on hand in case of fire.

The siren cost $575 and, by gum! Rockville is proud of it. The money was raised by the citizens, who gave an amateur play. From worse to more of it, say some.

At any rate it is an excellent siren. A three-horse-power electric motor puts the kick behind it and is capable of 3,450 revolutions a minute. When weather conditions are good the siren can be heard all the way from Rockville to Thibet and back again by way of Georgetown and Sandy Spring.
