PRESIDENT and Mrs. Harding's plans for the week end seem to be pretty much up in the air at the moment. They have decided against the cruise on the Mayflower, which they had been contemplating, but there is now some talk of a motor trip to Atlantic City, starting tomorrow. However, nothing definite has been decided yet.

Gaieties at Newport. While Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's ball at the Newport Golf Club was THE event of last evening, several dinner parties were given at the Rhode Island resort which were of particular interest to Washingtonians. Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, for instance, had a dinner at Elton Court, which was primarily for those popular members of the diplomatic set, the Polish minister and Princess Lubomirska. Their other guests were Admiral Sir Guy Jervis of the British navy; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 2d; Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacRae, Comdr. John Fremont, U. S. N., and Col. Julian Little.

Mr. and Mrs. John Aspegren also had a dinner, among their guests being the minister of Portugal, Viscount d'Alite, and the minister of Sweden, Mr. Walden. Viscount d'Alite has the distinction of having served longer at Washington than any other member of the diplomatic corps and would be the dean thereof were it not for the fact that this is an honor which always falls to the lot of an ambassador. The French ambassador, M. Jusserand, is dean of the corps at Washington.

Mrs. Gibson Fairbank, a Washington hostess who has contributed largely to the gaiety of the Newport season, had a luncheon yesterday. Her guests went afterward—as everybody did—to the Casino for the tennis.

Mrs. Belmont's ball, to go back a bit, was given for her granddaughter, Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, and Miss Vanderbilt's titian-haired chum, Miss Helen Moran. There were 300 guests present, and two large orchestras furnished the music for continuous dancing. While the ball was scheduled to be small and early, it was actually "large and late," and it took many of the guests back to the summer of 1914. When Mrs. Vanderbilt gave a magnificent ball at Marble House for her daughter, Mrs. James B. Marborough, who was then the Duchess of Marlborough.

If memory serves me aright it was a "Chinese Ball." Mrs. Belmont had just completed the Chinese Tea House on the cliffs overlooking the ocean, and during the evening the creme de la creme of the Newport set voiced their approval of the newest addition to the Belmont estate.

The Spanish Ambassador, Senor de Riano, has returned to the embassy after visiting Mrs. George Vanderbilt at Biltmore House, N. C. Senor de Riano, who is with his sister, Mrs. Chandler Anderson, at York Harbor, will be away until the last of September.

Belgian Envoy Sailing. Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian ambassador to the United States, sailed from New York today on the White Star liner Baltic for Liverpool. Other prominent passengers on the Baltic's list include: The Persian minister, Mirza Abdul Ali Khan, who has been transferred from Washington to Spain; Mr. Yano, first secretary of the Japanese embassy at Berlin; Kanaki Kumabe, Shunichi Kase, and Shunroku Naruse, attaches to the Japanese legation at Bern.

Attorney General Daugherty will leave tomorrow for his home in Columbus, Ohio, to be gone a week. On Wednesday he will go to Cincinnati, where he will make an address before the American Bar Association meeting to be held there.

Vacation in Newport. The Polish minister, Prince Lubomirski, is passing his vacation in Newport with Princess Lubomirska. He expects to be away for several weeks, making brief visits to Washington when diplomatic business makes it necessary.

Senator Medill McCormick has gone to Rock river farm, Byron, Ill., to be with Mrs. McCormick and their children through the congressional recess.

Senator Philander C. Knox left yesterday to join Mrs. Knox at their home in Valley Forge, Pa.

Senator and Mrs. LeBaron Colt are at Bristol, R. I., where Mrs. Colt is spending the week. Senator Colt will return to Washington next week.

Senator Samuel D. Nicholson left last night for his home in Denver, Col., where he will remain during the congressional recess.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been seriously ill at his summer home at Campobello, N. H., is now improving. Mr. Roosevelt, who was Frank. 7127.

Crocker-Anderson Wedding. Miss Eloise Porter Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Anderson, will be married this evening to William Mortimer Crocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Quincy Crocker, of Washington, N. J. The ceremony, which will be picturesque in detail, will take place at 8:30 o'clock at Mr. and Mrs. Anderson's home, 1769 Euclid street, and will be witnessed by a company of relatives and close friends, a number of guests from out of town among them.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father, and her uncle, the Rev. Dr. Donald MacLeod, will officiate. He was at one time pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Washington and is now pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, Mo. Miss Ellen Moran, of Washington, will play the wedding march at the little bridal party, which includes Miss Lucille McWane, of Lynchburg, Va., maid of honor, and Howard Richards, Jr., of New York, the best man, enters the drawing room.

The bride will wear a gown of white satin brocaded in silver, with a train of silver cloth which was worn by her mother on her wedding day. Her veil of tulle will fall from a cap of Duchess lace and will be caught at the back with clusters of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor's frock is of sunset taffeta, made in the popular basque effect, and her bouquet is of butterfly roses and delphinium.

The house is decorated in cut flowers, with their usual complement of green, the drawing room being done in white and green. An improvised altar stands beneath the gayly decked mantel. A buffet supper will follow the wedding.

Mr. Crocker is Washington representative of the World Trade Court, of San Francisco. During the war he was in the service and was aide to the officer in charge of the anti-submarine school.

Among the guests from other cities here for the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. William Quincy Crocker and W. H. Clark, of Washington, N. J.; the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Donald Campbell MacLeod, of St. Louis; R. R. Porter, of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Anna H. Smith, Howard Richards, of New York; Robert W. Smith, of Philadelphia; J. T. Woodson, of Lynchburg, Va.; Frederick C. Van Dusen, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Lieut. Paul S. Groen, U. S. N.

Mrs. Sanderson on Visit. Mrs. N. P. Sanderson, of Texarkana, Tex., arrived yesterday to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard. When Mrs. Sanderson returns home she will be accompanied by her granddaughter, Miss Janet Sheppard, who will remain in Texarkana until Christmas, when Senator and Mrs. Sheppard will go for a brief visit to their home.

Mrs. Elphaleet Fraser Andrews returned to her country place in Virginia this week after a visit of several weeks with her mother, Mrs. Charles Cowles Tucker, at Nantuxet, Mass.
