COLLEGES STEP OUT IN MANY BASEBALL GAMES HERE DURING THE WEEK

By BRYAN MORSE.

This is bound to be a busy week for collegers in baseball. Maryland and Catholic universities have large tasks ahead of them during the next six days, if the schedules are glanced over. Regular big-league stuff is in order, as the rivals not only meet each other, but take on lots of trouble with first-class opponents. Georgetown is listed for but one engagement, according to the books, but will get ready for the next week of baseball, which will include a Monday's engagement with Clark Griffith's hirelings at American League Park.

Tomorrow Dartmouth goes up against Maryland University at College Park. The Hanoverians have been in town since Friday, and will conclude their Washington visit by playing Catholic University on Tuesday.

The Wednesday offering brings Maryland University into town for a game with the Catholic University team at Brookland. The contest is one of the early season features equaled only by the return game at College Park on May 13.

Thursday afternoon South Carolina enters the lists against Georgetown University on the Hilltop. Friday afternoon the Tarheels tackle Catholic University, while the University of Vermont nine appears at College Park against Maryland University.

Maryland University gets another crack at baseball Saturday at College Park, playing South Carolina. The Southerners are well advanced at this time of the year, having been out for something like three weeks.

It is noticeable that the local college teams look much better than the Northerners who visit at this time of the year, while the teams from the Carolinas appear somewhat more seasoned than the District nines. There is about the same difference in the advent of spring between here and the Carolinas as there is between here and Massachusetts.

The local colleges appear to be unusually well fortified with pitching talent. Georgetown has Hyman, who has not started as yet; Reynolds, Jenkins, Schmidt, and McCarthy. Catholic University is using Clark Deschamps, and Jackson. Maryland has Nisbet and Chichester as the most dependable of its pitchers.

There is a considerable flurry in track activities at Georgetown with the Penn State College dual meet coming next Tuesday. The Hill-toppers will find Coach Bill Martin's team with any number of first-class performers.

Shields, Barron, Hile, Smith, and others of the Penn State team are sure to gain their fair share of wins in the coming engagements, which are expected to be up to a high standard.

Georgetown here in a dual meet several seasons ago. The meet was originally scheduled for April 12, but was shoved one day ahead on account of the opening of the American League season.

University of Maryland track and field men are down to energetic preparation for the opening of their spring season April 15, when they will be host to West Virginia in a dual meet. A determined effort is being made this year by H. C. Byrd, director of athletics, to develop a formidable track and field team, or at least lay a solid foundation for the future of Maryland's former prestige in the sport.

It appears that the hopes of Byrd, who is personally coaching the squad, will be realized in no uncertain manner. Considerable preparation has been shown in the indoor meets. Maryland followers expect their representatives to show even stronger in the spring campaign, since it is believed that Camp Brewer, former national 100-yard dash champion, and a number of others will have rounded into form.

Besides the Washington and Lee engagement, Maryland's most important meet is the intercollegiate quadrangular meet in Washington, April 22, and in the Penn relays, April 28-29.

Of course, it is early season track dope, but George F. Green, Western High School, is unusually interested in the intercollegiate, and is picking Cornell to win because three of his former athletes are on Jack Moseley's squad. Incidentally, Cornell has won four legs on the present intercollegiate cup, and if Cornell wins this year will have permanent possession—the second cup, by the way.

Cornell has done exceptionally well indoors this season and with Jack Moseley's handling and the return of Kimball will probably step to the front.

When Green was at Princeton Prep Dave Kimball was among his track men along with Ned Couinlocks. Crawford Carter was also one of Green's stars while he was here at St. Albans several years ago.

Carter is being touted as the intercollegiate 880 champion this year while Kimball, if he recovers from a strained tendon is expected to be the favorite in the hurdles.

The Westerner is also figuring the intercollegiate out with a fine hand at this time. Gouinlocks is doing twelve feet in the polevault and is also shot-putting. Each lead is expected to do his bit toward landing the title for Cornell. Naturally Green is interested.

CHEMISTRY PLAYERS TO MEET ZOOLOGISTS
The Chemistry A. C. will play the Bureau of Industry tomorrow at 5 p. m. on diamond No. 2, Monument Lot.

The following players are to report to Manager Haebler: Pettis, Hood, Noyse, Devlin, Penn, Hunter, Ashdown, Andrews, Schwenk, Honour, and Sorrell at 4:45 o'clock.

Teams desiring games in the sixteen to seventeen-year-old class should call C. E. HOOD, Main 4650, Br. 44.

There's a Million Ways to Make a Baseball Record Even if it's Only Busting an Umpire in the Snoot.

By KIRK MILLER.

BASEBALL is classed among incurable diseases by America's craziest alienists. People addicted to it are called bugs, germs or coed.

About the only town of prominence which isn't more or less afflicted with summer malady is Philadelphia. Game is only a rumor up there but Phils and A's are trying their best to confirm it.

One big idea in national indolence seems to be to make a record for something or other. Washington claims credit for having roomed left field and Chicago tears along boasting of largest home park.

Only logical that Yankees or Indians should buzz of the tallest flag pole or the loudest peanut venders. Anything at all is a record just so it's in the superlative mood with lots of nonsense.

Paraffin covered cake goes to Boston Red Sox for home-trading manager who ever bit a pewter nickle to see if it was bogus. Frazer isn't content unless he's getting the best of somebody and he's said to be the best-natured man in the world.

St. Louis has made its dent in the baseball crust by having the hottest weather and the best beer this side of prohibition. Neither one has much to do with the grand old game, but fans there want facts recorded in athletic guide for future reference.

Chicago has been a sort of dead weight in both leagues here of late but she wants notice taken of the same. In future years fans will point with pride to how really useless the Windy City was.

Detroit's only record to date is the fact that she never made any. But that is unique in itself and will provide the home squires with lots of indignation until something actually occurs to talk about.

Baseball! That's the game! No matter who you are, you're somebody.

GOLFERS WORK OUT TODAY IN WARM-UP PLAY

Great Field to Be Sent Off Tomorrow at Columbia Country Club in Tournament.

Pairings for tomorrow's tournament at Columbia Country Club, when the leading professionals of the country will compete for prize money, will be announced late today by George H. Chasmer, chairman of the green committee. A big field is working out at Columbia today.

The time of starting as well as the players who are to be paired off will be given out to the host of golf followers who are planning to take a day off tomorrow or Wednesday to watch the stars in action.

Columbia Country Club desires it known by all followers of the game that the tournament is free to the public. A cordial invitation is extended to all golfers as well as those interested to come out to the tournament, which will be a two-day affair, starting at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow morning.

Jim Barnes, Jack Hutchison, Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Alec Smith, Pat and Pete O'Hara, the Kerrigans, Willie Ogg, Pat MacDonald, Mike Brady, Gene Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood, Willard Reid—in fact, the entire string of the most famous players who competed at Pinehurst—are expected to tee off tomorrow.

The tournament will be almost a replica of the national opening. Practically the same field that started here last summer is scheduled to play, with the exception of the lesser light of goldfom.

Pat O'Hara, Richmond Country Club pro, winner of the North and South tournament at Pinehurst last Saturday, is the newest star. O'Hara made a great showing here last summer and for a while was among the leaders for the title.

RAY STARTS 1922 GOLF SEASON IN GOOD FORM
Ted Ray, the British golfer, who won the 1920 open championship of this country, has made a brilliant start for the season abroad. In a four-ball tournament at St. Albans, England, he and his amateur partner, E. W. Shearer, won with a best ball of 148, of which Ray's contribution in the afternoon was a 71, reduced to 69 by his partner's help.

In writing of Ray's play an eminent critic said: "His driving was more restrained, bringing with it a greater measure of accuracy. Of course, he was still hitting the ball indecently hard and a fearfully long way, and, although outdriving everybody else, the difference was not so marked as usual. Where his skill predominated was in the short-range pitches, from 120 yards downward." Harry Vardon and his partner, J. J. Hamilton, were far down the list with 169.

Caught on the Fly Before Griffmen Leave Camp

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 3.—The Griffmen now lead the Braves with five victories to two, and they mean to win just as many as they possibly can next week in the Carolinas. In the seven games played to date, the Griffs have scored forty-five runs to twenty-seven for the National Leaguers.

Robby LaMotte handled eight assists and four putouts without semblance of an error. One or two of the grounders shot his way were mean ones, too, but he never stumbled.

Goose Goslin played an atrocious game in right field, twice coming in for drives high over his head and being obliged to chase them to the fence. His one hit was a bad bouncer at Boeckel in the first inning. On his second try he sacrificed, and was called out on strikes the next time. He drew a pass in the eighth.

Hank Shanks made a fine play on Powell's line drive in the fifth, going up into the air for the ball. That bit was loudly applauded.

Boeckel and Holke combined to pull off the best fielding play of the day against Goebel in the fifth. Boeckel raced over in front of Kopf, picked up a bad bouncer perfectly, and threw while off balance. Holke went up into the air and came down with the ball on the bag in time to head off the speedy Goebel.

PATTERSON WON'T PLAY FOR ENGLISH NET TITLE
LONDON, April 3.—English tennis enthusiasts, who were greatly disappointed to learn that William Tilden 2d did not intend to defend his title at Wimbledon this year, are in a deeper gloom today because of a cable from Australia stating that Gerald Patterson, the 1913 champion, plans to go direct to America to represent Australia in the Davis Cup matches, and consequently cannot appear in England this summer.

Norton, the South African, now rules favorite for the English championship. He was within a stroke of the title in his match against the famous Tilden last year.

PATTERSON IS OUT OF DAVIS CUP MATCHES
LONDON, April 3.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Melbourne says that several of Australia's best men who were expected to compete in the Davis Cup tennis matches will be prevented from doing so.

Business considerations, the dispatch adds, will make the attendance of Gerald L. Patterson, former world champion, impossible, while J. C. Anderson is not certain as to whether he will be able to play.

CAPITAL RING STARS TO FIGHT IN BALTIMORE

Tonight's Program Well Balanced, Despite Change in Main Attraction.

The mere failure of George Chaney and Shamus O'Brien to appear in the star attraction of the National Athletic Club's boxing show, in Baltimore, tonight, has not prevented the management from securing two other pugilists to fill their places in order not to disappoint patrons at the Playhouse Theater.

Tony Caponi will step into the ring with Frankie Rice to battle twelve rounds or less to a decision. The visitor is not what might be termed a first-class lightweight, but he has met a number of promising boys, such as Freddie Jacks, Dick Loadman, Andy Thomas, Kid Coster, Johnny Demmie, and Al Shubert.

Rice's last battle was with Willie Jackson in Philadelphia last week. The local lad found him too tough a man to beat, but stuck out the distance of eight rounds. His previous contest was with Johnny Dundee.

O'Brien go can get their money back. The bouts tonight will be staged at the Playhouse, Baltimore.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY SHINES AT TRAPS
A seventeen-year-old boy, Luverne Jenkinson, of Siltton, Iowa, looms up as one of the most promising of the younger set in trapshooting. He did not participate in many tournaments last year, so the records divulge little about his prowess with the scatter gun, but in the few events in which he was participant he showed to marked advantage. In one tournament last year, young Jenkinson broke 441 targets out of 464 for an average of better than 95 per cent. Later he shattered 62 out of 64, 143 out of 150, 47 out of 50 from twenty-two yards, and 189 out of 200.

Subsequently Jenkinson won the junior trapshooting championship of Kansas by breaking 191 out of 200. He broke 99 targets from 17 yards in the Iowa State handicap event and won it. It looks as though Jimmy Bonner, Elmer Herold, George Miller and the other boy wonders will have to keep their guns well cleaned this summer. Herold won the junior national championship last season. Bonner is a former Western boy who now resides in New York.

PROTEST PERSHING FIELD AS SITE FOR OLYMPIC MEET

NEW YORK, April 3.—The decision of the French Olympic committee to hold the 1924 classic at Pershing Stadium has caused no end of discussion. All over the country protests have been raised. Athletic followers in England, Sweden, Italy, as well as in France, are not a bit backward in expressing their disfavor with the selection of a site.

Local athletes and Amateur Athletic Union officials who know the unfavorable conditions at Pershing Stadium were greatly disappointed over France's decision to hold the world championships there. Prominent members of the American Olympic committee say that unless the running track and athletic field are rebuilt it will be impossible to hold such important games in the stadium.

The French Olympic committee, according to the best authority, were much against holding the Olympic games at Pershing Stadium, but had no choice in the matter because the government officials favored it. Had the French committee taken a different stand, the games would have been lost to France.

Jim Duncan, formerly of the Monhawk Athletic Club, who is now in Paris, is authority for the statement that Pershing Stadium and athletic field were built in six weeks by the American engineers for the inter-allied games held in 1919.

The construction of a stadium of similar size if properly done would take eighteen months. Duncan further states that it will cost as much to put the track and stadium into good condition for the games as it would to build a new field.

Dan Ferris, secretary to Secretary Fred W. Rubien, of the American Olympic committee, said: "The selection of Pershing Field is being criticized by athletes. Not one of them who has been on the other side is in favor of that stadium for the Olympics. The construction of the track is faulty and experts claim that unless the track, jumping pits and runways are torn up and rebuilt the 1924 Olympic meet will be a farce."

Never before in the history of amateur boxing has there been so much interest manifested in a tournament as is being shown in the coming national championship which will be held in Boston on April 17 and 18. During the past three months many stars have been turned out and not a few of these will battle for the highest A. A. U. honors. The Metropolitan Association has selected thirteen men to go to Boston. It is the most formidable amateur boxing team that ever invaded a city for a similar contest. The boys selected for the team are:

Charles McKenna, Frank Koerber, Bunny Feeny, Andrew Lake, Herman Rosenblum, Albert Folio, Jack Rosenberg, Lefty Powell, Sid Terris, Francis Lattimer, Nick Quagheili and Irving Falkenstein. The boys will be accompanied on their trip by John P. Boyle, chairman of the Metropolitan Association Boxing Committee, and Ben Levine manager.

Reports from the training quarters of the New York Athletic Club are to the effect that Bernie Wefers, Jr., will listen carefully to the advice of his dad and take a much needed rest before starting to train for the outdoor titles for 75, 100, 220 and 300 yards this summer.

Unusual interest is displayed by the gymnasts throughout the country in the National A. A. U. championships to be conducted under the auspices of the New York Athletic Club in the auditorium of the Mercury Hotel, No. 53 West Fifty-eighth street, on Friday evening, April 21. Entries close on April 21.

The events that will be contested are the flying rings, parallel bars, side horse, long horse, horizontal bar, Indian club, swinging, rope climbing, tumbling, and all-round championship.

The latter competition will consist of exhibitions on the horizontal bar, parallel bars, side horse, long horse and flying rings. In this event the competitors shall also perform one free calisthenic exercise without apparatus, and of not more than two minutes' duration.

A plaque will be awarded to the club or college scoring the highest number of points.

ATHLETICS FAIL TO HURT STUDENTS IN N. Y. COLLEGE
NEW YORK, April 3.—Athletics and kindred undergraduate activities have not had a noticeable injurious effect on the scholastic standing of students at New York University, according to figures compiled by Dean A. L. Bouton, head of the College of Arts and Pure Sciences. In a number of specified instances pointed out by Dean Bouton, members of different athletic teams have exceptionally high standing in their classes.

This is true of Jack Weinheimer for two years captain of the football team, who has not received a condition in any study during his four years in the university. Bonner, another member of the football team, is among the best mathematicians at N. Y. U.; Capt. Goeller, of the basketball team, ranks high as a student, and the same is true of Bierce, basketball center, who also played on the football team, and is editor of one of the college papers.

Of the twenty-seven men of highest standing among the 267 undergraduate students are officially represented in one or more of the chief undergraduate activities. Of these eleven, six were in athletics, three in publication, and two in musical and debating clubs.

Charles Jeffries is credited with a no-hit performance on the mound for the Liberty A. C., which shut out the Riggs team, 12 to 0. Jeffries fanned twelve and walked one. Every Liberty player made at least one hit, the team totaling twenty.

Ray Brengle showed his class as a pitcher when the new Independents trimmed St. Teresa, 7 to 6. Ray fanned sixteen. It was a scoreless game for seven innings. McDonald pitched well for St. Teresa.

Bob McCartee knocked two homers with the bases full for the Linworths, starting the season in an auspicious way to say the least.

Mrs. Rock looked ill when the Parks scored four runs in the first inning, but the Linworths came back in their turn and scored thirteen. Final score, 34 to 7.

Friendship A. C. walloped the Filipinos 19 to 6. The Filipino club will award medals to the three players on its team doing the best work throughout the season.

Joe Kearney claims he has the best team that ever represented the Knickerbockers and the victory, 21 to 11, over the Brookmotts, would seem to bear him out.

Warwick A. C., which had one of the best midget teams in town last season, is off to a fine start with a 15-to-1 win over the Langdon Cubs. Bennie allowed the Cubs four hits and made three himself, as did Zier.

Danny Finnegan fanned fifteen in pitching the Orioles to an 8-to-5 victory over the Otis A. C.

The Postal team, which is after the Western Union's hide in the Commercial League, trimmed the Nominl team 5 to 3. Herlinger helped with a triple and double and his teammate, Dickerton, had a perfect day with four bingles, one a double.

Perry A. C. has two straight to its credit now. Bertton A. C. was beaten in a triple and double and Tom Connor for Perry and Keele for Connor were the best players.

Barrett A. C. opened its season with a double victory, trimming the Otis and the Diamonds to one bingle.

Bob Fowler to Train THE BRAZILIAN NAVY

BOSTON, April 3.—Robert A. Fowler, a leading New England athletic trainer and former Marathon runner, has been appointed trainer of the Brazilian navy and will set to assume his new duties on April 13. Fowler has an athletic record of long standing. His first came into prominence in 1907 when he ran second to Tom Longboat in the race which enabled the Onondaga Indian to set a new Boston A. A. marathon record.
