REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR, WILLIAM E. STEVENSON, Of Wood County. SECRETARY OF THE STATE, JAMES M. PIPES, Of Marshall County. JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF APPEALS, JAMES H. BROWN, Of Kanawha County. FOR CONGRESS—FIRST DISTRICT, NATHAN G. GOFF, JR., Of Harrison County. FOR CONGRESS—SECOND DISTRICT, JAMES C. MCGREW, Of Preston County.

Persons leaving the City during the summer can have the Intelligencer mailed to their address by ordering the same at this office. Terms—fifteen cents per week.

Let General Davis or Harris announce themselves as such independent candidates, and they will receive the votes of all those who desire the means by which the nomination of Gen. Goff was attained. We do not consider that nomination binding upon any true Republican.

We regret to see such very bad counsel coming from our friend of the Times. It is the duty of every true Republican to sustain the nominees of the Republican Convention, and to work zealously for their election. We do not believe that General Duval or Harris can be induced to announce themselves as independent candidates. Such a course of action on the part of either of these gentlemen, both well known and honorable Republicans, would be suicidal.

General Goff received the nomination of the convention, whether that nomination was received by fair or unfair means, it will avail nothing now to discuss. His friends claim that his nomination was fairly and honestly secured. This much is certain, General Goff has been a consistent Republican, served faithfully as a soldier during the war, and will make a faithful Republican representative. In saying this much for General Goff, we do not mean to be understood as reflecting in any manner upon General Duval or Harris, whose services as soldiers in the war, and as Republicans since its close, compare favorably with those of General Goff.

General Duval has made a faithful and able representative in Congress, and should be able to receive the nomination of the convention, he would have been heartily supported by all the Republicans of this District.

We have a single remark to make concerning the foregoing. The editor of the Union has of course no personal knowledge whether this "state cry of unfair means in the Convention of this district is true or not. We can assure him the only foundation there has ever been for it has been fairly stated in our columns, viz: that on the second ballot some of the delegations changed their votes from Gen. HARRIS to Gen. Goff, before the whole vote was cast, as they had a perfect right to do. Under the rules of the House of Delegates, which were adopted for the government of the Convention, any delegate had a right to change his vote any time before the vote was announced.

All who were present know, and those who were not might have learned from our report of the Convention, the correctness of which has not been challenged anywhere, that the charge of "chiseling" was made by Gen. HARRIS under a misapprehension of facts, and under the impulse of a great excitement. It was fully refuted in the Convention. We have not at any time reflected on Gen. HARRIS or his friends for their course in the Convention, because it arose from their misapprehension of facts and of the rights of delegates under the rules, and because, discovering the momentary error of his "bolt," the General came back into the Convention and declared his honorable purpose to abide the result of another ballot, which decided the result without a single objection of unfairness in any quarter.

We would only remind the Parkersburg Times that it had better not press this cry of "trickery" too far, or it might become necessary to show how some of the county delegations—Marshall county for example, which voted solid every ballot for Gen. HARRIS—were made up.

But in regard to the Times and its course, we have already fully set forth what we believe to be the truth, and so far from finding we have been in any particular mistaken, we only find confirmation at every point. Our friends outside the district need have no apprehensions of the result. Gen. Goff will receive, as we are assured from all quarters, the cordial support of the whole party in every county of the district, and he is certainly just as worthy of it, and just as much entitled to it, as any candidate on the ticket.

BECAUSE Congress refuses to permit the naturalization of Chinese, the Register is much grieved, and thinks "This shows the baseness of the Radical party, and the ruinous character of all their revolutionary laws." There's political wisdom and logical ratiocination for you! Besides, if Congress had permitted the Chinese to become citizens, the Register would have denounced it as a surrender of the country, the "white man's government," and the "ruling race" to the mongrel "hoards" of Asia. We should never have heard the last of it. How very hard our neighbor is to please!

Our Government has been notified that Prince LEOPOLD, of Hohenzollern, accepts the proffer of the Spanish crown, and nothing remains to be done but to get the assent of the Cortes.

THE APPREHENDED WAR IN EUROPE.

Its Effect on Credit and Finance. From the N. Y. Financial Spectator. A week's alarm has been excited this week by the threatened disagreement between Prussia and France, concerning the Spanish succession. Prim, the military dictator of Spain, has invited the Prince Leopold, of Hohenzollern, a member and dependent of the royal house of Prussia, to the throne of the Cortes; Prussia is understood to approve the selection, it has not been suggested and managed entirely by Bismarck; and on Wednesday the French government announced, in the Corps Legislatif, that France would never consent to a Prussian prince take his seat on the throne of Charles V. Of course, if Spain should persist in the choice of Leopold, and if Prussia should "support him," as a note from Berlin said to have been received at Paris on Thursday evening promises to do, the result can scarcely be other than war.

The declaration of the French government professed an immediate excitement on the Paris bourse, and rentes which had already declined one per cent, had a further fall of about the same amount. In London and in New York the effect was less marked. Gold advanced about one cent on the news, but almost immediately declined to its former point. In short the markets have shown very little sensitiveness under the sudden alarm, and it may be confidently asserted that capitalists and financiers, at least, do not believe that war is impending.

The question, however, appears to hang entirely upon the action of the Cortes, which is to assemble for a decision on the 20th of July. Three-fourths of all the votes are required to constitute a king, and it is plausibly asserted by many that no such majority can be obtained, against the decided protest of Napoleon III, whom the Spaniards well know to be able to outvote Madrid and scatter their government long before any other power could interfere. Even if Prussia were in perfect accord with her, it seems impossible that Spain should consent to be exposed to such a shock and injury as no apparent gain in view, except to gratify the ambition of a German family. On the other hand, it is said that the nomination of Leopold cannot be a hasty step; it must have been planned deliberately between Prussia and the present military commanders in Spain, and they would not have gone so far without being prepared for Napoleon's opposition and willing to meet its consequences. If so, a general European war will be laid in prospect to avoid. At present, however, the probability seems decidedly to be that the Cortes will reject Leopold, graciously yielding to the protest of Napoleon, and that Prim will acquiesce in the decision. This explanation justifies the calm which reigns in the affair; it is regarded in financial circles.

But war is certainly possible upon this issue; and if this is settled peacefully, another may arise at any time which will bring France and Prussia into collision. The Emperor Napoleon is now strong both politically, in the respect of the support of seven millions of citizens approving his course, and in his army, the largest and best appointed in Europe. Prussia is constantly struggling to obtain the same control over the South German States that she already has over Saxony and Hanover, and it is not probable that France will quietly look on and see the absorption of Baden and Bavaria. The French press, even that of the opposition, is more ready to blame the Emperor for excess of caution than for boldness; and it would seem that popular sentiment in France would even now be heartily with him in any effort to check Prussia against the absorption of her provinces. What would be the effect of a struggle upon the United States?

A few years ago, when our credit and resources were seriously impaired by a war in which investments in our securities were regarded by European capitalists as a speculative experiment, a general European war was dreaded here as likely to confuse and embarrass our finances. In 1860 gold was below 130 during the first half of May, but on the breaking out of war between Prussia and Austria, rose rapidly until it reached 160 in the middle of June. Had the war continued as long as a struggle between such equally matched nations as France and North-Germany might be expected to last, the advance in the premium could hardly have been checked at this point. But those who expect a similar result from a war in Europe at this time are drawing a parallelism of circumstances which does not exist.

The changes which have taken place in the financial and commercial situation since 1860 render it quite impossible for any events in Europe to produce such a gold panic as then occurred. The vast accumulations of idle capital which have been gathered in London and Paris during the last four years are a breakwater to us against any important demand for specie, such as then arose in those markets, for years to come. Then our securities were held on speculation, while they are now a favorite investment; and the slightest alarm, threatening an unsettled state of affairs in Europe, is sufficient to send them home, while then the resources and spirit of our country are so much better understood that such an alarm would rather tend to sustain our bonds, in preference to those of governments threatened with war. Besides, a succession of bountiful crops of cotton, wheat and other crops of cotton, have filled and will continue to supply our warehouses and stores with food and with clothing material, at low prices; prices at which they can be exported in large amounts, and Europe will need these things, and will take them instead of selling their gold, as in 1860, when we had no gold to sell.

It is indeed true that, in modern Christianized nations, are so linked together in all their interests that no one of them can be impoverished without, at least remotely, injuring the others; and doubtless the whole world, including our own country, would be poorer in the end if Europe should be desolated by war. But beyond this remote and general effect, the United States are now in a position to regard diplomatic and military complications in Europe with a reasonable degree of indifference; and there has been no need for many years, then the prospect of a war between great powers, there could have caused so little alarm or anxiety here as now.

We suppose even Mr. Dana of the New York Sun can see now, in the present aspect of affairs in Europe, that this country may congratulate itself that the effort to involve the United States in an entangling alliance with the Cuban insurrection and in consequent hostilities with Spain, was not successful. Free from all foreign complications as we now are, a war in Europe, whatever it may be there, would be anything but a calamity to the United States. But if we had succeeded in provoking a war with Spain, it might, through European alliances, have seriously involved us. As it is, we can stand off and look on with comparative indifference—indeed, with a sort of comfort in the idea that since offences must come, so long as they come on the other side of the Atlantic it only means good markets and lively times for us on this side.

Napoleon's German Cousins.

Prince Leopold Etienne Charles Antoine Gustave Edward Thassilo of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen is the son of Prince Charles Antoine Joachim Zephyrin Francois Malinard, hereditary prince of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, formerly a little principality containing forty-five thousand people, in several detached districts, lying on and near the northern part of the boundary between Baden and Wurttemberg, but annexed to Prussia in 1849, when Prince Charles abdicated. This old principality is now a "prince royal of the Kingdom of Prussia."

The wife of Prince Charles, the mother of Leopold, was Josephine Frederique Louise, daughter of Charles Louis Frederic, Grand Duke of Baden, and his wife Eleonora Louise, daughter of the late Emperor of Austria. WALTHAM WATCHES! The extensive use of these watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch.

More than 450,000 of these watches are now speaking for themselves in the pockets of the people—a proof and guarantee of their superiority over all others.

The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enable them to produce watches at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch, merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent more for their watches than is necessary.

These time-pieces combine every improvement that a long experience has proved of real practical use. Having had the advantage of nearly every invention in watchmaking originating in this country or in Europe, only those were finally adopted which were tested by the most skillful artisans in our works, and long use on the part of the public, demonstrated to be essential to correct and enduring time-keeping.

The invention and use of a centre-pinion of peculiar construction, to prevent damage to the train by the breakage of main springs, a original with the American Watch Company, who, having had the refusal of all other contrivances, adopted Fogg's Patent pinion as being the best and simplest.

Hardened and tempered hair springs, now universally admitted by watchmakers to be the best, are used in all grades of Waltham Watches.

All Waltham Watches have dust-proof caps, protecting the movements from dust and lessening the necessity of the frequent cleaning necessary in other watches.

Our new patent stem-wind, or keyless watch is already a decided success and a great improvement on any stem-winding watch in the American market, and by far the cheapest watch of its quality now offered to the public.
