Death of a Former Editor. A. S. TROWBRIDGE, formerly proprietor and editor of the Wheeling Press, died last evening at his residence in this city after a lingering illness, in the fifty-seventh year of his age.

Mr. Trowbridge was a native of Delaware county, New York, was thrown on his resources when young, and spent several years surveying in Michigan. Subsequently he spent some time teaching in Mississippi, and still later published a weekly paper in Indiana. He afterwards settled at Romney, Va., and published a paper there called the Virginia Opus. He here married a lady of excellent family and accomplishments. Not long before the war he removed to Piedmont and established the Piedmont Independent. The disturbances occasioned by the breaking out of the war compelled him to suspend, and taking the Union side of the controversy he was obliged to leave that section, and came to this city as a fugitive early in the summer of 1861, just about ten years ago.

Soon after he joined with Mr. O. D. Downey, a prominent Unionist of Piedmont, then a member of the "June Convention," in purchasing the Union newspaper, previously published by P. H. Moore & Co., but then suspended, and on its ruins established The Wheeling Press. Not long thereafter he was chosen State Printer by the Legislature of the reorganized Government of Virginia. A couple of years later he sold the Press to Hon. JOHN S. CARLILE, and at a later period carried on a job printing office and sundry on Monroe street, and started a little evening paper called the Commercial. This latter venture was not successful; and failing health obliged him to relinquish the job printing business, which he did about three years and a half ago. After this, as health permitted, he did occasional work on the Register as local editor and reporter in attendance on the sessions of the Legislature. About the fall of 1868 he was obliged to relinquish work altogether, and from that time his health gradually and steadily declined.

The deceased was an amiable and estimable man; just and kind in all the relations of life, liked and respected by all who knew him. He had been for several years a devoted member of the Catholic Church and died a pious death, in full possession of his faculties and with a serene faith in the future life. He leaves an interesting very family, who have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

EXTRAORDINARY CRIME BY POISONING.

A Woman Murders Three Infants and Two Small Children. New York, July 1. Mrs. Lydia Sherman was arrested at New Brunswick, New Jersey, yesterday by officers from Connecticut, who charged her with having poisoned at different times three husbands and two step children, offspring of her last husband by previous marriage. She has been taken to New Haven for examination. The statements of the officers leave no doubt that the woman is guilty of one of the most startling and sensational crimes that have ever been committed in this part of the country. On being charged with the crimes she manifested a surprise either real or very well assumed; she gave no appearance of guilt, and beyond a simple surprise and assertion her innocence did not seem to be at all affected. This woman married a German man nearly ten years ago and after being with him three years he died suddenly and under circumstances which occasioned considerable comment. The second husband married in the State of Connecticut and died under equally suspicious circumstances; but as nothing was then known of the woman's mysterious, no notice was taken of the first husband's death. In 1870, she married Nelson H. Sherman, a widow with two children, one six and the other fifteen years old, within nine months these three died, all under the same unaccountable circumstances. After the death of the oldest child, which occurred last, Mrs. Sherman went to New Brunswick to visit and sent also to Philadelphia. Immediately after she had left Derby and succeeding the death of the child, the friends of Mr. Sherman took steps to investigate the matter, and to that end had the body of Mr. Sherman, and those of the two children examined. The officers who came to make the examination, and who sent a certificate of poison was found upon all three of the bodies—that it was plain seen in the stomach of the last buried one. They also state that they have been able to fix upon the alleged murderer the purchase of poison similar to that of which traces were found. The poison was vegetable and of an unusual character, the officers being unable to give its name.

Catholic Trouble at Hudson, N. Y.

Hudson, N. Y., July 1. The excitement at the Catholic Church in this city has increased to-day. This morning the members of the parish, to the number of 300, gathered around the church entrance. Father O'Sullivan, accompanied by Father Moriarty, made their appearance to celebrate mass at the usual hour, when they were denied admittance, and threatened with violence if they made an attempt to enter. Father O'Sullivan took the names of those present, and said he had orders from the Bishop to excommunicate them. The announcement was received with shouts of derision, and the Fathers then retired. The members of the church were determined, and say they will resist the priests at all hazards until their grievances, of which they complain, are rectified. No violence has taken place, but the people in the vicinity of the church are very much excited. Should the priests gain an entrance to the church by strategy, as they threaten, it is feared the building will be demolished over their heads, for the parishes are firm and desperate, although very cool and orderly.

THE SOUTHERN INVESTIGATION. The Ku-Klux Investigating Committee to-day examined several witnesses, among them E. Harris, a young colored man, who rents and works a piece of land in Chatham county, North Carolina. He testified that just before last Christmas a party of white men visited his neighborhood and took away his ox and other negroes' goods. A short time after a band of disguised persons, whom he believed to be Ku-Klux, came to his house at night and called on him to open his doors. He refused, and at once barricaded all means of entrance, except one window, which was forced open, and they began to fire on him, his wife and six children being with him. Returning their fire, he shot one in the breast and another in the eye, and while reloading, his wife called out loudly for a mythical five-shooter, whereupon the Ku-Klux withdrew. He swore he knew of no assignable reason for this attack, having done nothing to provoke it, unless it was to vote in the Republican ticket. He had now concluded not to vote no more. Capt. THE REPORTED LAND TITLE EXCITEMENT IN IOWA.

As ascertained on inquiry at the General Land Office, there is no sufficient grounds for the reported excitement in Hartin and Shelby counties, Iowa, growing out of the announcement that the title of the Chicago & Rock Island Railroad Company in that section is defective, and consequently the lands open to homestead and pre-emption settlements are erroneous. The impression in regard to these lands seems to be based on a misunderstanding of the decision of the Secretary of the Interior rendered last month, applying only to some twenty-one homesteads. The entries in Andonob and Shelby counties, which, although allowed by the local land offices a number of years ago under a misconstruction of the acts of 1864 and 1865, permitted by the Secretary of the Interior, is a matter of equity to stand.
