

The Daily Intelligencer, PUBLISHED BY FREW, HAGANS & HALL, 15 Quincey Street.

The Intelligencer, The Phenological Journal for October contains our approval for the variety and quality of its interesting contents.

We learn from the N. Y. Spirit of the Times that the reason why the Greeley men did not carry Vermont and Maine was because, on the whole, they did not think it best, they rather did not want to be encumbered with the aid of such abandoned regions.

A New Story from the Dutch—The number of Little's Living Age for week ending September 21st is begun with a new serial story—"The Burgomaster's Family," translated from the Dutch of Charles Miller, by Sir John Shaw Lee.

The number for September 21st also contains the usual amount and variety of the most instructive and interesting reading to be found in the whole range of foreign periodical literature of the day.

Becher at the White Mountains. A correspondent of the Merrimack Journal, writing from the Twin Mountain House, mentions the following incidents of Henry Ward Becher's stay at that resort.

The Greeley Movement Illogical. The Greeley movement is illogical in its pretence of a superior desire for reconciliation. This pretence assumes that the dominant party has been unforbearing and vindictive; whereas, the truth is that the Republican masses have been logging and magnanimous, while their party policy has restored every rebellious community to all its rights and privileges.

The Beginning of the End.—Add as another item to the cost of the New Constitution the expense of a special election for the purpose of calling a convention for a five months session of the new Legislature with its increase of eleven members and additional officers and the increased pay of all the members from $4 to $1 per day, and our people will begin to realize that it is a costly pastime to make new Constitutions.

MEMPHIS. "The average talent of the Judiciary of this State has been vastly improved by this new deal."—Washington Register.

MEMPHIS. "Judge Evermont Ward is elected in the Cabell county circuit."—Charleston Journal.

MEMPHIS. "Judge Evermont Ward" is the proprietor of W. S. Ward's celebrated Magic Relief and Rich ointment, which he has peddled from a go-cart through the various towns in his judicial circuit.

WHEELING DAILY INTELLIGENCER, MONDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 23, 1872. VOL. XXI. WHEELING, W. VA., MONDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 23, 1872. NO. 25.

Newspaper Celebrities. A correspondent of the Springfield Republican gives the following gossip about some prominent newspaper celebrities of New York:

Mary L. Booth returned last week from a ten days' vacation, the first in five years, during which she visited the White Mountains and other intermediate localities. It is a prime principle of the Harpers never to delegate responsibility, and hence it is almost impossible for any one filling such an onerous position as Miss Booth to get away from her desk.

It is not desirable to win by a stampede, or to envelop in our broad and healthy net those regions of miasma where rampant prejudice cankers at a rate of ninety per cent, as in Vermont and Massachusetts.

SOUTH CAROLINA. CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 22.—A personal altercation occurred in a restaurant in Columbia last evening, between Montgomery, President of the State Senate, and Samuel Melton, regular Republican candidate for the office. John Caldwell and Major G. W. Morgan, two friends of Melton who interfered to separate the combatants, were shot. Caldwell was instantly killed, and Morgan but slightly wounded. The verdict of the coroner's jury charges George Tupper, a friend of Montgomery, with willful and malicious shooting. The Caldwell affair, owing to the social position of the participants, has caused much excitement. Caldwell is a brother-in-law to United States Senator Robinson, and Morgan a non-in-law of George D. Trenholm, late Secretary of the Confederate Treasury. The tragedy grew out of criticism and recrimination of a political nature.

Weather Report. WASHINGTON, D. C., September 23—7:30 P. M. PROBABILITY. For South Atlantic States, easterly to southerly winds, cloudy weather and probably areas of rain on Monday. For the Middle States, clear weather, except probably over the northern portion. For New England, southerly to easterly winds and generally clear weather. But very few of the reports from the Gulf to the Ohio Valley, and thence to the Upper Lakes and westward, have been received.
