The Character of Mary Stuart.
The career of the celebrated Queen of Scots was a tragedy in real life, in several memorable acts, such as a woman of Madame JANAUSCHEK's genius might well aspire to illustrate on the stage, and such as she certainly did personate with great power at the Opera House last evening. There is no female character in all history around which has been thrown so many dark and light shades by conflicting biographers as that of this unfortunate Queen. Of her the poet might well have said,
"Merry stole me at my birth,
And marked me for my own,"
for from her very earliest years down to her death she was the subject of intrigue, conspiracy and war. She was born Queen of Scotland, was betrothed in marriage to the heir of the English throne, to which she herself was nearly allied; was carried away to France at a tender age, and educated a Catholic, when her people were Protestants; was reared in the state-captivity of the celebrated Guise family, of which her mother was a member; was associated with the Court in which the infamous Catherine de Medici was a ruling spirit; was married and left a widow at an early age, and came back to Scotland as a ruler hated by England and great numbers of her own people. Thus began her career of misfortune, crime and misery. Did we not know her to have been a Stuart we might easily suspect her to be a Bourbon. There was an obliquity in her moral nature that was unmistakable at every stage of her career. She was a winning woman, but most unreliable; able in some respects, but very weak in others; highly educated and accomplished, but still a bigot, and as such dangerous to the peace of Europe, and especially to the quiet of England, to whose throne she laid claim to the very last.

This remarkable woman's career is not brought out historically in the great play performed by Madame JANAUSCHEK with such artistic skill last night. It is a play founded simply upon the closing scenes of her life, and is calculated to do injustice to the truth of history, to the character especially of Queen ELIZABETH, and to educate the public into an estimate of MARY that will not stand the test of criticism. Queen ELIZABETH appears to disadvantage in this most memorable episode of her reign. She herself had a prophetic conception of the general verdict that would follow the execution of MARY. It was a case of power on one side and helplessness on the other, and this is the way the story has been written up ever since by a great multitude of authors. But the real facts are that this romantic and tragic prisoner was a conspirator, and had been for many years, against ELIZABETH; that she was most unscrupulous in her machinations; that her private life was darkly shaded by complicity in the assassination of her second husband, and still further by an unnatural marriage with his murderer; and that there was good reason to believe that had she been set at liberty by Elizabeth she would have simply illustrated her former character anew at the first favorable opportunity. The most intelligent verdict of modern scrutiny into her career is that she was the architect of her own ruin. Had it not been for the plot discovered at the last moment it is not certain that ELIZABETH would ever have signed her death warrant. Finding her own nobles engaged in an intrigue for her rescue, especially the powerful and trusted Earl of Leicester, she confirmed the sentence of the court that had already found her guilty.

The character of MARY as delineated by SCHILLER is one that gives a great actress like Madame JANAUSCHEK decided opportunity to display her capacity for the tragic role. In this respect the closing scene in the Third act was unequalled. What could so well lift the character out of all common place as that interview with ELIZABETH. As has been well said, that interview even in the hands of an actress of any moderate abilities is sure to excite the enthusiasm of the audience, but with such a representative of the Scottish Queen as JANAUSCHEK it could not fail to move all who witnessed it most powerfully.

No one who heard her repeat these words at the close of that interview will be "Woe to you I when in time to come, the world shall read the toils of honor from your deeds, With which by such hypocrisy has veiled The genuine forms of lawless, resentful, Virtue was not your portion from your mother; Well you may say it was which brought the Of Anne Boleyn to the fatal block."

"A bastard's son!" Profanes the English throne! The generous Are Obedient to a fugitive! If right I err'd, you would not in the dust Betray me here, for I am Queen of England!"

The regular physicians of the County of New York have begun the work of prosecuting quacks under the new law, which places those gentry entirely in their hands. The public will, perhaps, be better off if the work shall be vigorously carried on, but the regular faculty is responsible for the success of the vendors of nostrums. If they had anything to do with the deceptions of the County of New York, they would be better off if the work shall be vigorously carried on, but the regular faculty is responsible for the success of the vendors of nostrums. Eight hundred men employed in certain collieries at Durham, England, threw down their tools, a few weeks ago, and demanded of the owners water to drink and decent houses to dwell in. They complained that they were in dirtiness and their families in sickness for the want of water to drink and cook with, and that, as acts of Parliament had no effect, they thought it high time to see what could be done by absenting themselves from work, and refusing to pay rent.

This elections in Ohio and Indiana have had an effect in Germany. Private advices from that country received in New York say there is considerable uneasiness there because of the deceptions of the County of New York, they would be better off if the work shall be vigorously carried on, but the regular faculty is responsible for the success of the vendors of nostrums.

Our friend J. W. Ferrell is again open for business, and will offer for the next six days the choicest goods at the lowest prices for cash. Those in want of goods who have the money to pay for them are absolutely certain of excellent bargains. He makes no concealment of the fact that the demands upon him for money compel him to sell goods even at a sacrifice, and those who appreciate good bargains now have an opportunity to secure the best in the market almost at their own figures. Give him a call.

The vote in Hardy is as follows: Congress, Boteler 324, Faulkner 393, Senate, McCool 340, Clayton 372. House of Delegates, Wanters, 270, Randolph 168, Marshall 236, Peas 34. C.

Our neighbor, Judge McKENNA, of Washington, Pa., while holding his U. S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia last week, pronounced a ruling in contradiction to what has heretofore been considered settled law. The case was a suit brought by the drawer of a check for $100 which had been raised to $2,100 by the drawee, to recover from the bank $2,000 improperly paid. Judge McKENNA charged the jury that if they believed from the testimony and from an inspection of the check, that there was nothing unusual in its appearance, nothing which would have been sufficient to put a careful person upon his guard, then they should find for the defendant; otherwise, their verdict should be for the plaintiff. The paying tellers of several banks having testified that there was nothing in the appearance of the check, as raised, to excite suspicion, the jury rendered a verdict for the bank.

The Massachusetts Republicans are not creating a great tidal wave of Republicanism, so to speak, by the nomination of such men as Butler and Saraparilla Ayer.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

BROOKING TO LEAVE—The leaves.

One year ago last Wednesday a heavy snow fell.

THREE members of the Board of Education will visit Steubenville and Pittsburgh for the purpose of examining the heating apparatus in the public buildings.

No one who heard her repeat these words at the close of that interview will be "Woe to you I when in time to come, the world shall read the toils of honor from your deeds, With which by such hypocrisy has veiled The genuine forms of lawless, resentful, Virtue was not your portion from your mother; Well you may say it was which brought the Of Anne Boleyn to the fatal block."

CIRCUIT COURT.

In this court yesterday no business was transacted of importance.

On motion of defendant's counsel, the case of the State vs. Tippet was continued until next term. Defendant was recognized in the sum of $1,000. The case was continued on account of sickness in defendant's family.

The case of State vs. Carman was continued to Nov. 5th, and the case of State vs. Ford to Nov. 6th.

Court adjourned about 11 A. M. until this morning at 9 o'clock.

THE INTELLIGENCER ON MONDAY MORNING last contained an account of the burning of Dawson's coal-shed, at Barnesville, on the previous day. As the item had not obtained that rip old age with which the readers of the evening paper are familiar, it was clipped from our columns by the scissors man of the Standard and carefully stowed away in a pigeon-hole until old enough for publication. By some means the item made its appearance in the Standard on Wednesday evening, when it should, according to the established custom of that journal, have remained in the pigeon-hole at least three days longer.

PERSONAL—Assistant Secretary of the Interior, B. R. Cowen and family are expected to visit friends in Belmont county during the present week.

Capt. J. T. Russell, of the steamer R. W. Skillinger, arrived in town yesterday from Cincinnati.

Wm. Dowden, a well known baggage master on the B. & O. Road, died at Cumberland on Monday night.

The Pittsburgh Commercial of yesterday contained the following item:

A West Virginia lawyer based his claim to a seat in the Legislature upon the fact that he passed two years in the poor house when a boy. He got it.

Mr. Sprigg Lynn, of Idaho, a former proprietor of the old Island Foundry, is in town visiting friends.

Col. Robert Blair, of Ritchie county, is stopping at the St. James.

R. O. Brooks, Esq, formerly of this county, but now in the newspaper business in Missouri, was in the city yesterday.

Sheriff Cochran, of Belmont county, attended the court yesterday.

Madame Janauschek is a guest at the McLure. The company supporting her are stopping at the Grant and McLure.

At the Christian Missionary Convention, held in Cincinnati this week, Prof. W. K. Pendleton, of Bethany College, read a very lengthy address. The delegate to the Convention from this State was George P. Slade. Prof. Pendleton's name appears in a report of the meeting as a life Director of the Convention, and A. E. Myers, of West Liberty, as a life member. Mr. Myers was appointed upon a committee to which the report of the Board of Managers for the past year was referred.

MADAME JANAUSCHKE will return to Wheeling some time before the close of the season.

Masonic Appointments.

COLUMBUS, O., October 22.—At the closing session of the Masonic Grand Lodge to day the following brethren were reappointed to the offices attached to their names: William Cunningham, R. W. St. Grand Deacon; Edwin Merrill, Columbus, W. J. Grand Orator; A. G. Byers, Columbus, R. W. Grand Chaplain; Apollo M. Ross, Cincinnati, R. W. Grand Marshal; James E. Stewart, Springfield, R. W. St. Grand Deacon; Edwin Merrill, Columbus, W. J. Grand Deacon; Jacob Randall, Grand Tyler. The officers of the Grand Lodge, were then duly installed by Lucius V. Pierce. There has been no question of moment presented to the Grand Lodge, but the session has been one of harmony and unanimity among the brethren.

Board of Trade Resolution.

QUINCE, October 23.—At a special meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade of Levis the following resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved, That this Council, after hearing the explanation by Wm. Sewell on the possibility of the navigation of the Gulf and St. Lawrence from Quebec to the sea during the winter months, believe that navigation can be accomplished by steam with comparative ease and safety. The Council therefore trust that the Dominion Government will take the question into serious consideration.

Indian Affairs.

STROUX CITY, October 23.—James Baden who was reported mortally wounded in the recent fight with the Indians at Running Water was brought into Fort Handal to-day, and is in a fair way to recover.

Various rumors reach here that the parties supposed to be on route to the Black Hills are coming in contact with the Indians, but can be traced to no reliable source.

Bishop Hare, Missionary Bishop to the various Indian tribes located on the Missouri River above here, is prominently mentioned by his friends as the new Bishop for the Diocese.

George Q. Cannon.

SALT LAKE, October 23.—As regards the indictment of George Q. Cannon, Congressional Delegate, for isoviscous cubitahid under the territorial statutes, it is claimed that the court dare not indict him under the polygamy act of Congress, passed in 1852, because the United States statute of limitations bars all such prosecutions, and the Poland bill would allow a writ of error to the Supreme Court, whereas prosecution under the territorial law would not admit of such appeal. No more arrests have been made.

President Grant and Party.

PITTSBURGH, October 23.—President Grant and party arrived at four o'clock this afternoon by a special train from Cleveland. They will remain at the Monongahela House till to-morrow morning, when they will leave for Washington by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad. The President is accompanied by Mr. Grant, Secretary Borie, wife and daughter, Major Babcock, and Alex. Sharpe.

BY TELEGRAPH.

ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.

WASHINGTON.

THE THIRD TERM.

WASHINGTON, October 23.—The National Republican, which has been advocating a third term for President Grant, says today that the Presidency during such a term would have but few attractions for him. It would confer on him no further or higher honor. There is no reason, therefore, to suppose he desires it. On the contrary, his natural tastes and inclinations are known to be in the direction of domestic quietude and privacy. These facts would make him appear ridiculous, should he come out with a pronouncement declining a nomination before his tender.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

Customs receipts for the week were as follows: Philadelphia, $1,913,535; Boston, $295,288; New York, $1,902,947; Baltimore, $95,655.

JURY EMpaneled.

The jury in the safe burglary case was empaneled today and is composed of seven white and five colored jurors.

CHICAGO.

REMOVED RESIGNATION.

CHICAGO, October 23.—It is rumored that J. J. Joy, President of the Michigan Central Railroad, has tendered his resignation and has gone to Boston to confer with the directors as to his successor.

The Inter Ocean says that the Grand Trunk proposes to make its outlet at Boston and the combined lines from that point to the Atlantic coast will be run out of Boston. We may be excepted to succumb, but the Grand Trunk people, but we don't believe it will be a hard fight, and later this combination will not be left for all the time. Suppose we give our business all to one company, could it resist the temptation? We think not. The strong probability is that we will not go in, we can get along and we are bound to make Boston our outlet and pay the local rates for the time being.

The domestic line of steamers now running out of Quebec are to run out of Boston and the Grand Trunk will thus make rapid through shipments, and is depending on no other company for the facilities.

FATON AND SWING.

In the Presbyterian Synod to-day Dr. Charles Elliott appointed an Assistant Counsel for Swing, with Dr. Frame. He was, he stated, opposed to the verdict of the jury. The reading of the report of the afternoon Dr. Patterson admitted his argument. He stated his reasons for bringing the case before the Synod, that the Presbyterian body had been guilty of five things, namely: Of hurrying to the decision of prejudice, irregularity, mistake and injustice. His speech lasted until the hour of adjournment. In the evening session he added an exhortation to the members of the Synod, urging them to remember what was involved in their decision and to act worthily of the trust reposed in them. Mr. Frame replied to the argument in a short and weak speech, in which he merely directed the attention of the Synod to the record of the proceedings which had been read in their hearing.
