The Attitude of the United States Senate.

The continuous two days' session of the Senate closed at three o'clock yesterday afternoon by the adoption of Thurman's resolution to discharge the Committee on Privileges and Elections from the further investigation of Butler's case, by a vote of 29 to 27.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, November 27. The reading of the testimony taken by the committee which visited South Carolina was continued at length at the request of Mr. Wade, who held the floor, yielding occasionally for motion for a recess or to adjourn, which were rejected.

At 3:45 A. M. all the seats on the Republican side of the Chamber were vacant.

Mr. Chandler raised the point that a quorum was not in the Chamber, and a call of the roll showed but 34 Senators present, less than a quorum.

During the call Mr. Mitchell said he had paired for the night with Mr. Merrimon, and if compelled to answer to roll call, he gave notice that he would break the pair on all other questions.

Mr. Whyte moved that the Sergeant-at-Arms be directed to request the attendance of the absent Senators. So ordered.

After a brief discussion the Vice President announced a motion to adjourn, and the vote resulted—yeas 4, nays 26.

No quorum voting, Mr. Whyte inquired if the Sergeant-at-Arms had executed the order of the Senate.

The Vice President reported that he had, but had no means to compel attendance.

Mr. Whyte called for the reading of the rule which provides that no Senator shall be absent without leave of the Senate, and gives the Sergeant-at-Arms power to compel the attendance of absent Senators.

Mr. Whyte—Does the Sergeant-at-Arms report that he has notified the absent Senators?

Mr. Wallace—Let him make his report in writing. We want the names of the Senators that the country may know them.

Mr. Conkling here entered, and objected to such a report, as nothing in the rules authorized him to do so, and that he had no means to compel attendance.

The Vice President directed the call of the roll, and thirty-seven Senators answering, a quorum was announced present.

A debate of an hour followed upon questions of order and what disposition should be made of the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms. Finally, upon motion of Mr. Edmunds, all further proceedings under the testimony could not be had.

At 5 o'clock Mr. Wade, who held the floor when the fact was developed, (no quorum was present) resumed it, and called for the continuation of the reading of the testimony taken by a committee of the Senate in South Carolina two years ago.

Mr. Thurman objected to the further reading of this testimony, and said it had been the usage of the Senate to allow a Senator to read almost anything as part of his speech, but that usage had never been abused until to-night.

Mr. Edmunds moved that the testimony be read without leave of the Senate, and demanded that the question of reading the testimony be submitted to the Senate.

Mr. Wade said that it was not a gross abuse to lay before the Senate evidence absolutely necessary to enable the Senate to judge of this case. He wanted to let the country know that in this Senate a party sought to seat a man whose record would not bear examining.

Mr. Bayard held that the testimony was taken, by the committee, long before any one had any idea that the present case would come before the Senate. For all just purposes of the case the Senator might as well have read Worcester's dictionary. When he (Bayard) first came into the Senate there were but nine Senators belonging to the party with which he acted. That had never attempted dilatory motions, but had they acted in the manner as he witnessed to-night, the majority would have put them down.

Mr. Edmunds asked if the Senator remembered along about 1850, when Jefferson Davis and some others occupied the Senate a whole night having messages of the President read.

Mr. Bayard said he didn't remember that time, though it may have happened.

Mr. Thurman withdrew his point of order, leaving it to the Senator from New Hampshire as to what testimony he would have read. Mr. Wadeigh had been arguing the facts in the South Carolina case, and said he could not help regarding this resolution as an attempt to carry by force of numbers that which could not be carried by an investigation.

At 5:45 Mr. Edmunds moved a recess until 11 o'clock. Rejected, yeas 23, nays 26.

Mr. Wadeigh resumed, said that he had selected no testimony to be read which did not bear directly upon the validity of the election in South Carolina.

At 4:15 Mr. Edmunds said it was now daylight and time for the Senators to have a little breakfast. He moved a recess until 10. Rejected, yeas 17, nays 20.

Mr. Paddock moved to adjourn. Rejected, yeas 19, nays 29.

He then moved that the Senate take a recess until 9. Rejected, yeas 16, nays 26.

Mr. Wadeigh continued to read from the volume of testimony, and at 7 o'clock, by his request, Mr. Edmunds took the book and read for him, to relieve that which had been on the floor since 10:30 last night.

Mr. Edmunds during the reading several times made humorous allusions to portions of the testimony in a personal manner, and Mr. Garland inquired who had the floor.

The Vice President replied that it was held by Mr. Wadeigh.

Mr. Garland—Then I object to the Senator from Vermont, interfering with the remarks into the testimony as he reads. He is the mere agent, clerk, mere fungus of the Senator from New Hampshire. [Laughter.]
