AN APPEAL FROM THE CHAIR.

Mr. Riley desired that a bill offered by the Judiciary Committee, to harmonize certain statutes with the recent constitutional amendments, taken up and read once by its title, might be read a second time, and in order to make this possible moved a suspension of the constitutional rule requiring the three readings of a bill to be on three several days. This motion prevailed by the requisite four-fifths majority, and the bill was read a second time. Mr. Riley held that the one suspension of the constitutional rule covered the third reading, and desired that the bill be read a third time forthwith.

The Speaker ruled that this could not be done without a second suspension of the rules, and from this ruling Mr. Riley appealed.

Mr. Hubbard and Mr. Morrow sided with Mr. Riley, while Judge Ferguson and Mr. Hall, of Barbour, supported the Speaker. The speaker called Mr. Hubbard to the chair, and made quite a warm argument in support of his ruling, saying that the contrary opinion was "without any shadow of logical basis." Mr. Morrow re-affirmed his position, as did also the mover of the appeal, the latter gentleman reading several precedents, showing that the interpretation had very commonly been given to the rule by former Speakers. Judge Ferguson moved an adjournment, in order to give all an opportunity to examine the question carefully, which motion prevailed, after some unimportant business.
