

The Intelligencer.

Office: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

An increased demand for whisky is reported. Yes, the political convention season has opened.

It will be interesting to hear what the Ohio Democrats have to say about the tariff and civil service reform.

A New York mother wants $20,000 from Mr. Keppeler for drawing an off-hand card on her child's face.

They say that our Steubenville friend, Brown, is the handsomest man on the ticket. And it isn't a bad-looking ticket.

SENATOR BECK says the Democratic party of to-day has no leader. It looks so, and perhaps that is why it never gets anywhere on time.

DR. INKESHELL is exhibiting certain peculiar symptoms which come along with warm weather. If they don't muzzle him he may make trouble.

Ohio Democrats seem to think they must have a Hamilton county man to face Foraker. Hostility is of Hamilton, and the nomination is looking towards him.

It is said that the Kentucky Republicans have got to fighting. The Republican party in Kentucky is not strong enough to stand the waste of internal strife. The same applies to West Virginia.

Mr. Tilden isn't for the "old ticket" that settles it, and, by the way, it is no wonder that he prefers another man than Hendricks for second place. Hendricks, it may have been observed, has given him hell.

The President is going to spend the greater part of the summer at the Soldiers' Home in the hope of getting away from the politicians. But the politicians won't take the hint. A man who can take a hint is a politician.

GOVERNOR BUTLER takes the lofty ground that the refusal of Harvard to LL. D. him will play job with that ancient and hitherto honorable institution of learning. The Governor is too hot. He forgets that he is playing the charlatan.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer weeps over the nomination of Judge Foraker, because he hasn't a national reputation and isn't running well in Washington. But if he runs well in Ohio that will serve the present purpose.

MR. JARRETT'S contemplated retirement from the head of the Amalgamated Association is not entirely unexpected. The Association will miss his cool, clear head, but it might easily do worse than to take the Vice President of the First District. Mr. Thompson has shown qualifications for the place.

KNICKEBOCKER is the name of the Protestant Episcopal Bishop-elect of Indiana. Ohio has a favorite son in the person of one Whoopeknicker or Lickenwhopper or something of that sort. What do we say to Knickerwhopper and Lickenbacker for 1883? If there is anything in a couple of axes it is all here.

GENERAL GRANT says that he is out of politics, that Mr. Conkling is practicing law, Blaine and Logan are the most important candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination, and one of them will carry off the nomination. Blaine and Logan would be glad to believe that the chances are narrowed down to one fine point.

The Superintendent of the Brooklyn bridge says: "If I had known that a panic was to occur, and just where, I should have had a platoon of policemen on hand." If people who build tinder-box hotels knew just when and where the fire is going to break out they would have a fireman on hand ready to turn on the stream. The Superintendent of the Brooklyn bridge desires to be written down an ass.

A BAPTIST clergyman in Philadelphia has resigned because his congregation protested against his engaging himself to be married a second time in less than a year after his wife's death. A preacher who presumes to pose the question without the consent of everybody in his congregation, particularly of the old girls who have never had a chance, must expect a little unpleasantness in his neighborhood.

SOME of our Democratic cotemporaries are whacking away at General Gove because he has built himself a handsome home. Seeing that he is a man of wealth, who came by his means honestly, whose business it is what kind of a house he builds? The Democratic party in West Virginia took Mr. Camden from his elegant Parkersburg home and sent him to the United States Senate, and Senator Camden is plugging up a great fortune through his connection with the Standard oil monopoly.

SENATOR VAN WYCK, of Nebraska, has called the attention of the Postmaster-General to a very peculiar transaction in Star route contracts. A contract for a route which the Segate thought unnecessary has been let to John R. Miner. Harvey M. Vale is on his bond, and both of them are on trial for Star route crookedness. The circumstances of this letting are bad, and it will be surprising if the Postmaster-General does not undo the mischief and make it uncomfortable for the contract officer, which seems to have acted in brazen defiance of decency.

An Ohio newspaper, which won't vote for him or any other Republican, complains that Foraker isn't old enough and is not sufficiently identified with State issues. It would have preferred—most anybody would—the nominee, whoever he might have been. It is characteristic of the Republican party that it does not wait until it is willing to give him a chance. The Republican party is pre-eminently the young man's party. It invites the young blood of the country to take service under its banner, and the man who is competent to lead is not bidden to tarry awhile in Jericho until his beard is grown.

KNOCKED IN THE HEAD

A WEST VIRGINIA WIFE MURDER.

A flood living near Barboursville, Va., killed her husband and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

It is a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 7.—Barboursville, the county seat of this county, is in a state of terrible excitement over a horrible murder committed near that place this evening. William Peyton, a member of a good family, but the black sheep, knocked his wife in the head with an axe, killing her almost instantly, and then took to the woods. The family live nearly four miles up the Guyandotte from Barboursville, and as soon as the news of the tragedy was brought parties were formed, and have since been searching in all directions for any speculation as to the cause of the murder.

THE INDIAN WAR.

Loco's Family Captured—The Number of Indians on the War Path.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—Adjutant-General Drum this morning received the following telegram: WHIPPLE BARBACKS, ARIZONA, June 6, Gen. R. C. Drum, Adjutant General, Washington, D. C.

Lieut. Davis, of the Third Cavalry, after an examination of the Indians recently surrendered at Don Carlos, reports that the Chiricahuas surrendered belonged to Loco's family, and number two boys, eighteen women and children. Sixty days ago the Mexican troops surprised the hostiles in northern Sierra Madre. This party of Indians was let off from the main body and three days after the fight started for the reservation. One party went back to bring in Loco, but Loco was too old to travel and told them to go without him. All the Indians were together when surprised by the Mexican troops. Charles McDoom was with them and was well treated. He was kept to aid them in case of surrender. The Indians knew nothing of General Crook when they left, but knew the country was full of troops and if attacked would fight until whipped and then scatter through the Sierra Madre. Most of them will attempt to work back to the reservation. Some expect no mercy and will keep up the fight and remain in the mountains as long as possible. They have no other place to go. The mountains are scattered through the Sierra Madre. Crook will probably not meet any of them before reaching the extreme southern part of the Sierra Madre. They don't know the exact number of fighting men, but may be between 100 and 150, and among them are women and children. The number of men include boys large enough to bear arms. The Indians think General Crook will have trouble to find the hostiles. The latter will run if they can. The Chiricahuas and Warm Springs are the only tribes of the only Indians on the warpath in Mexico.

J. P. MARTIN, Assistant Agent General.

THE B. & O.'S LINE

Into Chicago—No Trouble With the Illinois Central.

BALTIMORE, June 7.—"About eight years ago," says a Chicago paper, "the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company leased certain privileges from the Illinois Central Road to secure an entrance into Chicago. The lease expired three years ago, and since then the Baltimore & Ohio Road is said to exist in Chicago on sufferance and at the mercy of the Illinois Central, and that the latter company manifest an indifference to renew the lease or to make a new one with the Baltimore & Ohio Company, and that the latter does not know when the courts may determine its status to be such as to require its removal from its present location." The Baltimore & Ohio officials were shown this statement yesterday, and said that, in the main, it was without foundation, and; in fact, the rights of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company to the use of the Illinois Central tracks in Chicago were not denied by the Illinois Central Company, and there never has been any question on the subject. There are certain questions relating to the purchase or lease of certain grounds for freight depot purposes in Chicago, about which the Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Companies have been in negotiation for some time. This, however, will not affect or interfere with the Baltimore & Ohio Company's handling of freight or passenger business to Chicago.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

The injured are as follows: Henry Harting was shot through the body and died at 1:15 in the morning; John H. Harting, shot in the left breast, hip and arm; Henry Tegmeyer, shot in the neck; Henry Pope, shot in the breast, the bullet striking him in the center of the chest; August Tegmeyer, finger bitten and crushed. It is thought all the wounded will recover. Word was sent to Waverly, and as soon as possible Deputy Sheriff Adair was sent for and the captured men were landed in jail at Waverly.

Bill Barber was found willing to converse, and said he was 23 and like 25 years of age. Their father was a soldier in an Iowa regiment and dying soon after the war. The boys were placed in the Soldiers' Orphan Home at Cedar Falls. When asked in regard to the shooting of Sheriff Sheppard last September, Bill says they had worked for the former, who cheated them out of their pay, and they ran off, stole a horse of his, and hid in the woods. He drew a revolver as soon as he ordered them to surrender and fired, the ball striking him in the head, and he then drew a revolver and killed Sheppard. They made their escape to Clay county, Kansas, where they went to picking coal, and afterwards ran a ferry over the Republican river. A week ago Monday, they concluded to go home to see their mother and sisters. They saw them and they entered the house. One of them then attempted to escape and go to Montana, where they claim their mother lives. About 9 o'clock last evening a dispatch was received intimating that a mob was on the way to Lynch the following day, and that they were to be removed to Independence, where they are now located.

After the prisoners had been started on their way to Independence the West Union mob, fifteen or twenty in number, including a brother and sister of Sheriff Sheppard, proceeded to the depot. Sheriff who was murdered in Fayette county, arrived. They proceeded to the jail and were met by Sheriff Adair, who told them that the Barbers were not in jail. But they were not satisfied until they had searched the jail and the whole house. Finally they left. They came with the intention of bagging the Barbers.

Civil Service Announcements.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The Civil Service Commission has announced the following additional local board of examiners: Post office at Chicago, M. J. McGrath, E. P. Upham, W. D. Rydell; Custom House at Chicago, Frank G. Green, Augustus S. Campbell, Charles J. Stone; Post office at Cincinnati, Hamilton, Shedd, John L. Kane, Jerome B. Johnson; Post office at Detroit, Frederick Wolfender, Stephen A. Griggs, Charles F. Swan; Custom House at Detroit, H. O. Christy, Van A. Garrett, F. A. Bales; Custom House at Port Huron, Frank Whipple, Edgar G. Spaulding, George G. Van Alstyne.

The Civil Service Commission gives notice of competitive examinations for admission to public service between June 10 and the 31 of July at the following places: Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Louisville, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Port Haron, St. Louis and St. Francisco. Any person wishing to be examined at either of said places for service in any department should send a written request to the Civil Service Commission at that place for the proper application blanks, which will be supplied.

Wanted Another Husband.

FALLS CITY, Neb., June 7.—The arrest yesterday of Mrs. Mary Ferron, charged with murdering her husband by pouring oil upon him while asleep and then igniting his clothes, produces most intense excitement. Her object was to marry another man, and she has partly confessed.

LABOR AND WAGES.

PRESIDENT JARRETT'S ULTIMATUM.

He Positively Refuses to be a Candidate for the Political Asylum—Successors Suggested—Prospect of a Strike Among Glass-workers if Wages are Reduced—Other Notes.

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—In a comparatively short time Mr. John J. Jarrett, President of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, will sever his connection in an official way from that body. The annual convention and election of officers of the association will be held in Philadelphia on August 7, and Mr. Jarrett will no longer be a candidate.

Mr. Jarrett has been closely identified with the Association since its organization, and with the Sons of Vulcan, its well-known predecessor. He served as Vice President from the Sixth District at the time Joseph Bishop was President, and from the time Joseph Bishop was President in January, 1880, was a Deputy Vice President. He has been re-elected each successive year since, but has now informed the organization that he will not be a candidate for re-election under any circumstances. He will remain a member of the Association, however, but will not take a prominent part in their affairs after his retirement. Various reasons for Mr. Jarrett's action are given, but the cause assigned by him is that he can get nothing better to do, he will again go to work as a puddler. There is strong opposition to his retirement, and well there may be, for he has been faithful to his trust, efficient, wise in his counsel, dignified, courteous, and will retire with well deserved honor.

Secretary Martin is also talked of among others as a probable successor in office, but he has no aspirations in that direction. In this connection it may be stated that when Mr. Jarrett was first elected to fill the vacancy existing in 1880, Mr. Martin gave himself so long as Mr. Jarrett proved himself to be the honorable, fair dealing man he was then, he would never permit his name to be advanced as that of an opposing candidate for the position of President, and although urged since then to permit his name in this connection, he has firmly adhered to his promise.

GLASS WORKERS' WAGES.

Prospect of a Strike in Case of a Reduction.

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—The time is approaching