

The Intelligencer

Office Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

VALE VILLARD! Moral—put not your trust in railroad princes.

The mercantile agencies are engaged in a generous rivalry to see which one can report the most failures.

The tramp nuisance is again afflicting New England. Men who adopt politics as a trade must take their chances.

Your friend Wayne and Meane Morrison are nailing his boom to keep it warm.

Wheeling waits more or less patiently to hear more about that coming Vanderbilt road.

On second thought Mr. Springer will take what is set before him and make the most of it.

Commissioner Stein will sit as judge on Superintendent Finley's case when the Commissioners take hold of it.

Unless Congressman Finley knows more about it than O'Donnell did, the killing of Carey was a cold-blooded murder.

A serious charge is brought against Captain Flankey, Post House Superintendent.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

Mr. Villard, the driver of golden spikes and the manipulator of nobility, is at last laid on his back.

A BOOM FOR CURTIN

THE WAR GOVERNOR FOR PRESIDENT

Handell's Race for Speaker a Double-Barreled Affair—A Case of "Fiddle Me and I'll Tickle You."

From Our Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, January 4.—There are some astute Democratic politicians here who say that the candidacy of Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania, for the Speakership, was a candidacy with a double head and a pair of meanings.

It is probably unjust to say that the nomination of Mr. Curdin for Speaker is a purely local affair.

It is not a query here "Did you know Curdin coming up in Randall's election and asking for the presidential nomination?"

It looks now as though the Democrats of some of the Eastern States, and the protective tariff advocates generally, are taking an interest in Curdin.

Some Proceedings That May be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, January 4.—Persons who are helping their friends to make successful applications for pensions should have a care.

It is best for persons who are applied to make these affidavits, to inquire of themselves what interest they may have in making out to statements effecting the health or reputation of character of the applicant.

There are times when the right man will be found in the sanctum, but even that is generally a little rough on his newspaper.

Washington, D. C., January 4.—It is understood that Congressman Bellard, of Colorado, and other representatives, some of whom will have the honor of a college regulations, which gave authority to coin silver at the mint for private parties, restored.

Washington, January 4.—Representative Springer, at the earnest solicitation of prominent Democrats both here and in the State here represents, has concluded to accept the positions on the House Committee, which were assigned him by the Speaker.

Frank James Seriously Ill.

FRANK HUTTON.

What He Knows About the Presidential Situation.

CHICAGO, January 4.—Assistant Postmaster General Frank Hutton arrived here yesterday from Washington.

"Well," he answered, "it is a singular fact that there is less crystallization of sentiment in this direction this year than I have ever known.

"I haven't seen anything in his action to indicate that he is a candidate. He certainly is not making it manifest.

"Are you for Greeham for President?" "No, that is, if President Arthur is a candidate. I don't know that Mr. Greeham is a candidate myself. I think that I could safely say that he is not.

"No, the opinion seems to be that it will not. Postmaster Greeham in his report spoke unfavorably of it, and President Arthur has declined to receive his message.

THE KENTUCKY CONTENT.

Williams and Blackburn in the Lead With Carlisle a Possibility.

FRANKFORT, Ky., January 4.—The Senatorial contest is attracting wide attention and the State capital is crowded with the friends of the rival candidates.

It is believed, however, that Carlisle would not be a serious competitor for either Mr. Williams or Mr. Blackburn.

A Democrat's Elephant.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., January 4.—There is trouble among the Democrats. The prominence given Congressman William R. Morrison seems to be in the way of more than one Illinois Democrat.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

THE BLIZZARD.

THE COLD WEATHER AND STORMS.

A Train Load of Cattle Perished at Chicago—Terrible Cold in the Lakes—Wind Storm in England—All Western Trains Delayed—Locally Cold Weather in the Northwest.

CHICAGO, January 4.—The extreme cold weather yesterday and last night has retarded all passenger and freight trains.

"A steamer's experience on the lake." WISCONSIN, January 4.—The steamer Wisconsin, which left here for Grand Haven, Mich., Wednesday evening.

THE WEATHER AT OTHER PLACES.

TORONTO, January 4.—The storm continues unabated.

ST. PAUL, Minn., January 4.—The coldness of the weather along the railroad lines today is indicated in the following figures:

On the Northern Pacific it was reported that the snow below the level of the ground.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., January 4.—This has been the coldest day of the season.

MINNEAPOLIS, January 4.—The Tribune special says that at Brainerd, Minn., at 4:30 below.

CHICAGO, January 4.—This has been the coldest day of the present winter.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., January 4.—The thermometer is intensely cold.

Providence, R. I., January 4.—The high wind at Newport last night overturned a drag containing twenty or thirty men.

WAGE OF BATTLE.

The Most Peculiar and Foolish Tragedy on Record.

LOWELL, Mass., January 4.—Andover, a small village about five miles north of this place, Lizzie Jackson, her husband and a man named Thompson met their death in a peculiarly tragic manner.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.

THE BUCKEYE CONFLICT.

Penitence Gaining, and Thought to Have a Prospect of Re-election.

COLUMBUS, O., January 4.—At this hour the situation indicates the re-election of Mr. Pendleton.

"An Intelligence reporter had a talk yesterday with one of the most intelligent of the members of the Amalgamated Association in this city on the subject of the project to suspend work in the iron mills during the heated term of each year.

"But," said the gentleman to whom the reporter talked, "those of us who had observed the result of the long strike the summer before were not prepared to vote for anything else.

"Not now," he said, "I cannot imagine what inspired that Pittsburgh publication, unless it is that the Pittsburgh men want to reap the agitation, and want to have Wheeling father it, and put that out as a feeler."

A MANUFACTURER'S VIEWS.

A prominent manufacturer was also seen. He said if there was any movement of this kind going on here he had no intention of it.

THE MATCH MONOPOLY.

The Handsome Profit the Lucifer Match Company Used to Enjoy.

"Well, I see the big match monopoly has gone by the board," said a business man to a reporter, yesterday.

"What about this 'busted monopoly'?" "There is not much in it. Some three years ago a monopoly of this trade was formed under the name of the Diamond Match Company.

Advertisement.

IRON WORKERS' REVENUE.

WHAT A WHEELING WORKMAN SAYS

AT HON. LEWIS BAKER'S HOSPITALITY SUBURBAN RESIDENCE.

The reception given last night at the residence of Hon. Lewis Baker, at Elm Grove, by his wife, daughter, Mr. Lillis, was an event to be classed among the brilliant social occurrences of the season of 1883.

"As can be seen by the list of names of those there, given below, nearly all the prominent young aristocratic people of the city were among the invited."

"Aside from that object, would the men like to rest month or six weeks each summer?" "Yes, and it would be to the advantage of the manufacturers as well.

TESTIMONY OF ESTERH.

A prominent South Side Manufacturer is surprised by the employes of his factory, who had resolved to make the sixteenth anniversary of his birth an occasion not to be forgotten by that estimable citizen.

General Information About the Steamboats—Telegraphic Reports.

Col. Jeff Martin, the popular clerk, will soon give the benedictions.

Advertisement.

THE TRUE STORY

OF THE MURDER OF INFORMER CAREY

The Act a Noble One—No Struggle and No Feat—Shooting Done Without Warning—The Statement of O'Donnell well here Made for His Counsel.

DUBLIN, January 4.—The United Ireland publishes an account of the murder of Carey, written by a gentleman who received it from O'Donnell on condition that it was not to be told as long as a chance remained to save O'Donnell's life.

"The return of the city about 2:30 o'clock this morning." "The return of the city about 2:30 o'clock this morning."

THE CZAR WOUNDED.

VIENNA, January 4.—The latest version of the recent accident to the Czar is as follows: The Czar was returning on the afternoon of December 17 to the Gatchina palace from a shooting excursion, accompanied by his suite in eight sleds, with a number of servants.

General Information About the Steamboats—Telegraphic Reports.

Advertisement.

THE TRUE STORY

OF THE MURDER OF INFORMER CAREY

The Act a Noble One—No Struggle and No Feat—Shooting Done Without Warning—The Statement of O'Donnell well here Made for His Counsel.

DUBLIN, January 4.—The United Ireland publishes an account of the murder of Carey, written by a gentleman who received it from O'Donnell on condition that it was not to be told as long as a chance remained to save O'Donnell's life.

"The return of the city about 2:30 o'clock this morning." "The return of the city about 2:30 o'clock this morning."

THE CZAR WOUNDED.

VIENNA, January 4.—The latest version of the recent accident to the Czar is as follows: The Czar was returning on the afternoon of December 17 to the Gatchina palace from a shooting excursion, accompanied by his suite in eight sleds, with a number of servants.

General Information About the Steamboats—Telegraphic Reports.

Advertisement.

Advertisement.