linen industry and all the industries prostrated, as every Irishman knows, by the British policy of free trade.

But at what cost are we asked to aid in this revival? Irish linen manufacturers are to be enabled, by the policy of President Cleveland, to compete more success fally with the cotton manufacturers of the United States. The labor of British subjects is to be fostered at the expense of the men and women now engaged in the munufacture of cotton fabrics in the Matted States. Not only this. As the is enforced in the proper lines work its way into the United States. Not only this. As the foreign linen works its way into the united States it takes the place of its equivalent in raw cotton; the home department of the same is throat delicate.

oquivalent in raw cotton; the home demund for cotton falls, price with it, and the British manufacturer of cotton fabrics pays less to the American cotton planter for the raw material.

By pursuing the policy which President Oleveland condemus as being a false national economy and impoverishing the people, we have amassed a national wealth of 60,000 millions, naking us the richest of the nations of the earth, have taken care of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of the nations of the earth, have taken care of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of the nations of the earth, have taken care of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of the nations of the earth, have taken care of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of the nations of the earth, have taken care of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of the nations of the earth, have taken care of a national debt of 3,000 millions and the fall of the fal poured into poor, oppressed Ireland a steady stream of money to keep the wolf from her door and aid her in her desperate struggle for existence against the tyranny of British landlords and of the English Government.

The friends of protection have nothing to regrot, except that they have not pushed their policy far enough; no other purpose than to stand by their guns until the policy of protection to American in-dustries shall be so firmly rooted in the confidence of the people that no politician will dare to raise his voice against it. The Sad Story of Katydid and Billy.

A New York woman had two pet birds of the canary variety, Katydid and Billy. She loved them, pettod them and when the "shades of night were falling fast," kissed them foundly and put them to bed on their little perch. Whother it was this tender exhibition of affection, or the early morning chirping of the birds, or a disordered liver or something else equally upsetting, a woman in the same house laid violent hands on the birds and took away their little lives.

Then there was a scene in court, whiththe Sad Story of Katydid and Billy.

The woman who killed the birds and gave New York justice a chance to vindicate itself should have bribed Aldermen, or has herzelf incorporated as a company to kill canaries. In either case she would not have been railroaded through as she was and if she had been sentenced to the penitentiary she never would have reached there. Why will intelligent persons go on making these mistakes?

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS.

Invitations are fluttering for Christmas week at country houses, and there are probably many prayers for the right kind of weather.

Milady will give her covents a Christ-mas ball this year at her country house, and has asked friends trassist her in look-ing at the festivities.

Some elegant walking costumes are seen of black goods, with the front, sides and waist trimmed with India bhawl material, the wearer of which look as if they were very contented.

A store closet opening from the kitchen keeps the atmosphere dry, and articles are less liable to gather dampness and mould. A cool and dry place is indispensible for a store room. A small window over the door secures coolness and fresh air.

Easels of white enamelled wood, in-laid with gold, and having rollers, are seen, but do not suggest themselves to peo-ple who go through life with the idea that papa's trousers should ultimately be cut for brother. In short, they are too expen-sive in the case of fire.

"Mamma," eaid a Philadelphia girl, "what would be an appropriate present to give George? You know we are not engaged yet."

"How long has he been calling upon you?"

"About two years."
"About two years."
"Then I think a pretty plain hint will be the proper thing to give him."
A Cinderella party, or a "small and early," as it is sometimes called, for young people, is one of the favorite ways recently devised for Christmas entertainment. The dancing stops at midnight, when all the Cinderellas must hasten home. To remind them of the midnight hour the dancing books are ornamented with a tiny slipper. At these parties the octagon quadrille often plays a conspicuous part, it is danced by eight couples standing in octagon form.

In connection with the holly, which figures so conspicuously in all our Christmas decorations, we find a quaint old conceit chronicled, that every holly bough and lump of berries, with which you adorn your house, is an act of natural piety as well as beauty, and will in summer enable you to relish that green world of which you show yourself not unworthy. In Germany and Scandinavia the holly or holly tree, is called "Christ's thorn," from its uso in church decorations, and because it bears its berries at Christmasside.

Foreign Lines vs. Home Made Cotton Fabrics.

The Colerains, Iroland, Chronicle, commenting on Cleveland's message, says:

"In Ulater it is interred that if this wise policy be approved and adopted by the United States, the Irish linen trade will be benefitted. A reduction of the tariff on linen would enable the linen manufacturers and thus astimulus would be given to the staple industry of the province of Ulater."

This is a clear and plain proposition. Who can blame the people of Ulater for rejoicing over the suggestion of the head of a foreign government that his country shall do for Ulater what the British Government is unable to do?—revive its once great industry. There is no American who would not be glad to see revived the linen industry and all the industries on the industry feat of the results of the care of the content of the analysis of the start of the care of the start of the care of the care of the care of the care of the start of the care is found, there, in one form or another we find the tokens of adoration and grati-
