The Intelligencer. WHEELING, W. VA., JULY 6, 1888. NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET. FOR PRESIDENT, BENJAMIN HARRISON, of Indiana.

stands by itself in the world's history. The like has not so much been dreamed of by poet or painter—victor and vanquished meeting together in fraternal embrace, recounting the old struggles as though they had all been comrades in arms, awarding the meed of praise without discrimination, rejoicing as fellow countrymen in the outcome of those three terrible days which secured to all Americans the perpetuity of the Union of the States.

Peas and painters have pictured the rude shock of the days of '65. How much nobler the material with which '88 supplies them! Who does not regret that his eyes did not behold that stirring sight! Mr. Grover Cleveland, though the President of the United States, was not there. He could not make it convenient, though round trip tickets were selling for a dollar. Perhaps he realized that he could not understand it without an interpreter.

A Sample Campaign Lie. In the news columns of the Register, yesterday morning, there appeared under the caption "Harrish for Harrison," what purported to be an account of a Chinese Republican mass meeting in New York City. The INTELLIGENCER is charitable enough to admit that the Register itself may have been deceived, having, perhaps, clipped the dispatch from some mud-slinging contemporary.

Won't somebody tell the small boy and his big brother that the Fourth of July is over? "PRESIDENT CLEVELAND now wears a white straw hat with a black band," remarks an exchange. Bet two dollars it is an English hat.

Mr. Cleveland's letter to Terhune on the Glorious Fourth shows a disposition to hedge on the tariff question. "Too late, too late, ye cannot enter now."

You may have noticed that every time our Uncle Ben Harrison opens his Hoosier mouth he says something worth hearing. Then there's your Cousin Grover's Buffalo month.

To-day they tell Mr. Morton about it. He will not be surprised, for he has already had an inkling of what is coming. The probability is that Mr. Morton will accept and at an early day moderate the doings of the United States Senate.

Tris not long since "our friends, the enemy," were saying of the Republican party and its local clubs that it was all forlorn. Now behold a Democratic League pegging away at it in Baltimore. Verily it is a catch-on-behind party of the second part.

Tris man who lost his life on the Fourth of July trying to navigate the Niagara rapids, considerably stocked himself with $50 borrowed from an undertaker, who can now take it out in trade. Somebody else will be ready by the next Fourth of July.

Mr. GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS' Gettysburg address is a noble specimen of the literature of its class. It has soul as well as a fine style and robust texture, and it is worthy to live. Those who have not read it in full will find it in the current number of Harper's Weekly.

The beautiful and effective speech of General Gordon, Governor of Georgia, delivered at Gettysburg, was written on the cars while the Confederate veteran was on route to the battle field. On the occasion of General Gordon's first visit to Gettysburg he hadn't time to prepare a speech. How the times have changed and men with them.

GENTLEMEN on the other side are fond of seeing what they can twist out of General Harrison's name. The able New York Tribune, without much strain on its intellectual department, has produced this: Cleveland's name spelled backward is Dnalevef. Our Welsh is a little rusty, but we seem to remember that "Dnalevef" is a compound noun, whose equivalent in our language is "Free Trade."

Do the American people want Dnalevef in theirs? Go to. Says Mr. Gladstone: "We see parties in America now waging anew the controversy of Protection and Free Trade." Mr. Gladstone knows a black cat when he sees one. American Democrats who would like Protection if they could get it through the Democratic party try to convince themselves that all black cats are white. There are Democrats who have got past that point of self-delusion and they are going to plump in their votes for "Young Tippecanoe and Protection too."

A Colored Man Gone Wrong. Rev. S. B. Thompson, a Michigan colored man, who has probably forgotten that the Republican party gave him the right to vote his sentiments, in spite of Democratic opposition, says he will support Cleveland this year. He urges, as one reason, that "in the Pension Department alone there are now not less than seventy-five of our colored brethren employed, who draw salaries ranging from $800 to $1,200 per year."

Mr. Thompson is a fit man to be a Democrat, for the above is just the sort of demagoguery that is characteristic of that party. Mr. Thompson knows, and so does every other intelligent colored man, that a large majority of these colored clerks were appointed under Republican administrations, and that they have been retained simply because a Democratic administration does not dare dismiss them.

rod was too long, was afterward passed with the period of exclusion limited to ten years. Senator Harrison appears to have been opposed to this measure in both the forms in which it came before the Senate. Before the vote Senator Hoar offered an amendment declaring that the provisions of the bill should not apply to any "skilled laborer who shall establish that he comes to this country without any contract by which his labor is the property of any person other than himself." Senator Harrison voted for it. He also voted for an amendment declaring that no laborer should be affected by the bill who had received a certificate from the American Consul, before the war, which he came that he was "skilled laborer coming to this country at his own expense and of his own free will." Neither of these amendments was adopted. When the second bill was brought in after the veto of the Senate, it was in favor of striking out the provision which excluded the admission of Chinese to citizenship and the proviso which declared that "Chinese laborers," wherever used in the act, should be construed to mean "both skilled and unskilled laborers and Chinese employes in mining." This is the substance of his record on the question. His moderate views on the question were then shared by many of the best men of his party, and there is no doubt that he acted conscientiously and in accordance with his best judgment of what the public interests required.

The other incident that has been used to excite the prejudices of laboring men against him is the share he took in July, 1877, at the time of the great railroad strike. He was not only a member of the Committee of Public Safety, with Gen. Gresham, Senator McDonald, and other prominent citizens of both parties, but of a committee of mediation which endeavored to secure a settlement of the difficulty between the railroads and their employees and of a committee organized to assist directly in the enforcement of law and the suppression of riot. He commanded one of the companies of volunteer militia formed to protect life and property and General Gresham commanded another. His course was simply that of a law-abiding citizen anxious to protect the commonalty against a threatened outbreak of violence and bring to a peaceable conclusion the trouble which led to a perilous situation. He showed no unfriendliness to the strikers, and not only tried to obtain concessions for them, but is said to have interested to save from punishment those who were sentenced to imprisonment for interfering with the operations of the Ohio & Mississippi railroad.

We do not think that attacks upon General Harrison on account of these two incidents are justified, and they are intended to work upon prejudices and not upon judgment.
