

THE INTELLIGENCER. Published Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly. TERMS: The Daily Intelligence is Delivered by Carriers in Wheeling and adjacent towns at 15 cents per week.

The Intelligencer. WHEELING, W. VA., SEPTEMBER 7, 1888. NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET. FOR PRESIDENT, BENJAMIN HARRISON, of Indiana.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET. FOR GOVERNOR, G. N. SATHAN GOFF, of Harrison County. FOR AUDITOR, GEO. M. BOWERS, of Berkeley County.

HARRISON COUNTY has done well in this Congressional District, and it is a good omen that the Republican nomination for Congress was made in that fine old county.

G. W. ATKINSON will "get there" because he stands firmly and ably for the cause of Protection to American labor; because he is no new hand at the political bellows; because he knows and is liked by the people; because he is square man, and you always know where to find him.

MR. CLEVELAND'S contribution to the Democratic fund to try to re-elect himself would cover just 500 such contributions as he sent to the earthquake sufferers. Levi P. Morton sent 2,500 times as much to the Irish sufferers as Mr. Cleveland sent to the earthquake sufferers in the South. Behold the difference in men.

The cause of Protection is not languishing for want of live literature. One of the most useful of recent contributions is by Mr. Thomas H. McKee, Assistant Librarian of the Senate. "Protection Echoes from the Capital" is a real mine of information on the tariff question. It makes its own place, and will be found of great value. The publishers are McKee & Co., Washington, D. C.

The New Era, published at Kingwood, is a new Republican paper, and starts out in good shape. It is published by James W. White, late of Wheeling, and is understood to be backed by Hon. S. P. McCormick and other prominent Republicans. It bids fair to do good work for the cause in Preston. This makes two Republican papers in Kingwood, the other being Senator Dawson's excellent Journal. Between the two papers will no doubt be largely instrumental in increasing "the banner county's" majority for Protection this year.

The Clarkburg convention compares with the Wheeling convention as the Republican advocate of Protection compares with the Democratic Keeper of the Free Trade Vampires. The Clarkburg convention was an orderly assembly which did its work in a decent way. And its nominee did not rush over the floor hustling for votes. Mr. Atkinson sat at his hotel waiting for the verdict, which was all the more pleasing because it came as it did. But we are used to these striking contrasts between the methods of the two parties.

So None. It was with more or less regret that the Republicans of the First Congressional District found themselves out of harmony with their friends, the enemy, in the matter of a nominee. They stubbornly made their own nomination. Hence much soreness in the Democratic camp hereabouts. We doubt whether the wounds can be healed for several years. Our friends, the enemy, are particularly hurt because the Republicans did not nominate a soldier—as though, bless their souls, we had not already given them the soldier until they are sick. We have one for President, three on the State ticket, two out of the four nominees for Congress, and so it goes along the line. But there was a chance to take a soldier in the First District. Many of the soldiers in the convention preferred somebody else, just as many not soldiers preferred the soldier. Just as it was in the Democratic convention, which preferred the untamed keeper of the Vampires to that tried and true Democratic soldier, Col. Dan Johnson. What a tale of gushing anguish these crocodile tears do tell!

son never uttered an untidy word about the workmen. The following is an extract from the speech made by General Harrison to his company on the 29th of July, 1877, during the strike and when a mob of 10,000 men was threatening to burn Indianapolis: "Men! examine your guns to see if any one is loaded, and, if so, draw the load. Let us remember that our mission is to prevent violence, not to do violence. It would be an infinite pity if on the march, or after we reach the city, one of these men should be killed or ever become discharged and some innocent person injured. I am still of the firm conviction that nothing more than the mere fact of our military organization will be required to secure the peace."

The affidavit of the strikers' committee contains the following paragraph: "While these military preparations were in progress all peaceable means were being tried to secure order without a conflict. One of these means was the appointment, on motion of Franklin Landers, of a committee of ten of our most distinguished and prominent citizens to confer with a meeting of the strikers, in the hope of devising some basis of agreement between the strikers and their employers. Gen. Harrison was also made a member of this committee. The conference with the strikers was had, and one of its chief incidents was a speech by Gen. Harrison, which, as shown by the newspaper reports of that day, and distinctly remembered by many, was a masterful review of the situation. He looked at the strikers, pledging his best efforts as one of the arbitration committee to obtain redress at the hands of the railroad managers."

The Chicago Tribune, in speaking of the slanders on General Harrison, says: "It is further a matter of record that when the rioters were brought to trial it was General Harrison who appeared before them in court and secured their release, after showing that they had been unjustly treated by the railroad managers. The slanderous calumny has been completely stamped out, but the lying vilification goes on in the columns of Democratic papers, which have been urging that the campaign should be a clean one and that vicious personalities should not be indulged. From the time he was nominated to the present General Harrison has shown himself a gentleman in every respect to the opposing candidates, and it was his personal request that no assault was made upon the Administration of Mr. Cleveland in the platform of the Republican party of his own state. Would it not be a return to the Democratic platform to call off the liars and calumniators who are at work for him in this respectable manner?"

Thurman Misses the Issue. Cincinnati Times-Star. The issue, Gen. is fairly made up between us; it is between high taxation on the one hand and reasonable taxation on the other. It is between taking the money of the people out of their own control, out of their own pockets, and burying in the cellar of the Treasury Department, or it is between leaving the money where it belongs, in the pockets of the people, to be used by them as their wants require and as their intelligence and honesty direct. —Thurman's own words.

In other words, the issue in the present campaign, stripped of all rhetorical embellishments and political disguises, is between high and low taxes. The Democratic party is opposed to a large surplus in the Treasury; the Republican party is in favor of it. The Democrats are fighting for "reasonable" taxes; the Republicans for unreasonable taxes. The Democrats insist that the people's money shall not be "taken out of their pockets and placed out of their control," while the Republicans insist that the people's money shall be taken out of their pockets and out of their control? Had this statement of the issue of the campaign appeared in a Democratic newspaper, it would have been passed unnoticed as a result of the carelessness or partisan license with which political campaigns are always attended. But coming from the nominee for the second place on the National ticket and in a carefully worded speech, it is a party key note, forestalling even the President's letter of acceptance as an authoritative Democratic statement of the pending issue, it is an amazing piece of demagoguery without possible excuse.

It is a horse who is in a bad health, and who is looking over one of Simmon's Liver Regulator Almanacs and saw A. H. Stevens' and Bishop Pierce's names mentioned. I then obtained some of the Regulator and can heartily recommend the Liver Regulator to my friends as an excellent medicine." Z. E. HARRISON, M. D., Gordonsville, Va. M.W.F.A.

WIDOW. On Wednesday, September 5, 1888, at 6:30 o'clock a. m., MARY WIDOW, wife of F. W. Widow, in the 64th year of her age. Friends will take place from her late residence, No. 212 1/2 Main street, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends of the family are invited to attend. Interment at Mt. Wood Cemetery.

The Sufferer's Friend. How many people who are suffering from blood poison the world knows not; but read the following letters and you may be interested: Found by Accident. BALTIMORE, Md., January 28, 1887. I have been a sufferer for six years with Catarrh, Ulcerated Sore Throat, and Rheumatism of the feet, from blood poisoning. I have tried weeks ago I was passing the Botanic Blood Balm, No. 8 North street, Baltimore. I went in and consulted your agent about my case. He gave me one of your B. B. "Book of Wonders," which I read. I called in a few days afterward and got a bottle of your Botanic Blood Balm. I. B. R. I am now on the third bottle, and will say that I feel better than I have felt since the third day after commencing to use your medicine. I have no more trouble from my throat and have improved so much in every way that I am satisfied that by the use of your medicine I will soon be well and strong. I have taken many and some good prescriptions and medicines for this trouble, but I think your B. B. is the best. I feel that I can heartily recommend your "Botanic Blood Balm" to the public as the quickest and best blood remedy I have found after six long years of search for health. Very respectfully yours, JOSEPH W. FLOWER, 210 Simmons Alley.

One Bottle Did It—Bills Cured and Health Restored. J. B. B. Co., Atlanta, Ga. GENTS—My sister was afflicted for a number of years with boils scattered all over her person. They would make their appearance every spring and last through the summer until they were so bad that she could not get on her feet. I gave her one bottle of J. B. B. and the effect was like magic, producing a complete cure and restoring her health. Today she is perfectly sound and her health fully restored. It is without doubt the best and most valuable blood purifier now on the market. Yours, etc., D. M. McKee, Washington, D. C., July 14, 1887.

Information. All who desire full information about the cause and cure of Blood Poison, Scrofula and Rheumatism, should read the book "Blood Balm," by J. B. B. Co., No. 8 North street, Baltimore. PROCLAMATION. The late floods have effected our city in such a disastrous manner that I deem it advisable to call a meeting of all taxpayers and citizens on SATURDAY, September 8, 1888, at the POLICE COURT ROOM, at eight o'clock p. m. The purpose of said meeting to be the formulation and recommendation to the City Council of such action as may be deemed most advisable to RESTORE AND REPAIR THE BROKEN TRAFFIC BETWEEN THE NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN PARTS OF THE CITY AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. I would suggest that the following points be well considered: First—Should we rebuild the Main Street Bridge of Stone or Iron? Second—Should a bridge be erected at the above named place, or should the building of a bridge be entirely omitted, as public opinion, to a certain extent at least, seems to favor the tunneling of Wheeling Hill, and making a new outlet for the creek. These subjects are of vital importance to the welfare and prosperity of our community, and a public expression of our people would possibly warrant Council in taking such steps as would meet the general approval of the tax-paying public. C. W. SEABRIGHT, Mayor.
