THE NEXT STATE FAIR

To Be Held the Second Week in September. Other Details.

A fully attended meeting of the Board of Directors of the West Virginia Exposition and State Fair Association was held yesterday. The session was interesting and fruitful.

The Board also adopted the following resolution: Resolved, That we hold our ninth annual fair September 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13, 1889.

The following interesting action was also taken: Resolved, That the President be and is hereby ordered to sign a petition to the Mayor and City Council of Wheeling to have South Front street paved with brick from the bridge to the Fair grounds.

The Board also adopted the following: Resolved, That we hereby very respectfully invite the West Virginia Immigration Society to meet at the city of Wheeling on September 10, 11, 12 or 13, 1889, during the week of our fair.

SENATOR SCOTT will be requested to use his influence with the Legislature to have the First West Virginia Convention in session at Charleston next Friday, to secure the adjournment of that body until one of the dates mentioned, to meet then in Wheeling. The State Fair Association, in its program, has included at that time, besides which the railroad rates will be very favorable.

FRYTON'S "FORGIVEN" One of the Best Romantic Dramas on the Stage, at the Opera House.

Frederic Bryton's drama, "Forgiven," has every element of popularity. The plot is interesting and not trite; it is full of elements that appeal to the sympathy of every class of auditors; pathos and comedy mingle in pleasing proportions; above all, it is true to life.

Mr. Bryton is so identified with the part of Jack Diamond that one loses sight of the actor and sees the man of sorrows. Mr. Coulter is an admirable villain.

Mr. Harwood as Dever is very largely the heart of the comedy, and it could not well be in better hands. Mr. Titus enacts a very difficult part with good taste, resisting the temptation to over-act, which is strong.

"Shadows of a Great City." The reserved seat sale for this melodrama, at the Opera House Thursday evening, opens at House's music store this morning.

This familiar melodrama last night opened an engagement of three nights and a Wednesday matinee at the Grand. The production is a masterpiece of scenic and stage accessories of a novel character.

At this season of the year the Calendar harvest is at its height. From time immemorial calendars have been considered an indispensable article, but if our grand old country is to be kept in this line in these latter days their usefulness would be indescribable.

Where it is possible we urge the correspondent to come and see for himself. What is this? Well I declare! Here is an anxious soul way up in British Columbia who has heard of us, has seen our little publication and made up his mind that he wanted to be one of us.

Now of course we shall not spare any pains to get these men, and if we get them, it is not unreasonable to suppose that we may get more from the same locality. In the course of our correspondence we have succeeded, I think, in unsettling more than one locality, and this happened largely in the West, where frosts, droughts and other disappointing circumstances have induced the people to look for homes in a milder climate surrounded by an old civilization, and yet with all the advantages for a new country.

Be Sure If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, had a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and she writes: "I feel a worthy imitation, tells her experience below."

To Get "In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their was longer; that I might take it in ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and was unable to eat. I had a trial of it, and I had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it. Mrs. ELLA A. GOSPEY, of Terrace Street, Boston.
