JOSEPH COOK'S SERMON At the Second Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

A FORCEFUL DISSERTATION By the Famous Lecturer, Attentively Heard by a Large Audience. His Lecture on the Seven Modern Wonders Saturday.

Mr. Joseph Cook, of Boston, as the famous writer and lecturer chooses to style himself, although he is a graduate of Yale college, and a licentiate in theology, preached a very forcible and entertaining sermon in the Second Presbyterian church, yesterday morning. Mr. Cook took his text from John III. 3: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

"How can two walk together except they be agreed?" "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." His text was, "The cans and cannots of scripture, or the certainties in religion." To illustrate the certainties of religion, he cited the certainties of human existence and the ending of that existence in death.

"The first certainty is that we are going hence soon, and never to return. We may think to stay and enjoy the future, but we are in a procession journeying toward the cemetery gates. Our years of work at the longest are forty-five; Sam no Johnson made them forty; there is thoughtful thirty, solid forty, forcible fifty, serious sixty, sacred seventy, eighty—shortening breath, the sod and God." The impressiveness of the delivery, and the thought of the personal application of these remarks sent a thrill through the audience.

"The second thought of the discourse was on the line: 'As it is appointed man once to die and after that the judgment.' It is a matter of vital importance to every man that he get his feet on the future with a certainty of peace with God. We cannot escape from ourselves; it is we that go hence."

To illustrate the thought, he described a part of the contest between the Monitor and the Merrimack, and the naval battle the ship Cumberland, which was her chief officer. This officer could see a gleam of light through the hatchway, and following the gleam, not only saw the ship, but the ship was rescued. "We are the Cumberland. The Cumberland could not escape from its environments, even though one man did. As we sink, so we are. We go down into eternity as we were when the death knell rang. It is death. Our peace with God consists in liking what God likes and hating what God hates. In this liking and disliking lies the possibility of happiness here and hereafter. We cannot escape from God. As the sunlight shines through and through the air, illuminating all things, so is the presence of God to the human soul. In this inevitable presence of God to like what He likes and hate what He hates is heaven, while to dislike what He likes and love what He hates is hell. To attain to this peace there must be atonement for sin, and regeneration unto holiness."

The remainder of his sermon was an exposition of the doctrine of the satisfaction Christ made on the cross for the sins of the world, and the work of the Holy Spirit in the new birth of the soul. These doctrinal statements are not new, and are the foundation of all Protestant churches. Mr. Cook, however, put them so forcibly and with such vivid and crystallizing illustrations, as to make them seem new and beautiful to those who have heard them time and again. In closing Mr. Cook took occasion to state that he had met with opposition to the doctrine of probation after death. Here and there throughout the address, Mr. Cook made points, many of them in single sentences, which showed the wonderful depth of his thoughts on the subject of spiritual life. One beautiful passage was his comparison of Nations to trees. "The national fabric is the tree, but the people are only leaves; they wither and die, and new crops of leaves take their places. The lives on that national fabric are innumerable, but the leaves die, and pass away and are forgotten. Some fall before the buds are more than swelling pods, others are blown away in the storm, while others pass through all the stages of growth and maturity, and die in the fullness of their life, and are buried in the earth, and are resurrected again with such recurring season."

MR. COOK'S talk was listened to very attentively by the large audience that filled the house in spite of the very disagreeable weather. "THE SEVEN MODERN WONDERS." The subject of the Lecture Delivered by Joseph Cook Saturday Night. Saturday evening Mr. Joseph Cook delivered a lecture at the Second Presbyterian Church before a large and cultured audience. The eloquence of the speaker and the entertaining subject of his address, "The Seven Modern Wonders of the World," combined to produce a deep impression upon the large and attentive audience. The speaker was introduced by Rev. Dr. W. H. Cooke, pastor of the church. Mr. Cook prefaced his address with some general remarks upon the general condition of the world, and then proceeded to the first of the seven wonders, which he called the "wonder of the world." The last of the seven wonders is the "wonder of the world," which he called the "wonder of the world."

A ROBBERY AT FULTON. William Johnson, the Thief, Arrested and Committed to Jail.

Yesterday morning the police were informed that a sneak thief had entered the room of Edward Kinsay at Frank Jennings' boarding house at Fulton, and carried away a pair of shoes, $4 00 in money, a young lady's picture and some other small trinkets. Later in the day the officers had reason to believe that William Johnson was the thief and accordingly Officer Shors arrested him. He was taken before Justice Davis, who committed him to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury which meets to-day. On Johnson's person were found the shoes, picture and other articles except the money. Johnson is the same fellow who was arrested about six months ago for robbing Ben Lewis, a colored man, in a market square saloon.

THE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY Of the March Through Georgia Celebrated by Old Vets Saturday Night. The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the commencement of Sherman's famous march from Atlanta to the sea, held at G. A. R. Hall Saturday night under the auspices of J. A. Holliday Post, was a very enjoyable affair. There were nearly one hundred of the old boys who wore the blue present, and so pleasantly was the time made to pass that it was nearly midnight before the celebration actually dispersed. When those who were with Sherman on that famous march were asked to hold up their hands only five responded. These were W. S. Meek, of Holliday Post, and Comrades Lane and Robert Gibson, of Grand Army Post, Bridgeport, all of whom were members of the Forty-third O. V. I.; Capt. S. L. Brice, of this city, Company F, Fifty-second O. V. I., and Oscar Wright, of Mountaineer, Fifth O. V. I. The members of the Forty-third O. V. I. were the only ones who were present. The celebration was a very enjoyable affair. THE DAILY PACKET LINE Of Steamers to Cincinnati—Notes About the River. Capt. J. E. Leslie, of Pittsburgh, representing Gray's Iron Line, was registered at the Stamm yesterday. He is here booking freight for one of the Gray boats, probably the Iron Duke, which will be down this week with a tow of models. The river was about stationary at this point last night, with a depth of about four feet. The water was quite general up and down the valley, and another rise is probable. There will be at least one more rise, and it will be about the time of the next high water. The river was about stationary at this point last night, with a depth of about four feet. DEATH OF JOHN HOWELL. John Howell died Saturday at the home of a brother in Columbus, with whom he had lived for the past four or five years. The deceased was born in West Alexander in 1815 and came to this city when he was thirteen years old. He was a well-known citizen and was located at the corner of Market and Twelfth streets. Afterwards he engaged in the wholesale and retail shoe business with J. M. Todd, nephew of the late Dr. Todd. He was a successful business man and was well known in the city. THE LOCAL COFFEE MARKET. Saturday the merchants who handle coffee in this city received advices from their agents in New York that the price of coffee had advanced three-quarters of a cent by reason of the revolutionary news from Brazil. Those who had good stocks on hand smiled at the news and hoped the price would go higher. Those who were short smiled on the other side of their faces.

NEW FEATURES ABOUT "MY ANT BRIDGE." The engagement of Monroe & Rice in "My Ant Bridge" at the Opera House to-morrow and Wednesday nights and a matinee Wednesday afternoon, promises to be a very popular one. There is an extra charge for reserved seats, and that fact is appreciated is shown by the good demand that has already been made for seats. Many new features and faces have been introduced by Monroe & Rice in this season, and it is certain that the piece is much more pretentious than is generally heard and seen in farce comedies. Merry Lena Merville, who left the "Oolah" company to join "My Ant Bridge," has made a big hit in her interpretation of Jolly Gilder. Her frisky bridges are as frisky as ever, and her song, "You Should Hear Her Whistling," is said to bring down the house every time.

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTERY." Mr. James Shea, advance representative of the "Little Lord Fauntery" company, which is to present Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnett's dramatized version of her popular novel, "The Secret Garden," at the Opera House on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon, is in the city stopping at the Windsor. "Little Lord Fauntery" is described as an episode character study; a stage idyll—pleasant and to be seen, delicate as old Venetian point lace, dainty as a frock-work fantasia, pure as a snow-flake and as sweet as the silvery laughter of a little child. It will doubtless draw large houses.

"A ROYAL HUND." Is the name of the funny musical comedy in which the St. Felix Sisters have made a big hit this season, and in which they will appear at the Grand last three nights of this week. Few vaudeville entertainers are better or more favorably known than the St. Felix Sisters. Originally there were four in this remarkable family, and the closest bond of affection binds them together. The brilliant and affectionate quartette was broken by the death of Lenore, at Boston, some years ago.

THE GRAND TO-NIGHT THE LEONZO BROS. will open a three nights engagement in the romantic drama, "The Dog Spy." During the progress of the play their wonderful dramatic dogs will appear. The Leonzo's have always been a good business here and there is every reason to look for their continued success. A change of programme will be given at each performance. Seats can be reserved at Weitz's.

GRAND LODGE I. O. O. F. And the Grand Encampment of the Same Order to Meet IN THIS CITY THIS WEEK.

A Large Attendance Looked For. Special Work for the Encampment To-night—Team Work in the Several Degrees. Wheeling will again have within her borders this week a large number of representative men from all parts of the State. Last week the Masons held their Grand Lodge meeting here; this week the Odd Fellows will be here in force. They will meet with a warm welcome from the local brethren and will doubtless find their visit a profitable one.

THE GRAND ENCAMPMENT will meet at 10 o'clock this morning, and judging from the reports received from the subordinate Encampments it is expected that there will be a larger attendance at this Encampment than at any other meeting ever held. This evening Wheeling Encampment No. 11 will hold a special meeting for the purpose of exemplifying the work before the Grand Encampment. The three degrees will be conferred on a candidate.

THE GRAND LODGE OF Odd Fellows will meet to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. In addition to a full attendance of representatives a number of Past Grand Masters from all parts of the State are expected. To-morrow Local Team No. 2 will confer the Initiatory and First Degrees, and Team No. 1 will confer the Second and Third Degrees on Wednesday evening of this week in the presence of the members of the Grand Lodge and all brethren who may attend. This will be a good opportunity to see these teams work, as they propose to do their very best in honor of and entertainment of the members of the Grand Encampment and Grand Lodge.

YESTERDAY'S HOGAN MEETING. In Spite of the Rain the People Turn Out in Crowds. Ben Hogan, the ex-prize fighter, gambler and saloonist, assisted by Evangelist Charles Sawyer, of New York, has started in on the fifth week of his evangelistic work here. Despite the horrible weather of yesterday all the meetings were largely attended. In the afternoon "Hogan's Tabernacle" was filled with children, none of whom had probably ever seen the inside of a Sunday school. Many of them were veritable Arabs, who had been induced to come by a missionary Hogan had out during the week dramming them up. They behaved pretty well under the circumstances and to greatly enjoy the singing and the stereoscopic pictures shown. Last night people turned away from the Tabernacle unable to obtain entrance. There were practically three meetings held before the meeting was over.

MR. SAWYER spoke at the Zane Street church in the morning and at the First Presbyterian church in the evening. He interested his hearers on both occasions. Big Police Docket. At 2 o'clock this morning there were twenty-eight cases on the blotter at police headquarters for this morning's Police Court. Nearly all of these came from houses of ill fame. Clara Moss was pulled at midnight and five girls and six men caught. Saturday night Jennie Lee's place yielded up three girls and two men, and at Ida Walton's one girl and five men were taken out. The balance of the cases are plain drunks.

The Foresters will hold their first meeting in their new room in the Opera House block on the 30th inst. The lodge room is one of the finest in Eastern Ohio.

THE FOUNDATION for the addition to the Fifth ward school building is completed. Brick layers are now at work on the second story of the new school building in the Third ward. Very little work was done on the Second street paving yesterday on account of the rain. Eight men appeared in the morning to get their work, but were unable to work over an hour or so. The pews will be placed in St. Mary's church this week. The main altar, carpets and other furniture are expected to arrive the latter part of the week. The edifice will be dedicated December 1.

ON SATURDAY work on the Terminal Railway Company's abutment on the De Haes farm, was stopped by the Water Works trustees in order that the matter of spanning the mains might be settled. The plank walk across the fill on North Fifth street is to be replaced. This will be good news to the school board, who have been obliged to wade through so much yellow mud for some time past. The frame house near the stone bridge on Jefferson street, has been torn down to make room for the Terminal railway. This makes the fifth house in the Third ward that has been torn down or moved for the same reason.

PROF. ELWIN E. SPARKS will lecture at Bethesda, November 21, and at the annual meeting of the Eastern Ohio Teacher's Association at Barnesville on the 29th, he will open the discussion on the "Inauguration of Prof. M. At the Lafayette hall on Saturday a large crowd witnessed the roller skating race between Eugene Hanke of Wheeling, and George Gosney, Will Brown, John Kensch and Walter Shilpama, the four "chippies" in one, at a time over half a mile. Hanke won, there being a barrel race to-night.
