

REPUBLICAN ORTHODOXY

Preached by President Harrison in a Strong Letter to the Western States Congress.

Clear Definition of His Position on the Tariff and Silver Question. Wants of the West Defined by Governor Francis.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—The first Western States Congress convened at noon to-day at the Opera House, with delegates present from twenty-four Western and Southern States and Territories. The delegations are composed mainly of business men appointed by the Governors of the various States, and are representative of the Western and Southern people.

Secretary of Agriculture. He suggests that prominence be given to the discussion of those questions affecting the agricultural interests of the country, for the reason that a prosperous agricultural condition will insure prosperity in all other branches of industry. He suggests the subjects of "Transportation," "Markets," and "Federal and State Statistics" as the pivotal questions.

Senator Peffer, of Kansas, wrote that the objects of the Congress must be hearty approval, and expressed the hope that it would be a success. He said that the people of the West were now crying for relief, but the manner of relief should not be by a return to the liberal Congress. It was necessary now for the West to stand together; there were many things that the West desired, in the advocacy of which the people of the West were united.

President after acknowledging the receipt of an invitation to be present, and expressing his regret at being unable to do so on account of his trip, wrote as follows: "A public discussion of the conditions affecting agricultural and business prosperity cannot but be helpful, if it is conducted on broad lines, and if it is a discussion of the West as a whole, and not a discussion of the West as a part of the West."

Charles Francis Adams, of Boston, wrote that it would not be profitable for him to prepare an address such as he had been invited to present to the Congress. His views, he said, were so radical that they would not be acceptable to such a body as the Congress proposed would necessarily be. While he recognized the hardships of the present situation in the West, he believed that the only way to meet the situation was by a more liberal and more energetic action.

Dealing simply with the subject prepared for discussion by the Congress, he said that he did not believe there were any general business and agricultural depression except that due to natural and temporal causes; that the West was not in a general depression, but that it was in a depression of the West as a whole, and not of the West as a part of the West.

Chicago, April 14.—The Executive Committee of the World's Fair and Miss Phoebe Cousins, Secretary of the Board, have struck another rock of offense. They are now at loggerheads over the plan of the fair, which was presented in the civil court of the Superior Court by State Attorney Doolittle, one of the counsel for Judge Morris. Proceedings were brought by the fair committee against Miss Cousins, and she was ordered to appear before the court on Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Nothing New Developed Yesterday—Attorney-General Caldwell Wanted in the Case.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—There was nothing new developed in the West Virginia direct tax case to-day. It is understood that the arguments before the Attorney General will not be heard until some time after the 5th of May. Governor Wilson has some other legal business to attend to previous to that date and he also desires to have Attorney General Caldwell take part in the argument. No further action of any kind will be taken in the matter until an opinion is rendered by the Department of Justice.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—In pursuance to the notification of the Treasury Department that it would afford assistance through its records, for States entitled to money under the Direct Tax act in trust for individuals, to ascertain who the individuals are from whom the tax was collected, several States have begun to employ clerks in tracing these accounts. In West Virginia, the State of Tennessee has completed their work, finding that 35,000 people in that State are entitled to an average payment of $12 per head.

THE WORK OF EVICTING

Strikers from Coke Companies' Houses Begun Yesterday.

FOOTBALL, Pa., April 14.—The great strike is believed to be gradually nearing its close. Breaks from the ranks of the strikers were reported from all parts of the region to-day. At the Lehigh plant over one hundred men reported for work, and at the Painter works, the Coalbrook works are running full, and forces are at work at the other plants. Great suffering is reported among the strikers. At the headquarters it is said that a dozen families are starving and the strikers generally are calling for aid. The feeling against the leaders is becoming bitter and threats of what they may expect if their demands are not met are being made. Unless there is a radical change in their position very soon, it is thought there will be a stampede among the strikers to return to work.
