

FAITH CURIST CRAZE

The Religious Excitement at Round Lake, New York, Increasing

JEWELS RAIN UPON THE ALTAR

In Response to the Appeal for Mission Money—Ladies Tear Diamonds from Their Persons and Give them to the Cause—Even a Kentucky Colonel is Moved to Sacrifice His Watch and Chain.

New York, July 16.—Parson A. B. Simpson's Faith Curist camp-meeting at Round Lake, near Saratoga, is attracting widespread attention.

The Rev. Mr. Simpson himself is the central figure, and the marvelous ability which he is exhibiting as a money raiser is rapidly giving him a world-wide reputation.

Apparently all that he needs to do when he feels the need of funds to carry on his Christian alliance, is to make his wants known to his enthusiastic followers, and they will at once strip themselves of all their earthly belongings and cast them in his feet.

Such is the religious fervor of the camp-meeting people that one day this week when the preacher called for $500 to send just one more missionary to carry the gospel to the benighted heathen, Col. Burkhardt, of Kentucky, jumped up and pulling his costly gold watch and chain out of his pocket, went up and laid it on the altar.

"That's the way to give," said the Rev. Mr. Simpson. "Give up your pride; give the jeopardizing adornments of your perishing bodies."

This appeal so stirred his hearers that the women present began to show their rings and jewels upon the altar. Miss Louise Shepard, of this city, was one of the first to strip off her diamond rings and bracelets and lay them before the preacher.

In a few moments $1,500 worth of jewelry was piled up on the pulpit desk and the big congregation broke out with "Praise God, from Whom all Blessings Flow."

Miss Shepard was one of the leading belles of Saratoga a year ago, but now she has become converted to the Faith-Curists' creed and is one of the most enthusiastic followers of the sect.

Everybody seems to be carried away by the craze, but those who saw the offerings of money and jewels the other day say that the peculiarity of the occasion was that there was no manifestation of undue excitement among the congregation.

Those who contributed to the treasury of the Alliance simply walked up to the table in front of the desk and quietly laid their gifts upon it.

At one time there was quite a crowd about the pulpit, but there was no disorder or disturbance about it. Afterwards Miss Shepard and Colonel Burkhardt took the platform and addressed the meeting.

It is said that Colonel Burkhardt has already given $10,000 in cash to help along the work of the Christian Alliance, and that many others have given money in sums from $100 to $1,000. Such contributions as these are matters of daily occurrence.

Miss Shepard's mother lives at the Berachah Home, or House of Rest, at 250 West Forty-eighth street, which is the headquarters for the Christian Alliance in this city.

Both she and her daughter have contributed largely to the funds of the Alliance, though it is said that they do not possess great means, and have personally interested themselves in the work under the Rev. Mr. Simpson, the Rev. A. E. Frink and others, who are at the head of the order.

Miss Shepard is twenty-two years old, of medium height, graceful figure, with dark hair and eyes. Since she became a member of Mr. Simpson's Gospel Tabernacle and professed religion some six months ago, she has been untiring in her zeal and earnestness for the cause of faith cure.

Some of the members of the church believe that Miss Shepard is an heiress and possesses vast wealth, all of which she is going to devote to the cause of the Alliance.

It was only a few weeks ago that Joseph Battin, a wealthy and aged resident of Elizabeth, N. J., gave a large amount of real estate in New York City to Mr. Simpson's Alliance.

The property decided was worth $50,000, and this, in addition to previous gifts by Mr. Battin to the same cause, make a total of something like $150,000.

As Mr. Battin is a decidedly eccentric old gentleman, it was believed by many that undue influence had been used to secure these gifts, especially when his children were represented as very much displeased with this sort of wholesale generosity.

Both the Rev. Mr. Simpson and the Rev. Mr. Frink, however, denied that any influence whatever had been employed and declared they had no knowledge of Mr. Battin's intention until they received the gifts.

It is said that Mr. Battin is now at Round Lake with the other worshippers at the shrine of Faith Cure and the Rev. A. B. Simpson.

In addition to giving the money and jewels to spread Gospel among the heathen, several of the Round Lake enthusiasts have pledged their children to the service of the cause.

The Rev. N. H. Walker, of Bridgeport, Conn., got up in one of the meetings and announced that he would give his daughter of thirteen to the work, as he had no money or diamonds to contribute.

The Alliance will take charge of her and educate her, and when she reaches a proper age will be sent out into the missionary field.

NO TRUTH IN IT.

Lord Randolph Churchill Will not Sue for a Divorce.

LONDON, July 16.—The story cabled to New York that Lord Randolph Churchill is about to sue for divorce, naming the Duke of Clarence and Avondale as co-respondent, is pronounced a pure fabrication. Lord Randolph is in Africa, and will not return here for six months at least.

The story probably gained its origin in the fact that three years ago the Duke, who was then Prince Albert Victor, became enamored of Lady Ranolph, but she sensibly sent him about his business and laughed him out of his call love. Since then he has devoted his attention almost entirely to young, unmarried ladies, and has behaved himself remarkably well.

As there is no royal road to learning, so there is no magical cure for disease. The effect, however, of taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for the blood disorders comes as near magic as can be expected of any mere human agency. This is due to its purity and strength.

CONVICT HALL'S LUCK.

Yesterday a Prisoner, To-day a Clerk in His Former Prison.

TRENTON, N. J., July 16.—William A. Hall, who was yesterday a convict in the State prison here, is to-day a free man and the occupant of a $1,200 clerkship in the prison in which for nearly ten years he has been confined.

The pardon of William A., better known as "Oakey" Hall, and his appointment to a responsible position in the prison, marks the close of an interesting chapter in the municipal history of Newark.

Ten years ago Hall was chief clerk in the Newark Comptroller's office. Frederick A. Palmer was Auditor, and he was stealing by the thousands. Palmer kept at his thieving until it amounted to nearly $300,000.

"I found out that he was helping himself," said Hall, afterwards, "and I thought I'd do the same. I took $50,000."

Fiedler was Mayor of Newark then. He suspected that all was not right in the city hall and sent a message to the Common Council urging an investigation.

The Mayor, a Democrat, was fiercely assailed by the Republicans for his insinuation. The outcry scared Auditor Palmer, and before any active steps were taken he startled the community by confessing.

Palmer was sent to State Prison and died there.

Hall fled to Canada, but was captured and after a long legal struggle was extradited, tried on the charge of embezzling funds from the Comptroller's office, convicted and sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment.

He never told what he did with his stolen money, nor did Palmer, and neither was charged with being extravagant.

Hall took his imprisonment philosophically and became well liked in the institution. It is said that the ticket-of-leave law was first agitated for his benefit.

When the Court of Pardons met yesterday afternoon in the Governor's quarters at the State Camp, Sen. Girt, the prison authorities recommended that a pardon be granted Hall, whose term, less commutation for good behavior, was within three months of expiration.

The pardon was further urged on the ground that Hall had saved the State $3,000 during the last eight years by performing certain clerical duties. As soon as the pardon was granted it was announced that Hall had been appointed to a $1,200 clerkship in the State prison.

THE GLUCOSE TRUST.

The Story that an English Syndicate has Bought the Factories is Untrue.

New York, July 16.—The rumors in circulation that an English syndicate has secured control of the glucose product of America and has closed contracts for the purchase of the principal glucose plants, is denied emphatically by the officials in this city and companies engaged in this business.

Gen. Hiram Duryea, president of the National Starch Company, which owns the factory at Glencove, N. Y., said yesterday: "The statement in a telegram from Chicago, that we have disposed of our glucose property to an English syndicate is wholly untrue. I am aware that rumors are in circulation that a glucose trust has been formed by English capitalists, but am satisfied that the report has no foundation. In fact, I can state positively that no negotiations for our property are in progress and I am aware of no movements of any kind in this direction."

TWO SISTERS DROWNED

In the Susquehanna River While Boating for Pleasure.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 16.—Two sisters, Kate and Mary McGowan, aged eighteen and twenty years, respectively, whose home was at Avoca, were drowned in the Susquehanna river here about 10 o'clock last night. They were out boating with James Lane, aged seventeen years. Suddenly the boat began to fill with water, and before they could return to shore it sank. Other pleasure seekers on the river at first thought the cries for help were given in fun, and when they realized the facts they were unable to render help.

Young Lane managed to save his own life, after a fruitless effort to rescue one of the girls, by swimming ashore after his companions drowned.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Matters of Interest to the Intelligence of Farmer Readers.

When grass is allowed to produce seed it exhausts the soil more than when a crop of hay is cut before the seeds are permitted to appear. When seed heads form the plant has fulfilled its mission, and has stored in the seeds a larger proportion of the mineral elements than remains in the stalks of the plants, in many cases, as the green plants, when cut down early, consist largely of water. A grain crop and a crop of seed from grass deprive the soil of a proportion of all the fertilizing substances existing therein.

Crab grass will now begin to take possession of the ground. The only mode of keeping it down is to kill it when it first appears. After it becomes established it can only be thoroughly removed with the hoe. Among the seedling strawberries this season is a variety that clears itself from the stem when picked, but it is not adapted for shipping long distances. As a berry for fancy use, however, it is excellent, being very sweet. It needs no stemming after it is removed from the vine.

Strawberries have been grown to an enormous size this season. Mr. William Elvins, of Hommonston, N. J., who ships thousands of quarts to market, filled some of the boxes with only thirty berries to each box, some of the berries being three inches in diameter. If the strawberry continues to improve in size at the present rate of progress it will soon be as large as the apple. Already berries have been produced that were larger than plums.

Heavy sod ground is not easily reduced, but if corn is planted on such land the keeping down of the grass will cause the sod to rot, and when the next crop is planted less work will be required. One of the best fertilizers, and the cheapest, is lime. When lime is freely used and applied every year, the soil becomes more easily worked, the available proportion of plant food is increased, and the manure more quickly decomposed.

In giving salt to animals it should be done in a manner to allow each animal to partake of as much as it desires and prefers, instead of giving the salt in the food, thereby compelling some animals to use more salt than they wish. Each animal has its individual preference, and the proper mode of allowing salt is to place it where the animals can have access to it at all times, as each will use only the amount needed.

The rosebush is an enemy that is very difficult to destroy. They come in countless millions, and attack all kinds of fruits. The grasshopper plague is not to be feared more than the rosebugs. As yet no certain remedy has been discovered for combating them, as it is difficult to poison them unless the poison is used in such quantities as to damage the trees and fruit as well as adding largely to the expense.

It is claimed for land plaster that even in times of drought it keeps the plants green by absorbing moisture from the atmosphere. In some sections, where plaster has been scattered around the hills of corn, this claim has been verified, the stalks that had plaster around them not only showing a greener tinge, but also withstanding drought better than the stalks to which no plaster had been applied.

There is quite a difference in trees that have been properly pruned and those that have been allowed to grow too much wood, so far as the thrift of the trees are concerned, as the trees that have been cut back will produce more new wood, send out more rootlets and be in better condition for producing a crop of fruit the next bearing season.

Experiments made in spraying one side of the peach trees with insecticides and leaving the other side untouched confirm the claim that the depredations of the curculio and other insects can be prevented, as the comparison of the trees show great advantages resulting from spraying.

Do not be afraid to plant more peas for a late supply. If the fall-growing varieties are used it will do but little injury if they fall over. Do not be deterred from planting because of the difficulty of providing supports, as they may be omitted.

It may be much easier to allow the trees to have the branches high in order to permit the horse and cultivator to work near the trees, but the trees that are cut back and kept low can be easier and better harvested of the fruit.

When cucumbers are planted place some brush near the hills, so that the vines can climb on the brush for support. In this manner the young cucumbers intended for pickling can be more easily picked.

When the pig-pen gives off an odor that reaches to the dwelling-house, it indicates that more composting material is needed in the pen.

After each rain the cultivator should be used if the young weeds are to be removed, and the soil prevented from baking and becoming hard.

If the young corn is slow coming up, replant at once. Cool nights and too much moisture in the soil may have caused the seed to rot.

One protection against borers around trees is air-slaked lime, liberally applied, first removing the earth around the tree.

Kill the peach-borer, whitewash well around the trunk, and then bank up the earth around the trees.

DRY ITCHING SCALDS THAT CRACKED AND POPPED OPEN.

LENDLEY, STEUBEN Co., N. Y., April 11, 1890. FOSTER, MILBURN & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

GENTLEMEN:—When about ten or twelve years old I was troubled with cracks across the palm of my left hand, and when they healed the trouble broke out on my head, and every winter it would come out as a sort of tetter and make scales all over my head. I have not been free from it a single winter since, but it was worse last winter after I had the grippe, for then it came out in spots all over my body. I had a doctor examine me, and he told me that there was no cure for me. I got worse and worse. Scales would form over the sores and then dry out until they would crack and pop open, showing a watery matter. My skin was all like a dry wrapper. It felt as though it had dried on me. The scales were so bad that they would collect in the bed and have to be shaken out. It was about this time that I commenced using B. B. B. I was so bad that I was ashamed to take my hat off before a neighbor. I had used five bottles of another medicine without noticing any effect; but when I commenced to take B. B. B. the sores came out thicker than before, and they burned like fire; they were immense blotches of fire that would burn so I could not sleep. The way they burned and itched can not be told, and I hope no one else may ever know from experience. The only relief I could get was from washing the sores with some B. B. B.

I stuck to the medicine and was on the fourth bottle before I could see that I was really better, although I knew that it was better to get such rottenness out of my blood than to have it stay there. I did say once that I wished I had never commenced taking B. B. B., but my wife encouraged me, and to-day I thank her for the advice, for I am in good health now, and I don't believe I ever would have been with my blood in such a condition as it was.

My scalp now is clean and clear of all scales and tetter, and on my body there are only small spots to show where the sores were, and these spots are free from scales. I do not doubt but that the cure will be perfect.

I am now on the sixth bottle and will take more until every spot is gone. I firmly believe that Burdock Blood Bitters will cure the worst disorders of the blood, for such certainly was mine.
